[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The United States navy radio today carried orders for the first joint British-American naval demonstration in the war torn far east.

Three of the four American cruisers en route to Australia to participate in the sesquicentennial of the settlement of that continent received orders to proceed to Singapore immediately after the ceremonies at Sydney. The vessels were instructed to participate in the dedication of naval docks Feb. 14 at the British naval base at Singapore.

Great significance was atttached to the dispatch of the cruisers on what is tantamount to a wartime maneuver. It will gather British and American naval vessels on one of Japan's life lines.

Two Japanese Supply Lines.

Japan has two avenues of supply for essential materials which she cannot produce. One lies through the Indian ocean and is blocked by the heavily fortified naval base, which in British-American coöperation would be back-stopped by the Philippines.

The other lies in the Pacific ocean through the Panama canal or the little used route around Cape Horn at the southern tip of South America. This could be blocked effectively by American forces.

The Singapore orders gave rise to open talk of British-American coöperation against Japan, which has been whispered by military and navy experts since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese conflict. The talk of an alliance was churned by other significant naval developments during the day.

Three Naval Developments.

These developments were:

1. The navy department recommended to President Roosevelt that congress be asked to revise the Vinson-Trammell act to enable the United States to build in excess of limitations of the defunct naval treaties.

2. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison discussed increasing auxiliary naval vessels which would enable the navy to operate farther away from present bases.

3. Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, conferred with Secretary of State Hull and far eastern division experts for more than an hour during the afternoon.

Jap Repercussions Expected.

It was considered significant that the visit of the American cruisers to Singapore was arranged through the state department. The invitation was extended through the British foreign office, because such a visit could not escape causing repercussions in Japan.

The department referred to the visit as a courtesy call. The same term was employed at the navy department, but it was accompanied by smiles from officers bent over maps of the southern Pacific.

The three light cruisers which will make the Singapore call are the Trenton, the Milwaukee, and the Memphis. The heavy cruiser Louisville was not mentioned in the orders.

The squadron will be commanded by Rear Admiral Julius C. Townsend on the Singapore visit.

Report Japanese Plans.

Military experts have said that Japan's plan of world conquest can be halted effectively only through British-American coöperation. It has been reported that Japan has such plans under a secret program, known as the Tanaka memorial, which was presented to Emperor Hirohito by Baron Tanaka, the late iron premier. These reports indicate that the first step toward world conquest was given in the plan as occupation of China, to begin with the seizure of Manchuria and Mongolia, now well under way. PERIL OF SLUMP EXCEEDS 1929'S, DEMOCRAT SAYS

Rep. Cox Pleads for Co-operation.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The house was warned today by Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] that the prevailing business recession holds greater possibilities of peril for the government and the nation than the economic overturn of 1929.

Cox voiced the alarm which is increasing among Democrats concerning the failure of the administration to remedy business conditions and slash unemployment. He pleaded for a coöperative effort to avert further recession "regardless of any desire for any personal or political aggrandizement."

"We must keep uppermost in mind the fact that if disaster comes to this nation, it will ruin all of us alike, with not one escaping the consequences," he told members.

Appropriaton Bill Up.

His remarks came as the house took up consideration of the second large appropriation bill of the 1938 session—that providing a billion and a half dollars to run the treasury and postoffice departments for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Cox said that the federal debt would be above 40 billions by 1940. The nation has been worn out by spending and cannot stand another depression, he declared.

"We cannot contemplate the spending of another 16 billion dollars by the federal government and still other billions by the local communities to be pyramided on top of the present public debt, which has already mortgaged the prospects of America far into the future," he asserted.

Points to Antagonisms.

Moreover, Cox declared, there have arisen in the country sectional and factional antagonisms, class division and prejudices which were not present in 1929. He indirectly reproached President Roosevelt for assisting in this fomenting of class hatreds, remarking that "incrimination and recrimination have been the weapons of political strife" and stating that the inflammation of the classes began five years ago when the President entered the White House.

"There is no such thing as financial security or social security in this country for any man, any group, or any class, regardless of wealth or power, with a third or a half of our citizens unemployed, partially employed, hungry, sullen, and desperate," he declared.

Urges Facing of Facts.

"To ignore the plain peril of this condition is to invite its worst effects. To be afraid to face facts, study their causes, and then courageously to move to eliminate or to remedy them is the most dangerous form of cowardice that could be indulged in at this time.

"The danger that must be avoided now is that in the confusion of this new threat to the security and prosperity of the nation, and in the distraction of these new economic dislocations, small minorities seeking to bring about Fascistic or communistic rule in this country may be able, by chanting hymns of hate, by stirring up false prejudices, and by inflaming a misinformed and deluded public opinion, to arraign class against class, and thereby aggravate the very conditions which are responsible for the present recession."

Silver Policy Attacked.

From the other side of the aile came a Republican attack upon the treasury's "silver purchase racket." Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, anounced that he would conduct a drive to wipe out of the pending bill all appropriations for carrying on the purchase of silver which has cost the treasury an average of 150 millions annually during the last four years.

"Under the silver purchase act, the secretary of the treasury has been buying silver since January, 1934," Taber said. "The price of silver since then has ranged from 64 cents to 77 cents. The price for newly mined silver produced in the United States at the moment is 64 cents. World silver is being paid for by the government and the government is absorbing into the treasury all the silver mined everywhere that is not used in the arts."

British Clerics Back Theory of Evolution

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The modernists' version of the evolutionary creation of the earth was given support today in a report issued by the Church of England's commission on Christian doctrin, which has been laboring for 14 years to clarify many disputed points in the church's theology.

The Biblical account of creation provides "no objection" to the theories of evolution, said the report, described by some church leaders as the most important Anglican document in almost 400 years. The commission said emphatically, however, that the universe "depends upon the creative will of God."

Divorce Left Unsettled.

"No objection to a theory of evolution can be drawn from the two creation narratives in Genesis I. and II.," said the report, "since it is generally agreed among educated Christians that these are mythological in origin and that their value for us is symbolical, rather than historical."

On divorce, the virgin birth, angels, miracles and similar questions on which even theologians have disagreed immemorially, the commission, headed by the archbishop of York, was able to provide little clarity in its 272 page report. The document admitted that the divorce issue had not been settled, and left the way clear for proper dispute within the church on points which might be interpreted as myth or as history.

Marriage in Special Position.

"Marriage," said the report, "stands in a special position because, both as a rite and as a state of life, it is not something peculiarly Christian, but rather is an institution of a natural order which is taken into and sanctified by the Christian church. The teaching of the New Testament which clearly has its basis in the teaching of Our Lord himself, implies marriage is, in its own principle, a lifelong intimate union and anything short of this falls short of the purpose of God.

"In the case of two Christian persons freely undertaking before God to enter on a lifelong marriage union, grace is afforded, which, if reliance is fully placed upon it, will enable the persons concerned to fulfill the obligations involved and to rise to the opportunities offered in their married life in spite of all difficulties, however grave."

Clerics Can't Agree.

After that obscure conclusion the commission recommended that a special commission be named to clarify the ethical, moral, and other aspects of marriage which, it said, cannot be dealt with in a doctrinal report.

On the matters of whether the virgin birth is a fact or myth, whether or not Christ's tomb was empty on Easter day, and whether the gospel miracles should be taken as history or imagery, there was such a conflict of opinion that the commission did not venture an answer. Some of the clerics held that God did not want to perform miracles, said the report, and others believed that this view would lead to "monotonous uniformity."

QUIZ SHOWS SPINACH (YES, SPINACH!) BOYS' FAVORITE VEGETABLE!

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—On the basis of a questionnaire answered by 22,416 boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 16, spinach is the favorite vegetable of boys. The poll, conducted by the New York Boys' Athletic league, showed that spinach is second on the girls' vegetable list, and that for meat boys prefer turkey, with hash as second choice. Ice cream was tops as dessert with 66 per cent of the girls and 38 per cent of the boys, who think pie and pudding are pretty good, too.

Flees U. S. to Avoid Taxes; Canada Gets Half Million

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Jan. 13.—Advices from Quebec today said it was announced that the estate of the late Col. Jacob Schick, millionaire United States razor manufacturer, had paid $500,000 in succession duties to the provincial government. Schick, who died last summer, had established residence in Montreal two years ago in an effort to avoid taxation payments in the United States.

Wedding of Ex-Kaiser's Grandson to Be at Doorn

DOORN, The Netherlands, Jan. 13.—At the wish of former Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany, the wedding of his favorite grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, and Grand Duchess Kira of Russia will be celebrated here, probably late in April, it was learned today. Their engagement was announced two weeks ago. The ex-kaiser may go anywhere he pleases, but prefers to remain here, so the wedding was set for Doorn.

Tipton, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—William A. Charles, who always drove a good automobile even though he is a retired carriage manufacturer, laughed when he heard the horn on his car blasting loudly, thinking it was some one amusing himself. Eventually, however, truth dawned. His garage was afire, and so was the automobile.

Glowing Shirt Front Crisis Stirs Britain

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—London's underworld has long feared the science of thumb traceries [fingerprinting]. What fashionable Mayfair fears is the new usage to which fluorescent ink is being put by laundries specializing in hardboiled shirts.

An owner of hardboiled shirts may now find himself in a baldhead row of a London theater with his bosom all spotted up with strange hieroglyphics unless he picks out a show where they do not have light bulbs that work on fluorescent laundry ink.

New Bulb Developed.

Many London laundries have been marking linen with fluorescent ink which cannot be seen in ordinary light but is plainly visible when subjected to ultra violet rays. Recently the British Thomson Houston Electrical company put out a bulb working right off an ordinary current which gives off such rays. The bulb is specially coated and looks black in daylight. When lit is glows with a faint purple light.

Other uses for the new bulb were sought. Some theaters here hit upon the idea of using fluorescent ink for programs, seat numbers, and edges of steps and gangways and lighting the interior of a theater during performances with three or four black bulbs.

Laundry Marks Gleam.

It worked all right until the gents in the orchestra seats began to notice they were all spotted up with mysterious blue letters on their chests. The laundry marks on their dress shirts had become visible.

So, when one sends his hardboiled shirt out now to a Chinese laundry or elsewhere he specifies "no ink."

Cowboy Lets Down His Hair and Defies Blasts of Winter

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Cowboy Frank Keefer let his hair down and told about it today. "The ranch is just too durned far from town, so four years ago I took to letting my hair grow," he said. "It's a foot and a half long now. In winter I comb it over my ears and neck. For town wear I braid the long ends."

Holds Miners for $117,000 Plot Damage

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Distinguishing between the right to strike and a conspiracy to prevent production, Federal Judge Fred L. Wham today ordered sixty-six members of the Progressive Mine Workers of America and seven locals of the union to pay $117,000 for damage caused by a long and bitter strike at a coal mine near Freeburg, Ill.

The United Electric Coal company had sought $400,000 for losses in a three year strike at its Red Ray mine. The labor controversy existed from April 1, 1933, to Feb. 11, 1936.

"This decision affects every laboring man in the United States because it is a direct blow at the right to strike," declared George Dowell of Duquoin, attorney for the union. He said the union would exhaust every legal means in an effort to overturn the award.

Compares Strike and Plot.

However, Judge Wham differentiated between the unquestioned right of workers to strike and a well organized plot to interfere with the operations of a company. He held that unions are responsible for losses due to unlawful acts committed while a strike is in progress.

"No one questions," the judge said, "that employés have the right to strike or to quit work at any time. Though the employer may have to quit business and may suffer heavy losses by reason of such strike, the striking employés are not liable for damages so suffered, as they have done only that which they have a lawful right to do.

"But labor unions, officers of labor unions and other sympathizers who, during the progress of a strike, enter into a conspiracy to inflict violent injury upon an employer or upon his property or business and in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy do, by violent and other unlawful conduct, inflict injury upon the property or business of such employer, or by such unlawful means do obstruct its business or prevent it from conducting its business—are each liable to respond in damages for such loss or injury so inflicted."

Recovery Is Limited.

Judge Wham limited the company to recovery for losses allegedly incurred between Sept. 7, 1934, and Jan. 20, 1936, when the mine opened. He held there had not been a deliberate conspiracy in the controversy prior to that period.

The $117,000 judgment was made up of $70,000 for net profits that would have been derived from operation of the mine, $22,000 overhead losses, and $25,000 shutdown expenses. The judge ruled the company was entitled to actual but not punitive damages or interest on the award.

The company had claimed it lost $300,000 in business in the period that mass picketing and violence caused it to close, and was forced to spend $100,000 for maintenance.

The 66 defendants were officers of locals, subdistrict officers, and state union leaders in 1933 and 1934. About 30 of them were employés of the United Electric Coal company.

LEFTIST REGIME FORCED TO QUIT BY SOCIALISTS

Franc Falls; Labor Troubles Grow.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 14.—[Friday]—The Popular Front government of Premier Camille Chautemps fell early today after nine Socialist ministers resigned from the cabinet and withdrew Socialist support from the government.

This forced the government to quit. The end of the Popular Front alliance of Socialists, communists, and Radical Socialists followed two days of quarreling between Chautemps and the communists over the premier's demand for an end of labor violence.

The cabinet breakup took place while Chautemps was awaiting the chamber of deputies' action on a vote of confidence he had demanded for his program of social peace, freedom of monetary exchanges, and the budgetary equilibrium. Chautemps had demanded power to use all the government's authority, including the armed forces of the nation to maintain social peace.

Truck Drivers' Parade Routed.

The fall of the government, which had been in power nearly seven months, came after an exciting day in which labor strikes grew, disorders flared in the streets and a run on the franc assumed serious proportions. The value of the nation's currency dropped steadily through the day.

The labor disorders took place when 1,500 striking truck drivers marched in the boulevards of central Paris singing the "Internationale." Police dispersed them.

Speaks to Deputies Three Times.

Facing this situation the cabinet, which had succeeded the government of the Socialist Leon Blum last June, held a three hour emergency session. Chautemps then appeared three times before the chamber to plead for support. There were two recesses, during which the Socialists discussed the decision which held the fate of the government.

The Popular Front cabinet was composed of Radical Socialists and Socialists and had the support of the communists in parliament.

Releases Communists.

In his third speech to the chamber Chautemps said to the communists, "I give you your liberty," and told them to vote as they pleased. This angered the communists and the Socialists as well. The Socialists retired for the meeting which led to their withdrawal. Earlier, after the second session of the chamber, they had voted, 75 to 36, to keep their ministers in the cabinet even though they opposed Chautemps' determination to maintain freedom of monetary exchanges.

Chautemps' split with the communists began two days ago when the premier laid down the ultimatum that stay-in strikes must cease. A communist delegate remarked:

"What would you do if the Renault automobile works were occupied by 30,000 strikers?" [which was the case during the régime of former Premier Leon Blum last year].

Chautemps replied he would "drive them out if it took two army corps."

Franc Hits Toboggan.

The most alarming event of the day was the decline in the value of the nation's currency.

The franc closed Wednesday at 29.5375 to the dollar. Yesterday it closed at 29.93 to the dollar, but after the close, in unofficial bank trading, slid to 30.20 to the dollar.

Chautemps conferred with Pierre Fournier, the governor of the Bank of France, on means of combating the run on the franc, which in a few days had virtually exhausted the exchange equalization fund set up to stabilize the franc.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos sent a diplomatic SOS to London and Washington asking coöperation in beating down speculators against the franc. Finance Minister Georges Bonnet announced administrative measures to achieve the same end within the country—as one measure, it was reported that the bourse would be closed tomorrow to give business men time to get their nerves under control again.

Chautemps' main counter attack, however, was launched on the political front in the chamber of deputies. After criticizing French capitalists who, he believed, were exploiting the financial crisis to break up the Popular Front, he turned his fire on the communists.

"I demand that every one immediately renounce the use of violence," he said. "If certain men do not heed my appeal, the forces of law will fall on them."

Refers to Wave of Strikes.

He referred to the wave of strikes which has swept France recently.

Since the week before Christmas, when Goodrich Rubber workers in Paris struck, union after union has called its members out. Many of these strikes have been settled by government arbitration, but the widespread social unrest focused attention on growing differences within the Popular Front.

The strikes had their origin in one phase of France's financial problem, the rising cost of living, and intensified another phase, lack of confidence in the franc. This lack of confidence resulted largely from the great treasury deficit facing the government.

Has Unreported Budget.

Nominally, the ordinary French budget is in balance for 1938 at approximately $1,800,000,000. In addition to this, however, France has an extraordinary budget which opponents of the government have asserted would cause a treasury deficit which some persons estimated as high as $1,350,000,000.

The greater portion of this deficit is due to army and navy expenditures caused by international tension. It is France's avowed intention to have a navy equal to those of Germany and Italy combined and plans were indicated Wednesday to build two 42,000 ton battleships—to offset two new Italian ones—at a cost of $60,000,000.

LOWEST SINCE 1926

A new French monetary crisis, the third in 15 months, yesterday brought a wide break in the value of the franc in the New York foreign exchange market. The currency fell to the lowest level in relation to the American dollar since 1926.

At the low point the franc was quoted at 3.235 cents, compared with Wednesday's closing quotation of 3.395. It recovered partly later and the final quotation in New York was 3.285.

Heavy selling of francs by speculators and others began a week ago when the report of the Bank of France disclosed that the government had again had to resort to temporary borrowings from the bank to meet its financial obligations. An increase of $176,000,000 in temporary advances to the state was shown in the statement bringing the total "temporary" credits advanced to more than a billion dollars.

Steady Until Yesterday.

Despite the heavy selling that had persisted for several days the franc's value was maintained comparatively steady until yesterday's collapse. The stabilization fund on Tuesday and Wednesday this week was reported to have sold British and American exchange amounting to about $40,000,000 in its supporting operations.

Both the British and American currency stabilization funds were said to be operating with the French authorities in trying to maintain an orderly market, but there was no evidence that either country was giving active support to the franc.

The franc's all time low mark was 1.96 cents, established in 1926 before the Poincare stabilization program was begun.

Cabinet Resigns

ADLAI STEVENSON HOME OF STEEL SWEPT BY BLAZE

The summer and week-end home of Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, in St. Mary's road, about five miles east of Libertyville, was virtually destroyed by fire early today. The house, made of steel, was one of the largest prefabricated steel residences in the country and was considered fireproof. It reputedly cost $22,000.

The fire started in the basement and was discovered by James Davidson, the caretaker. He ran to the home of Glenn Lloyd, a lawyer, two blocks away, and Mr. Lloyd and his caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Busch, called the Lake Forest and Libertyville fire departments, then went to the scene to help. Col. George Voevodsky, a more distant neighbor, also assisted. Neighboring buildings, including a stable, were protected. The fire destroyed the costly interior of the home. Loss was estimated at $40,000 by Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. Stevenson, a Chicago lawyer, is a grandson of Adlai E. Stevenson, Vice President of the United States in the second term of President Grover Cleveland. His wife, the former Ellen Borden, is the daughter of John Borden and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter.

URGES SCHOOLS PAY A SHARE OF AIRPORT COSTS

The board of education should pay part of the costs of removing the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks from Chicago airport, Mayor Kelly asserted yesterday. The track removal will materially increase the value of the square mile of land on which the airport is located, the mayor said, and since the school board owns this land it would be only fair for the board to contribute toward the improvement.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, has promised to cooperate with the mayor to expedite the airport expansion program. Mayor Kelly indicated he would confer with McCahey on the subject next week.

Senate Group Opens Fraud Inquiry.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Members of the senate committee on public lands expressed amazement today upon learning that the interior department of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, with an espionage system which admittedly has tapped telephone wires and which has been accused of shadowing senators and representatives, failed for almost four years to uncover the peculations of a $2,300 voucher clerk who got away with $85,000 by maintaining a mythical CCC camp.

The senate committee, which is considering the nomination of Ebert K. Burlew to be first assistant secretary of the interior, summoned the records and the investigators for a thorough exploration of the case of Reno E. Stitely, former chief of the voucher division of the national park service, who appropriated the administrative pay roll of a dummy CCC camp in the Shenandoah national park from August, 1933, until April, 1937.

Committee to Hear Glavis.

The committee also decided to hear Louis R. Glavis, former director of the interior department's espionage system, on whom Secretary Ickes and Mr. Burlew, his administrative assistant, have placed the blame for wire tapping. Glavis "resigned" in 1936 after a row with Secretary Ickes and there are rumors that he will have plenty to tell when he appears before the senate committee tomorrow.

Mr. Burlew, who was on the stand today, objected both to the calling of Mr. Glavis and to the examination of records in the strange embezzlement case. Senator Frederick Steiwer [R., Ore.] demanded that Glavis be called, saying:

"Mr. Burlew and Secretary Ickes have laid upon Mr. Glavis the responsibility for certain practices. It seems to me that we should have full light on Mr. Burlew's connection with the wire tapping and espionage that went on."

"I merely said that wire tapping did exist," snapped Burlew. "Nobody has charged me with wire tapping.

"Are you resisting my suggestion that Mr. Glavis be called?" asked Senator Steiwer. "That's the only interpretation I can put on your statement."

Denies Resisting Suggestion.

Burlew denied that he was resisting the calling of Glavis, but insisted that he "ought to have a chance to answer him."

Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], chairman of the committee, then ordered Glavis summoned for 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.] demanded that the records of the embezzlement case be produced.

"I think this is a very serious matter," he said. "It seems incomprehensible to me that a clerk in the interior department could draw checks on the war department funds without having any authorization from anybody in the interior department."

Mr. Burlew flared up at this insinuation, protesting:

"Nobody in the interior department knew about it. I'm not responsible for everything a clerk does. I have too much else to do."

Recalls Glavis' Investigations.

Senator Pittman recalled that Glavis had been accused of making himself obnoxious by investigating everybody.

When Senator Pittman insisted on sending for the records of the embezzlement case Burlew protested again:

"May I ask how that involves me? It's in the department. I have nothing to do with it."

"It's quite important," said Senator Pittman, "to know your connection, directly or indirectly or not at all, with all matters in the department. It's quite important to know just how efficient you were."

In response to a telephone call, the records were produced by three operatives of the Ickes secret police, and Secretary Ickes came along with them. He explained to the committee that the director of investigations was ill and that he had brought along D. H. Rosier, assistant director, and two assistants.

The Ickes Gestapo, or OGPU, as some senators call it, consists of 125 operatives and during the heydey of the PWA it had 375.

Cecil G. Miles, an investigator who worked directly on the embezzlement case, did most of the testifying, explaining that the defalcations of Stitely, the clerk, totaled $6,855 from the funds of the national park service itself and an additional $78,024 from the funds of the war department.

Explains Stitely's Method.

As explained by the agent, Stitely made his peculations from the war department by the device of the nonexistent CCC camp. CCC enrollees are recruited and paid by the war department, but for the camps in the national parks the administrative personnel is supplied by the national park service, though paid by the war department.

Stitely, according to Agent Miles, submitted a regular administrative pay roll for the dummy CCC camp each two weeks, filling in fictitious names on the regular voucher form. For the vouchers, he would receive checks from the war department, made out to the fictitious names.

Stitely embezzled the $6,855 from funds of the park service itself by adding fictitious names to authentic pay rolls for CCC workers employed on soil erosion projects. These peculations occurred from April, 1936, to August, 1936, and led to his downfall, Agent Miles said. Stitely pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.

MOUNTING EXPENSE OF FRANKED MAIL IS REPORTED TO HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Two and one-half billion pieces of franked mail have been sent out during the four years of the Roosevelt administration, Representative Ralph J. Engel [R., Mich.], told the house today. Engel referred to President Roosevelt's recent criticism of the subsidy granted newspapers by the postoffice department.

"There is talk about the free distribution of newspapers within county limits," said Engel. "This service costs the government $660,000 a year. It enables the farmer to get his newspaper."

Engel said that in four years, 1934 to 1937, 2,566,500,000 pieces of mail weighing 353,991,000 pounds have been carried free of charge under the government frank. The revenue that the postoffice department would have gained if postage for this mail had been purchased was $120,694,000.

U. S. TELLS REDS TO SPUR SEARCH FOR N. Y. WOMAN

Quest Futile, Moscow Informs Embassy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The United States government put additional pressure on soviet officials today for an explanation of the disappearance of Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens of New York in Moscow last month.

Secretary Hull, who asked the soviet government for information concerning Mrs. Rubens a week ago, invited Soviet Ambassador Troyanovsky to visit him.

During their conversation the secretary of state asked the ambassador to transmit to his government a request for an explanation of the delay in supplying the desired information.

The state department later received a dispatch from Loy Henderson, counselor of the American embassy in Moscow, saying he had called at the foreign office in response to instructions from Washington and had asked for information of Mrs. Rubens.

Henderson said he was informed by the foreign office that, although the matter had been referred to soviet internal authorities immediately upon receipt of the United States' request of Jan. 7, the foreign office had been unable to elicit information. The foreign office promised to request the internal authorities to expedite their reply.

Mrs. Rubens disappeared a week after her husband vanished from their hotel in Moscow early in December.

The agreement whereby the United States recognized the soviet régime in 1933 required the soviet government to report to the American embassy within seventy-two hours the arrest of any American citizen in that country.

Doctor Delivers a Baby, Then He Falls Dead

Adairsville, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP)—After delivering a baby yesterday Dr. Sidney Fain Hutcheson remarked: "Everything's over now." Then he fell dead. Dr. Hutcheson, 51 years old, had practiced here seventeen years.

Escaped Lunatic Threatens Holland Queen; Captured

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Jan. 13.—An escaped lunatic who had threatened to kill Crown Princess Juliana and Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands was arrested by the Amsterdam police today. The madman, armed with a gun, escaped last night from an asylum at Vught. He traveled more than 250 miles overnight before he was captured.

A Dance, an Elopement to Crown Point; Now Divorce

Mrs. Gladys Barnum, 27 years old, and her husband, George, 23, yesterday ended their marriage made on June 15, 1933, at Crown Point. Judge Charles A. Williams granted her a divorce on the ground that Barnum deserted her May 19, 1935. She was awarded $7 a week for support of a son, Gordon, 3. Mrs. Barnum's attorney, Norman Becker, said she met her husband at a high school prom.

WIFE SWAPPING TRYSTS TOLD IN DIVORCE ACTION

Witness Collapses While Testifying and Dies.

Salem, Mass., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A young woman blushingly admitted in court late today that she was a party to an agreement by which she and a friend exchanged husbands from time to time.

Her eyes downcast, Mrs. Calvin M. Watson, 25 years old, confessed her association with Raymond S. Lee, a chauffeur. But, she added, her husband and Mrs. Lee were equally guilty.

Lee previously had testified the arrangement had been agreeable to all four but that he and Mrs. Watson were deceived by the other two. Mrs. Lee and Watson, a tree surgeon, are seeking divorces on grounds of infidelity.

Death Interrupts Trial.

The double divorce trial was abruptly adjourned until Tuesday when a witness collapsed on the stand and died a few minutes later. He was Lyman G. Smith, 59 years old, Saugus liquor dealer, the stepfather of Mrs. Lee. His death was attributed to heart disease.

Smith had taken the stand to support Mrs. Lee's accusation that the wife trading story was a lie. He related that he cared for Mrs. Lee and her young son after she sued for divorce last year. He said she was black and blue and the boy was in bad shape.

The exchange of partners was described by Mrs. Watson on direct examination by her attorney, Thomas D. Henry. She said the first of the incidents took place one night in July, 1936, when the Lees stayed overnight at her home.

Other Trysts Related.

"When was the next?" her attorney asked.

"Two weeks later," she replied. "Mrs. Lee asked me if she could stay again. I said yes."

She related details of their arrangements and said her husband had advised her to seek the company of the other man. At this point Presiding Judge Edward F. O'Brien said: "This is terrible."

"How many times did you visit Mr. Lee and your husband visit Mrs. Lee?" Attorney Henry asked.

"About half a dozen times at my home and half a dozen times at the Watson home," Mrs. Watson said.

Detective's Entry Told.

The questioning then turned to the night of April 6, 1937, when a detective hired by Mrs. Lee entered the Watson home and found Lee and Mrs. Watson in a bedroom. Mrs. Watson insisted there was nothing improper in their conduct that night, that they were sitting fully clothed on a bed reading.

"Will you stand up, take off your coat, and show the judge the dress you were wearing that night?" the attorney requested.

But Judge O'Brien quickly intervened. "I don't want to see it either on or off," he said. Turning to Mrs. Watson, he added: "Remember, your job is solely to clear your skirts."

Shocked by the testimony, the judge has had a court stenographer recording witnesses' statements for presentation to the district attorney for possible grand jury action.

Sue to Increase Number of Lake County Precincts

A mandamus action to compel the Lake county board of supervisors to increase the number of precincts in the county from 78 to 101 to bring the number of voters in each within the 500 legal limit, was filed yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan. Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady will hear the case Jan. 24.

Murder Trial Witness

Mrs. Marrene Kimmel, widow of John Kimmel, who was slain in Los Angeles by Paul A. Wright, airport executive. Wright, formerly of Chicago, went on trial yesterday for the slaying of Kimmel and Mrs. Wright.

OUTLAW TRAPPED IN HOTEL ROOM, SLAIN BY POLICE

Wanted for Murder and Robberies.

A gunman sought for more than two years as a robber and murderer was shot to death last night by police who lay in wait for him in his room in a west side hotel. Ten shots were fired, most of them taking effect.

The slain man was Frank Baranski, 29 years old. He also was known to police as Berger and Frank Bergyl. Under the latter name he had been sought since June, 1935, for the slaying of Jerry Rokos, 25 years old, with whose wife he had carried on a romance.

In Gun Fight on Tuesday.

The first clew to his whereabouts was obtained Tuesday when Brighton Park police engaged in a gun battle with two men in a stolen car. The men abandoned the machine and escaped, but a city vehicle tax sticker, which had been transferred to it, was traced to William Kowalski, 27 years old, of 2437 South Sawyer avenue.

Kowalski admitted his companion was Baranski, whose address he gave as the Parkside hotel, 212 North Hamlin avenue. Five squads of police and detectives surrounded the building last evening, four men waiting in Baranski's room.

Enters with Drawn Pistol.

A buzzer signal from the lobby notified them when the gunman arrived. He unlocked his door and entered with pistol drawn. Policemen Alfred Mulvaney and Edward Kasiak of the Brighton Park station emptied their guns at Baranski, killing him outright.

KISS SLAYER OF 2 WILL TELL STORY BEHIND KILLINGS

Saw More Than Embrace, Jury Informed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—As Paul Wright, former Chicagoan, went on trial today on charges of murdering his wife and his best friend, his attorney announced that testimony will show it was more than a kiss between the two that precipitated the double slaying.

Attorney Jerry Giesler said that Wright, former manager of the Union Air terminal, will take the stand in his own defense and tell what actually was happening in his Glendale home when he found his pretty wife and John B. Kimmel, his airport aid, embracing.

More than Kiss, Says Attorney.

"What Wright saw was more than a kiss," Giesler declared. "It dealt the final blow to his trembling nerves and caused the tragedy. He fired the fatal shots while in an uncontrolable mental condition."

Wright, a shell shocked war veteran, had accompanied Kimmel on a round of Hollywood night clubs and had brought his friend home with him to provide an alibi for his belated return.

Giesler asked prospective jurors if they would be prejudiced against Wright if he were to tell from the witness stand exactly what brought on the jealous frenzy in which he shot the two, and if he were to give testimony reflecting on their character, morals, and reputation. The jury is not expected to be completed before Monday.

Enters Two Pleas.

Wright has entered two pleas, innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. His attorney said a sanity hearing will not be conducted unless he is convicted. Giesler has indicated he will base his case largely on the unwritten law.

The courtroom of Judge Ingall W. Bull, where the trial opened, was packed with 250 spectators and hundreds milled through the corridors outside. Among those present were Wright's father, Dr. J. J. Wright of Milwaukee, Wis.; Kimmel's widow, Mrs. Marrene Kimmel, and Mrs. Wright's mother, Mrs. Edith McBride. Wright, dressed in a dark business suit, appeared composed.

Picture Wife as Loyal.

The contention of Attorney Giesler that there was more than a kiss involved was countered by the statement of prosecution attorneys that they expected to show Wright guilty of coldblooded, deliberate, and malicious murder.

They indicated Mrs. Wright will be pictured as a blindly loyal and forgiving wife. Both sides agreed, however, that the couple had not been happy.

During the police investigation following the slaying last Nov. 9 it was disclosed that the killings might have had a background in a sterilization operation which Wright underwent a few years ago.

INDICT FARMER FOR ARSON.

Bonds of $30,000 were set yesterday for Eugene Conrad, an Alden farmer, after he was indicted by the McHenry county grand jury at Woodstock on a charge of arson. He is accused of setting fire to the house and barn on the Joseph Grivett farm, near Harvard, on Oct. 23.

Waives Alimony

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. LOUISE GALLAHER.

Mrs. Louise Gallaher, a former motion picture actress, yesterday was granted a divorce by Judge Charles A. Williams from Donald Gallaher of Hollywood, Cal., a former movie director.

Mrs. Gallaher, who is 26 years old and lives at 418 Church street in Evanston, was given custody of her son, John, 3. Through her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, she waived alimony, saying that she had inherited ample means from her father, who died six months ago.

After their marriage on Jan. 15, 1933, at Greenwich, Conn., Mrs. Gallaher testified, her husband began drinking, lost his job, and she had to go to work. She said she was unable to keep milk in the icebox for the baby, because Gallaher always drank it to cure his morning hangovers.

'MURDER CASTLE' WILL BE RAZED FOR POSTOFFICE

The three story brick building at 601-03 West 63d street, which in 1895 earned the name of Holmes' murder castle, will be razed to make way for a new building for the Englewood postoffice branch, now at 449 West 63d street.

The purchase of the parcel of land was approved yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney David H. Neuman. Miss Emma Morrison, 88 years old, of the Sovereign hotel, part owner, will receive $15,000 and $46,773 will be paid to the Chicago City bank as trustee for other owners.

Evidence indicating that bodies of six persons had been destroyed in the basement was found in the "murder castle." H. H. Holmes, who had a drug store and mysterious rooms and trap doors in the building, was hanged in 1896. He was suspected of having murdered twenty-seven persons.

VANDALS WRECK DAIRY AND THEN SET IT ON FIRE

Three vandals wrecked and set fire to the Belmont Farm Products company plant, a dairy, at 2714 Belmont avenue last night. Entering the place during the absence of employés, they sprinkled gasoline on the floor and equipment and punched holes in the pasteurization machinery. Then they set fire to gasoline, which exploded, breaking several windows. Firemen estimated the damage at $2,000. Gus Palmer, owner of the dairy, which opened two months ago, said he had no labor troubles.

FIND FRONTIER GUN AS HOLDUP SLAYERS FLEE

Former U. of C. Student Killed on Steps.

A long barreled, bone handled revolver, such as hasn't been in general use since the days of the frontier, was used last night in the holdup and murder of a former student of the University of Chicago.

The slain man was Herman Kosovski, 22 years old, 4736 South Drexel boulevard, who was associated with his father, Samuel, in a cleaning and dyeing business at 4516 Lake Park avenue. He was descending the steps of a flat building at 2900 Roosevelt road after delivering a package when two bandits confronted him. Kosovski resisted and was killed.

Fleeing Slayers Drop Gun.

Beside the body was found a .38 caliber Colt frontier model revolver, dropped by the slayers in their flight. The gun, the barrel of which is eight inches long, was in style 35 or 40 years ago and was intended for use with an open holster, when concealment was unnecessary.

As Marquette police were attempting to trace the weapon they learned that a similar gun had been used, shortly before Kosovski was slain, in the robbery of a filling station at 1000 South Leavitt street. Charles Berger, colored attendant who had been locked in a washroom by two young bandits, was brought to the Marquette station and identified the pistol.

Detectives Hunt Amateurs.

Only amateur robbers would use such a gun, detectives declared, adding that old pistols of this type are fast disappearing into private collections. In addition to the weapon a brown hat was found near Kosovski's body. Police will attempt to trace it today.

Young Kosovski is survived by his widow, Lucille. He was graduated from the Hyde Park High school, entering the university in 1931 at the age of 16 years. He took two years of a literary course and quit school in 1933 to enter his father's business.

HITLER'S KILLINGS FAR SURPASS CHARLES II., SAYS WILLIAM E. DODD

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Adolph Hitler has killed more personal enemies in five years than Charles II. of England did in twenty, William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, said today at a testimonial dinner given him by 200 friends.

The former University of Chicago professor, who recently resigned his ambassadorship because of disagreement with Hitler's national socialism policies, declared that even the fuehrer's premise of German Aryanism is false, for half the Germans really are Slavic or Latin.

Dodd warned that civilization as it is known in the western world, and probably the future of all mankind, are in grave danger unless Germany, Italy, and Japan are checked by democracies.

CHINESE EXECUTE EX-OFFICIAL WHO OPPOSED CHIANG

Governor Arrested; Failed to Stop Japanese.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14 [Friday].—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, leading figure in the Chinese army and government, strengthened his military hand, Chinese sources said today, by the arrest of one of his generals and the execution of a former government leader accused of trying to undermine his authority.

Chiang is in Suchow, important rail junction in northern Kiangsu province, having flown there to direct a major counteroffensive along the Tientsin-Pukow [Tsinpu] railroad, the route of the Japanese columns gradually closing in from north and south.

Gen. Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung province, through which the southbound Japanese columns were progressing, is the military leader said to be under arrest. Official confirmation was lacking, but Chinese sources asserted he was seized at Chiang's order for his failure to halt the Japanese invasion now rolling over China's "sacred province."

Defense Is Difficult.

Failure to halt Japan's southern thrust through Shantung has made difficult the defense of the Lunghai railway, China's east and west rail "life line" which intersects the Tientsin-Pukow road at Suchow.

[Other reports said Han had flown to Suchow to confer with Gen. Chiang on the defense of the Lunghai line.]

The former official said to have been executed was Chu Min-yi. Chinese reports from Hankow indicated that Chu, former general secretary of the executive yuan [council] of the Chinese national government, had endeavored to weaken Chiang's position. Chu was a brother-in-law of Wang Ching-wei, former foreign minister.

Chiang's armies fighting on China's "last line of defense" were reported to have killed 2,000 Japanese and wounded 2,000 more in a desperate but futile resistance at Tsining, a town of southwestern Shantung province nearly 100 miles northwest of Suchow.

Japs Claim Advances.

Chinese forces clashed with Japanese troops in a battle there on Wednesday. The Chinese finally abandoned the city to the victorious but battered Japanese, but it was said today that Chinese forces were threatening to trap Tsining's captors by an attack on Yenchow. This city is about 15 miles northeast of Tsining and connected to it by a spur railroad. The Tientsin-Pukow railway goes through Yenchow.

Despite the losses which the Chinese claimed to have inflicted, Japanese authorities at Shanghai insisted their forces were continuing the southward push through Shantung province. They said the Japanese were routing their foe as they neared the vital junction at Suchow.

The Japanese have been in control of Tsingtao, Shantung's great port, since Monday, when marines occupied that city without firing a shot. Japanese army units landed at Tsingtao yesterday and at once began a march inland along the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway. They expected to make contact with other units marching from the opposite direction.

Goes to Hongkong.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the general and chief of the Chinese air force, flew to Hongkong from Hankow, one of China's three temporary capitals, but her associates declined to state the purpose of the visit. Also in Hongkong were Mme. Sun Yat-sen and Mme. H. H. Kung, sisters of Mme. Chiang; and her brothers, T. V. Soong, former finance minister, and T. L. Soong, Kwangtung province official. Mme. Sun is the widow of the founder of the Chinese republic and Mme. Kung is the wife of the present Chinese premier.

[A dispatch from Hongkong said Japanese land planes, based on aircraft carriers in South China waters, had appeared for the first time in many weeks. The aerial activity was considered the result of a Japanese desire to sever the railway between Canton, South China metropolis, and Hongkong before a land drive on Canton.]

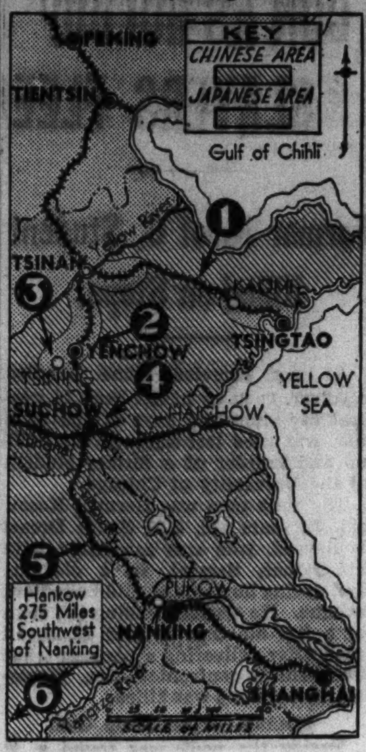
United States naval authorities announced that efforts to salvage the American gunboat Panay, sunk by Japanese bombs in the Yangtze river Dec. 12, had been abandoned. The ship's safe, official papers and some personal property of the crew were removed by divers.

Chiang Takes Charge

(Story in Adjoining Column.)



1. Japanese armies advance at opposite ends of Tsinan-Tsingtao railway.
2. Chinese threaten Yenchow.
3. Japanese lose 2,000 men in battle at Tsining on drive southward.
4. Gen. Chiang organizes Chinese counter-offensive.
5. Japanese push northward along Tsinpu (Tientsin-Pukow) railway.
6. At Hankow Chinese execute Chu Min-yi, former official who opposed Gen. Chiang.

BEAUTY DEMANDS MILLION DOLLARS FOR HUMILIATION

She enjoyed the honor of being selected among the beauty contest winners, but not the prize, Miss Marian Shadley, 16 years old, asserted yesterday in a slander suit for $1,000,000 damages filed in the Circuit court against the Ogden Hills Business Men's association.

Miss Shadley, a high school pupil, who lives at 6144 South Paulina street, was one of 22 minor prize winners in a beauty contest sponsored by the association during community celebrations of the Chicago Charter Jubilee last fall.

Miss Shadley suffered grievous humiliation, the suit alleged, when she was given a $5 merchandise certificate for use in a liquor store. Since then her friends have shunned her, according to the bill, she was forced to give up her classes, and suffered a nervous breakdown.

Justice Cardozo Gains Slightly, Physician Says

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—There was a slight improvement today in the condition of Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, seriously ill of heart disease. "He has rallied somewhat and the outlook is a trifle brighter than yesterday," said Dr. John Paul Earnest Jr. The jurist, who is 67 years old, was examined again today by Dr. Earnest and two heart specialists.

the United States was deemed inevitable.

The plan was said to contemplate an attack on Russia after the subjugation of China. Experts believe Japan could fling back Russian forces readily enough, because Russia would find as much difficulty conducting a war in Asia now as it did in 1904. Experts do not join in the popular belief that Russia and the United States could easily defeat Japan through joint action of the Russian air force and the American fleet.

Combine Would Nip Dream.

Russian hostilities would be followed by a conflict with the United States, which Japan considers the chief obstacle to its domination of the world. With the United States out of the way, according to the reports, the Japanese are convinced that the whole world can be made the land of the Rising Sun.

Britain and the United States can nip this dream, experts assert, by blocking Japan off from oil and other vital supplies coming through the Indian and Pacific oceans. A joint fleet could operate out of Singapore and another in the Pacific to watch for vessels coming around Cape Horn as the United States closed the Panama canal.

Japan's sole hope under such circumstances would be a diversion by her allies, Germany and Italy, which would mean another world war more terrible than the last, and could only end in disaster for Japan, according to the experts.

Recommendation No Surprise.

The recommendation for the revision of the Vinson-Trammell act, which holds the navy to a construction program within the prescribed limits of the expired naval treaties, was no surprise. The navy department high command began consideration of such a move upon abrogation of the limitation treaties by Japan early in 1937. The lifting of this barrier would enable the navy to keep pace with any nation in an armament race.

President Roosevelt called for eighteen new vessels, including two new battleships, in his budget message to congress. He also is working on a supplemental message, which is expected to call for approximately twenty more men of war, including another battleship and two aircraft carriers.

Details Still Unmapped.

Details of the types of ships and other armament equipment to be included in the supplemental message have not been worked out, Assistant Secretary Edison said as he left the White House after luncheon with the President. He said he did not know when the message can be expected on Capitol Hill.

Mr. Edison revealed that he urged the President to make provision for auxiliary vessels, such as supply ships and oil tankers, in the supplemental message. The navy, he asserted, is deficient in service craft necessary to maintain the fleet at sea.

He also took up with Mr. Roosevelt the question of steel prices. The navy believes the price of steel is too high and has had difficulty obtaining bids for the metal it needs because through the Walsh-Healy act bidders must comply with provisions of the outlawed NRA.

The conference at the state department between Admiral Leahy and Secretary Hull and far eastern experts embraced consideration of the problems of the navy in the far east and the building program at home. No statement was made by any of the conferees.

INSURGENTS POST BORDER GUARD TO HALT DESERTERS

Report Spaniards Quitting Franco by Land, Sea.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Increasing desertions and uneasiness in Spanish insurgent territory, following the Spanish government's capture of strategic Teruel, in eastern Spain, were reported tonight by impartial foreign sources. The rebels have installed an armed cavalry patrol in the no man's land separating British Gibraltar from the town of La Linea in an effort to check the desertions from Gen. Francisco Franco's army.

1. Rebel planes bomb Portbou. 2. Guard against rebel desertions.

At the same time coast guard detachments were reënforced by machine gun equipped units to prevent further escapes by sea from Algeciras, which lies across the bay of Gibraltar from this fortress.

Persistent reports of a mutiny among insurgent forces in southern Spain have been denied by reliable authorities. Scores of rebel deserters, however, have been crossing into British territory day and night and later joining the army of the Spanish government.

Many Leave by Steamer.

The majority of deserters have escaped by going in small fishing boats from neighboring insurgent towns direct to the internationalized city of Tangier, in North Africa. From there the Spanish consul sent them to Valencia. The deserters who entered Gibraltar were arrested and fined in police court for being in the British fortified zone without permission. The Spanish consul, however, paid their fines and sent the deserters to Tangier.

When any steamer calls at Gibraltar en route to Valencia, numbers of government sympathizers avail themselves of the opportunity to get to government territory.

[Insurgent artillery continued to pound government positions on the Teruel front, but there was a lull today in the heavy fighting that has marked Gen. Franco's efforts to recover the territory lost in eastern Spain since the loyalists took Teruel Dec. 21.

Raid Loyalist Town.

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Insurgent war planes damaged the railroad station at Portbou, Spanish town on the French border, in a series of air attacks today. A direct hit on the telegraph office severed communications with France. The planes raided the town three times, apparently trying to silence anti-aircraft batteries. An insurgent cruiser offshore fired several shots into the town during the raids.

DRUSES RIOT IN SYRIA OVER INDEPENDENCE; 1 KILLED, 50 INJURED

JERUSALEM, Jan. 13.—(AP)—One person was killed and 50 were wounded, three of them critically, today in a clash between Syrian nationalists and separatists in Jebel Druse, semi-autonomous area in the French mandated territory of Syria. Count Damien de Martel, high commissioner of Syria, was said to have called in Sultan Attrache, chief of the Druse tribesmen, to discuss the situation. Police quelled the riot, but high feeling persisted between the Druses who want their territory allied with Syria under the recent Franco-Syrian treaty and others demanding complete autonomy.

A British constable was wounded and an Arab was killed today in a battle between terrorists and British army troops, the royal air force, and Palestine police in the Hebron district.

Ex-Evanston Mayor Wins $4,410 Taken from Salary

Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday entered a $4,410 judgment for Charles H. Bartlett, former mayor of Evanston, who sought that sum from the suburb for salary deductions made from 1932 to 1935 during a retrenchment program. Judge Fisher held with Bartlett that the deductions were illegal. Bartlett lost the mayoralty election last spring to Henry Penfield, who made the Bartlett suit for pay restoration a campaign issue.

2 MORE NATIONS LINK FUTURES TO ROME AND BERLIN

Ties of Austria, Hungary Are Confirmed.

VIENNA, July 13.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria, in one of his rare newspaper articles, made clear today that Austria and Hungary definitly have cast their lot with Fascist Italy and Germany. The chancellor was discussing a three day conference of the foreign ministers of Italy, Austria, and Hungary which ended yesterday in Budapest. The conference was held under the provisions of the Rome pact on trade, of which all three countries are signatories.

"We never have doubted that the Rome protocols are our best orientation," wrote Schuschnigg. "Their continuation seems, at the conclusion of the Budapest consultations, to be incontrovertible to fact.

"The Italian policy of closer friendship with Germany, a so-called factual policy, is in complete accord with this fact. An anti-communist pact long has been a practical reality for Austria and Hungary. Like all human enterprises, the league of nations has in no wise fulfilled its initial aims. We consider it our right and duty to try to bring new life to the great old league."

Wants League Reform.

The chancellor thus exhibited sympathy and endorsement of the German-Japanese-Italian accord to combat communism, but indicated that Austria wishes for league of nations reform and does not want to withdraw from the league as Italy, Germany and Japan have done.

The principal definite accomplishment of the Budapest conferences was the announcement by Austria and Hungary that they would recognize the régime set up in Spain by Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel leader. In this they are following in the steps of Germany and Italy.

Papers Praise Rome Pact.

The controled Austrian press, in long commentaries, declared the Budapest meeting reconfirmed the solidarity of the Rome pact, which it was contended formed the best security in troubled times. Diplomatic circles believed the editorials indicated more than an even chance that Austria and Hungary eventually would leave the league and join the pact against communism.

One newspaper remarked that "Austria's and Hungary's positions and viewpoints regarding communism are the same as Germany's and Italy's, even though their practical considerations do not lead now to joining the anti-communist pact."

CHARGES LEGISLATIVE GRAFT IN BAY STATE AND DEMANDS INQUIRY

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Saying he could blow the lid off the state, Leland C. Bickford, radio commentator, today urged appointment of a commission to investigate his charges that the majority of state legislators could be bought.

Bickford's demand came in his testimony before a joint legislative rules committee, which had summoned him to substantiate his charges that most state legislators could be bought for from $100 to a pound of tea.

After refusing to name two legislators he charged had been paid for certain activities, unless he was given the power to summon witnesses, Bickford was informed such power could not be granted.

"Then let this committee appoint a commission and give them the same powers," Bickford shouted. "Then I'll blow the lid off this state and I'll give them so much evidence that it will rock the nation."

CLOTHES MAKE THE WOMAN FIT TO BE ARRAIGNED

With all of her clothes on, Mrs. Joan Roberts was arraigned before Judge Oscar S. Caplan in Felony court yesterday, charged with stealing a $2,000 mink coat from a Michigan avenue shop. She had none of her clothes on Wednesday night in the women's lockup at the detective bureau, and thus succeeded in avoiding the showup of prisoners. Judge Caplan held her to the grand jury in $7,500 bond. Mrs. Roberts is 35 years old and served three years in prison for shoplifting.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

SOCIAL SECURITY

By CALEB

SOCIETY is careless with its component parts. The evolving human race moves on and lets the chips fall where they may. There is "talk" of social security, but of actual social security, there is none. Man has not yet learned how to be positive of his future. Insurance affords the best assurance, but that is not infallible.

Material possessions are temporal and often depart with the swift mystery of a lifting fog. The man of means is secure today, but of tomorrow he has no certainty. If the more privileged find what they term security a fleeting and fickle quantity, what of the person of ordinary means and abilities?

Nature has a peculiar tendency to compensate. In good times and bad, through the long welter of years, some workers on wages have enjoyed greater and more consistent security than many of their more prosperous brothers. The soundest security is that which grows out of the opportunity an individual has to sell his particular ability consistently through the years.

Among all the trades which may be followed by us ordinary mortals, none is in more persistent and universal demand than that of selling. Most of the vast volume of business done even in bad times is the result of sales transactions. In most such transactions, a salesman has either figured or exerted himself.

In the most trying and meager times the business done on Chicago's State Street figures in the millions. People who can really sell merchandise in retail stores are always in demand.

But those are in the greatest demand and are most consistently employed who have demonstrated by their actual sales records a superior ability to serve.

No one can enjoy a greater sense of social security than those retail sales people who, by their own strenuous effort and attention, have made of themselves public servants whom people like to patronize.

If this has a menial sound, it is not menial in reality. We observe no people in our retail stores who are more independent and happier, or who are better rulers in the kingdoms of their own personalities, than those skilled and experienced in serving themselves by first superbly serving others.

Every capable and long experienced sales person in our store learned. They did not always know how to assure themselves of long-lasting employment. But having learned, and won recognition from the public for their efforts, they can continue to have recognition from an employer. We believe retail selling is one of the best occupations in the world for the sincere person who is willing to succeed by serving.

C. I. O. DIRECTOR LOSES HIS PLEA FOR CITIZENSHIP

Wisconsin Court Delays Case for More Evidence.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—American citizenship was withheld today from Gunnar Mickelsen, 36 years old, state director of the C. I. O. and international vice president of the American Newspaper Guild, after J. E. Riley, federal naturalization agent, had challenged him to say whether he ever had been a member of the communist party. Circuit Judge Gustave E. Gehrz postponed action indefinitly on Mickelsen's application for citizenship to permit Riley to file a brief.

Mickelsen denied he ever had been a member of the communist party. He admitted he had been arrested during the newspaper guild's strike against the Wisconsin News. The charge was obstructing trafic.

Court States Position.

"We want to be fair," Judge Gehrz said in the cases of Mickelsen and Sergius Prus, whom the government also challenged because he had been arrested for distributing communist literature. "The hearing will be put over while the government prepares its argument.

"We don't want any one in this country who has subversive tendencies. If they don't like our country, let them go back where they came from."

Mickelsen was brought to America from Denmark when he was a child. Mrs. Mickelsen said her husband had assumed that his father had become a citizen thus automatically making him one and had just learned that he was not.

Faces Deportation.

It is possible if the court should uphold the government's brief the state's C. I. O. head will be deported to his native Denmark.

Mickelsen is a former reporter on Milwaukee newspapers. He first got into the news himself as an amateur detective in a case in which Nick Binns of Racine was accused of the attempted kidnaping of a communist organizer.

OPERA SINGERS UNITE TO SEEK A CLOSED SHOP

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Metropolitan opera singers organized today for their first collective bargaining venture—a bid for a closed shop and for modification of the opera company's control of their radio, movie, and concert stage work.

Lawrence Tibbett, president of the American Guild of Musical Artists, an A. F. of L. organization, said Edward Johnson, impresario of the opera company, promised to meet next week with representatives of the new Metropolitan singers' unit of the guild to begin negotiations.

After the final curtain of last night's opera performance about sixty members of the company gathered in a hotel room. Tibbett presided, and behind closed doors the group unanimously voted to ask for what the resolution described as a guild shop.

Tibbett was named to head the unit's bargaining committee, with Lauritz Melchior and Ezio Pinza as other members from the company. Also named on the committee were Frank Gillmore, head of the American Association of Artists and Actors, and Leo Fischer, executive secretary of the guild.

Robber Lines Up Victims; Shoots One in Lifted Hand

A high shooting gunman shot a holdup victim in the left hand last night as the latter stood with upraised hands in the Italian Coöperative Union grocery and tavern at 312 East 14th street, Chicago Heights. The victim is Vincent Giovannoni, 40 years old, 1433 Wentworth avenue, Chicago Heights. He was standing against a wall with five other patrons when the bartender, William Cacciurri, tried to sneak to a telephone to call police. The bandit fired at Cacciurri, but his aim was high and the bullet wounded Giovannoni. The robber, who was masked, fled without loot.

MISS LINA HILLIG.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Apart six years since they met in Berlin, Germany, Robert L. Glass, a patent office division chief, and his bride, the former Lina Hillig, were honeymooning here today after scoring a victory over immigration officials. The couple had decided Miss Hillig would come to America from Berlin and they would be married in Washington. When immigration authorities demurred, citing quotas, the lovers had a quick ceremony performed as soon as Miss Hillig's liner docked at Baltimore, Md. The wedding made her entry legal.

PAROLEE FEARING LIFE TERM TRIES TO MAKE BARGAIN

Joseph Giaccalini, 28 years old, a parole violator, offered yesterday to plead guilty to a grand larceny charge rather than risk conviction for robbery and a possible life sentence as an habitual criminal.

The offer was made through his lawyer to Assistant State's Attorney David Leeds when the case was called before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington. The case was transferred to Judge R. J. Dunne to be heard on Jan. 31. If Giaccalini's bargaining is successful he would be sentenced for a term up to ten years.

On Dec. 7 Giaccalini robbed the Marco liquor store at 157 North Wabash avenue of $171. He was shot and captured by Policeman Edward Dawson.

GREEN CLOSES DOOR AGAIN ON 'C. I. O. MINORITY'

Invites Employers to Help A. F. of L.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today inferentially dumped the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. feud back to where it was a year ago when he told the chamber of commerce that the A. F. of L. will yield nothing to minority domination or minority control.

In an address spiced with slams at his foes of the C. I. O., whose peace conferences with the A. F. of L. now are in stalemate, Green said that concessions to this unnamed minority would mean surrender to chaos, dictatorship, and autocracy.

Striking out obliquely at President Roosevelt, he recorded the federation in opposition to the centralization of power in the hands of any one connected with the administrative departments of the government.

Asks Employers to Help.

Green urged the employers sitting before him to coöperate with organized labor and pleaded that they accept public opinion and the moral responsibility of labor as substitutes for proposed legislation compelling incorporation of unions.

"No law or government decree would quicken or sharpen the sense of moral responsibility which American Federation of Labor workers now hold regarding the sanctity and observance of contracts."

The one time miner labor leader contributed his prediction that the current recession would decline in a few months and that a pickup will be apparent before the close of 1938.

At no time directly naming John L. Lewis or the C. I. O., Green repeated the phrase American Federation of Labor in commenting upon labor issues.

Cites Sins of the Few.

He cited the sins of the few and proceeded caustically:

"The question of legal responsibility of trade unions has been broadly discussed and seriously proposed by individuals who were shocked because of the excesses which some alleged unions resorted to in the last two years.

"They represent an attempt to introduce into trade union principles a form of social and economic philosophy which never has been espoused, approved, or supported by the American Federation of Labor.

"The incorporation of trade unions and the extension of governmental control represents a form of Fascism on one hand and communism on the other. Labor is opposed to the application of the principle of Fascism and the philosophy of communism in any degree and in any manner whatsoever.

"Collective bargaining never was intended to create class conflict or class consciousnes.

"Labor demands that it be free and unshackled, compelled, however, as it always will be, by the forces of public opinion to discharge its public responsibilities and to pursue a policy in the administration of its affairs which will tend to preserve and protect the public interest."

CHARGE WIDOW SLEW HUSBAND BY POISON FOR A YOUNGER MAN

Hastings, Minn., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Beatrice Johnke, mother of two married daughters, went on trial today charged with having fatally poisoned her husband, a packing company employé, so she could carry on a romance with a young WPA worker.

State's Attorney Harold E. Stassen told a jury he will present evidence that Mrs. Johnke, who is 41 years old, repeatedly gave her husband poisoned food and finally administered the fatal dose in a hospital where he lay ill from her previous efforts to kill him.

The prosecutor also said state witnesses will testify that the mother and her friend, Carl Sandgren, 32 years old, went in the company of her daughter and another man on trysts kept secret from Johnke. Sandgren, held as a material witness, testified as the state's first witness that Mrs. Johnke led him to believe she was unmarried.

PRINTERS KEEP A. F. OF L.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union and secretary of the C. I. O., announced tonight that his members would remain within the framework of the American Federation of Labor.

The Howard statement was made in an article appearing in the January issue of the magazine Printing and was released in advance to the press. His announcement that the I. T. U. would not leave the federation ended the big push in the organization for affiliation with the C. I. O. At a convention of the I. T. U. recently the delegates approved Howard's personal connection with the C. I. O., but no action was taken for a severance of the union itself from its parent body, the A. F. of L.

Assurance for A. F. of L.

Howard made it clear that the C. I. O. was not attempting to organize the printing industry on an industrial union basis—that is, one mass organization rather than according to crafts. This was interpreted as giving assurance to the A. F. of L. and its craft affiliates in the printing trades that no raids would be made on their membership. The C. I. O. has been raiding A. F. of L. unions in other fields.

Then Howard declared his organization was seeking peace.

"Members of the I. T. U. desire to see unity established in the labor movement," he declared. "They favor an organization policy which will prove successful in building the movement to a maximum of strength. They desire to retain affiliation with the A. F. of L., to which organization the I. T. U. has contributed so much. Our members desire that all national and international unions should be under one banner and work as a unit to improve conditions for the nation's wage workers. We have endeavored to have adopted a policy which would accomplish this result."

THE RULES

WHO CAN ENTER? This game is open to everybody—men, women, boys, and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO? Every week day a picture containing the scrambled name of a movie star will be published until 36 have appeared. Unscramble the name. Use every letter in the picture. Write or print the name on the line provided, or on any piece of paper. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 36. DO NOT SEND THEM IN SEPARATELY.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Movie Stars," Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter, giving your name and address and telling in 50 words or less, who is your favorite movie star and why. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in naming the stars. Entries must be in the office of the Chicago Tribune by midnight, 12 days after Name No. 36 has appeared.

BASIS OF AWARDS. Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. Awards will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of unscrambled names. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid.

SET UP MODEL RELIEF STAF IN CANAL DISTRICT

Klupar Put in Charge of Augmented Force.

The demonstration office of the Chicago Relief administration, being established at the Canal district station, will be completely stafed by the early part of next week. Joseph Klupar, business manager of the CRA, will be in charge of the office where an attempt to establish a system of maximum efficiency in the handling of relief will be made during the next ninety days.

This announcement was made yesterday by Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the CRA. Each worker at the Canal office will have only seventy-five cases [units receiving relief], as opposed to the usual load of 300 cases per worker in the other eighteen district offices in the city.

Cross Section of City Staf.

"We are not putting an all-star team into the Canal office," Lyons said. "The staf will be a cross section of the CRA staf throughout the city, but there will be an adequate number of professional and clerical workers to handle the work.

"This office is being established in accordance with the recommendation of Gov. Horner's citizen committee on relief. We want to see just how relief can be handled with an adequate staf."

Klupar said it would be Feb. 1 before the staf settles down into a smooth working organization.

Efficiency Is Goal.

"We are trying to arrange things so we can shift our personnel to meet varying needs in the office," he said. "We hope to eliminate every unnecessary step in administration during the test period."

Alien Reliefer Gets Jail Term for Drunkenness

Victor Kornacki of 541 Market street, Waukegan, who has been on relief for several years, was sentenced to serve twenty days in jail for drunkenness and disorderly conduct by Police Magistrate Clarence Brown yesterday. Kornacki, 47 years old, admitted he has made no effort to become a citizen since coming to this country in 1913. The Lake county board of supervisors is seeking to bring about the deportation of aliens who have not shown intention of taking out citizenship papers.

FIRE DESTROYS INTERIOR OF HOUSE. Damage of $4,000 was done by fire which destroyed the interior of a two story frame house at 149 South 14th avenue in Maywood early yesterday. Johannes Schermass and his wife own the building.

Skater Is Knighted

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian minister to the United States, presenting Sonja Henie, figure skater and movie star, with symbol of knightship of the Order of St. Olav, in Washington, D. C., yesterday.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Sonja Henie stood beneath the picture of Norway's king on the only piece of Norwegian territory in the United States to receive a decoration from her sovereign today.

The tiny figure skater and movie star looked downward modestly when Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian minister, pinned the cross of St. Olav to her fox trimmed black velvet suit in the drawing room of the Norwegian legation. The minister said that Miss Henie, 23, was the youngest person ever to receive the decoration.

A group of guests gathered in the drawing room and Sonja's mother, Mrs. Salma Henie, was among those who heard Norway's minister say:

"In recognition of your unique contribution as a sportswoman, as an artist, as an interpreter of the ideals of Norway's youth, and as one who has upheld the honor and the flag of Norway, his majesty the king has appointed you a knight of the first class of the order of St. Olav."

WPA Will Spend $60,000 on Fire Maps of Chicago

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan was notified yesterday that President Roosevelt has approved a Works Progress administration project of $60,321 for the fire department. The money will be used to prepare city maps, showing the boundaries of fire battalions, location of fire hydrants, mains, and fighting equipment, and buildings which might be hazardous in a fire.

2 WPA PAY ROLL PADDERS SENT TO U. S. PRISON

Supervisor and Assistant Plead Guilty.

How two WPA project officials falsified pay roll records for a year was told yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who sentenced both to serve terms in Leavenworth penitentiary.

Charles E. Henning, supervisor of a WPA crossing guards project, was sentenced to serve eighteen months. His assistant, James Copley, was sentenced to a year and a day. Both men, who live at 10326 Avenue J, pleaded guilty to defrauding the government.

Private Jobs Kept Secret.

From May, 1936, to May, 1937, sixteen of the $55 a month workers on their project obtained private employment, seven of them full time jobs. Henning and Copley offered them a 50-50 split on their WPA checks if they wouldn't mention the private employment to WPA headquarters, according to Assistant United States Attorney Martin Ward.

It was just as simple as that, Ward said. Henning made out the pay roll records as though the men were still working for WPA, and Copley delivered the checks and got refunds from the former WPA-ers. Ward said Henning got about $550, Copley about $100, and the sixteen men who took their advice split $650.

Uses Money to Buy Auto.

Copley's plea that he took the money because a portion of his $94 monthly salary had to be spent for paper and pencils for the crossing guards was answered by the government's evidence that he purchased an automobile during the padded pay roll period. He has four children and Henning has three.

Ever since WPA was established officials have said this sort of racket could not be practiced because checkers visit the project sites at least once a week, without advance notice, to see whether all the men listed on the pay roll are working.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, said he would have to study the evidence in the case before commenting on why the supposedly cheatproof system broke down for a year.

SHOT IN TAVERN QUARREL. William Hughes, 18 years old, 8104 Elizabeth street, was shot in the back and slightly wounded by John Miskinis, 52 years old, owner of a tavern at 2642 West 63d street, during a quarrel in the tavern yesterday.

EXECUTE KILLER OF SHERIF'S AID IN INDIANA CHAIR

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 14 [Friday]. — [Special.] — Willis Fuller, 29 years old, was put to death in the Indiana state prison's electric chair early today for the murder of Paul Mankin, deputy sherif of Terre Haute.

Fuller lost his last chance to escape death late yesterday when Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, in a long distance telephone conversation from Florida, told officials he would not intervene.

Mankin was shot to death July 16, 1936, when he attempted to arrest Fuller for a holdup in a Terre Haute lovers' lane. Fuller was convicted and sentenced to death in Vigo Circuit court Oct. 29, 1936. His execution was set originally for March 5, 1937, but he received a stay from the State Supreme court, which later denied his appeal.

Mrs. Caraway in Gallery, but Holds Floor of Senate

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Senator Hattie Caraway [D., Ark.] held the senate floor today and at the same time appeared in the gallery above. She sent a long report against the anti-lynching bill forward to be read by a clerk. While he read she left the floor to converse with a woman friend in the gallery.

ANOTHER SILVER PURCHASE.

Secretary Morgenthau has confirmed the news from Mexico City to the effect that the United States treasury has made an undertaking to buy 35 million ounces of Mexican silver at 45 cents an ounce. Thus we shall exchange something like 16 million dollars of American money for rather more than a thousand tons of silver that we don't need and can't use. Silver is selling at about 45 cents an ounce in the world markets today only because our government is giving artificial support to the price. If the support were withdrawn, the price would drop. How far is anybody's guess.

The purchase from Mexico—and similar purchases at artificially high prices from Canada, China, London, and other trading centers—are imposed upon the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau explains, by the terms of the silver purchase act. If there is an economist of standing in this or any other country who regards our silver purchase policy as sound, his name has not come to our attention. The only explanation of the scheme which makes sense is that it is useful politically. It has helped win for the administration the backing of the senators from six or eight western states. Even this explanation fails to account for the foreign purchases which impose upon our taxpayers the duty of subsidizing mining activities in foreign countries.

While we are making a handsome present to the owners of silver mines in Mexico, the Mexican government is expressing its gratitude by confiscating American properties. Mexico seizes what foreign owned properties it covets, places its own price upon them, and pays the ousted owners in Mexican bonds which are worth only a fraction of their face value. The procedure has been called the good neighbor policy [Mex.].

Leaders in the administration at Washington have been doing a good deal of speechmaking of late about their intention to reduce expenditures wherever possible. The silver policy provides a test of the sincerity of these professions. The arrangement by which our government pays an excessive price for hundreds of tons of silver which it neither needs nor wants is a perfect example of an avoidable expense.

THE HEAVY HAND OF GOVERNMENT.

The railway problem becomes more complicated every day. For the purposes of an annual review let us recall that the interstate commerce commission decided a year ago that prosperity had been restored to the carriers to such extent that approximately seven per cent could be lopped from their rates and still leave the properties in a solvent condition. During the following summer government intermediaries agreed that the railways could stand a five per cent increase in wages paid to all grades of labor. The senate also apparently thought that the carriers could make a further contribution to labor through a limitation of trains to seventy cars, thus making necessary the operation of two trains where one is now being run. They passed a bill to that effect which did not reach the house.

After this series of attacks on the carriers' treasuries it is not to be wondered that railway securities were leaders in the downward stock market plunge that is now known as the 1937 recession. With receivership staring them in the face, rail managements asked for permission to advance freight rates and the interstate commerce commission responded with permits slightly elevating the charges on a limited list of basic commodities. On the other hand, the same body shortly thereafter issued an order directing the railways to purchase and install automatic or mechanical stokers on all modern locomotives—an unwarranted safety expedient in the minds of at least two members of the commission.

As added grief, the railways found that the prices of ties, steel, and the other thousand and one articles that they must buy had advanced twenty per cent. To this the national bituminous coal commission added increases in the price of fuel. There was little wonder, therefore, that the railways were seeking, with some confidence, a fifteen per cent increase in all freight rates and passenger fares when the interstate commerce commission let loose an annual report in which it is stated that the granting of rate increases is not the solution of the nation's rail road problem. While the regulatory body is willing to agree that the carriers have made some advances in the science of railroading, "further and material reductions in operating expenses are feasible."

That the commission's statement is sound cannot be denied. THE TRIBUNE has maintained for years that the cost of service must be cut in half if the railways are to remain in the American transportation picture. Nevertheless, the carriers can do little until they are allowed to earn the necessary surplus with which to rebuild their properties according to modern standards. That is what every successful industry is constantly doing and that is just what the railways have not done, but the interstate commerce commission has overlooked the stubborn fact that government regulation and progress are incompatible. The advancement of a regulated industry ceases on the date that the government takes control. The condition arises from the fact that the law assumes the regulated property to be a finished product and makes rules and regulations to fit the administration as of the date of the legislation. It is no longer a living thing, but an automaton—devitalized, stabilized, stagnated. Allegiance is transferred from patrons to burocracy.

The railways will probably object to this statement by pointing to the streamlined trains and Diesel engines that have been introduced within the last few years, but the ready answer is that these facilities were developed in the automotive industry and were followed by a competitive effort of the builders of steam locomotives when the latter saw their sales threatened. The clumsy methods of handling freight and passengers in vogue when the commission took charge of railroading in 1906 persist today, and will continue to persist until a fifty-year-old piece of patch work legislation is rewritten to recognize the fact that transportation has changed while the railways have not.

INADEQUATE AMBULANCE SERVICE.

Mayor Kelly's proposal to include an item of $15,000 in the new budget to fit squad cars to be used as ambulances in emergency cases has been approved and passed. There is no question that there is an acute need in this city for better ambulance service. The victim of an accident the other day was allowed to lie in the street for half an hour before an ambulance reached him. He died the following day. Whether his life might have been saved by prompter relief we do not know, but such delays are dangerous, to say nothing of the unnecessary suffering involved. The use of squad cars would go a long way to remove this evil. With the Chicago accident rate at its present height and likely to rise with the increase of automobiling, there should be no delay in improving the ambulance service.

At the same time the county board should take action on the finding of the Cutter committee, which has called attention to the lack of adequate ambulance service for emergency calls at the County hospital. "It is obvious," says this report, "that the acutely ill or seriously injured patients do not receive, in many cases, proper care when being transferred to the hospital and at a time when prompt and proper attention is vital to the welfare of the patient."

NEW YORK IS TIRED OF RIOTING.

New York City has had enough of rioting organized by radical agitators under the false pretext of picketing. That, we think, may be inferred from the vigorous and sensible instructions recently given by its able police commissioner, Mr. Valentine, to his men.

Reminding his force that peaceful picketing is lawful and warning officers to commit no assault upon pickets exercising that right lawfully, and to use only sufficient force to enforce the law, he added: "You will sternly suppress pickets when they attempt to intimidate or commence an act of violence. Then it's no longer peaceful picketing."

Commissioner Valentine recognizes that while mass picketing is illegal, it is not always easy to define. What might be mass picketing in Times square or other congested districts resorted to by many citizens might not be in a remote and uncrowded area; trafic conditions, the size of the building, the number of strikers, would affect police action, which should be governed by common sense and good judgment. And to insure a more responsible judgment the commissioner proposes to hold the commanding officer in the district concerned responsible for judging the situation and directing police action, instead of relying upon the patrolman or subordinate officer to report and gauge conditions. Inspectors and precinct captains will be held to strict account for labor conditions in their precincts or divisions.

This should be satisfactory to every law abiding worker. It is conducive to his own safety and welfare as well as to that of the public. The legitimate and attainable interests of organized labor are not advanced by lawless violence, but injured. The just rights of the worker are well provided for in the laws, and where labor itself, misled by unwise or unfaithful leaders, resorts to violence it defeats its own cause. Picketing has been grossly abused, especially in recent years, because of the exploiting of labor's cause by leaders who are bent upon breaking down the system of law under which it has steadily advanced. The correction for this is the firm enforcement of law by the police and public authorities at all times and under all conditions.

Editorial of the Day

HAPPENING HERE?

[Baltimore Sun.]

The other day a reporter from the New York Herald Tribune went over to Jersey City to talk with the man on the street about Mayor Hague and the C. I. O. He couldn't raise many extended conversations because, as various people said to him, "You know what might happen to a guy if he talks out of turn in this town." Other people showed him cards which they had received from the district leader instructing them to attend Thursday's anti-C. I. O. massmeeting and to "remain until it is over." In a restaurant the reporter talked to a man and, when he left, saw a "big, officious looking man" go over to his late companion and speak to him and then leave the restaurant. The reporter went back and asked what the "officious looking" man had said. The reply was: "O, he's a police lieutenant, and he asked me who the fella with the mustache who I was just talking to was." The reporter admits having a mustache.

Still, they haven't Fascism in Jersey City yet. If they had, the police lieutenant would have gone over and smacked the reporter's face with no preliminaries whatever. And instead of sending out cards to people ordering them to attend anti-C. I. O. massmeetings the Jersey City authorities would have sent Brown Shirts to get them. And the people who told the reporter that it wasn't safe to talk politics in Jersey City wouldn't have done that. They would have looked blank and talked about how to cook an omelette. In view of these incontrovertible facts, who can say that Mayor Hague is a Fascist dictator? Nobody can, but it wouldn't take more than the merest sprinkling of brown or black shirts about the streets to make some people rather suspicious.

A BIT SOON.

"If you please, madam," said the new maid, "there's an unusual lady downstairs. She won't give her name, an' she's taken off her coat an' hat. As soon as she came in she opened the two cupboards and rummaged through them. Then she looked at the windows, shook her head, and rubbed her fingers over the mantelpiece and piano. When I left the room she was——"

"Dear me!" interrupted her mistress, "I didn't expect my husband's mother this week!"—Montreal Star.

FROM the Danville Commercial-News: "John Lester Perry, 56, was considered a newcomer among industrial typhoons as he assumed the presidency of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company. He was formerly president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company of Birmingham."

Just a breeze from the sunny south, bulletins Blanco Nina.

THE MORNING MAIL—in which we once took pleasure—is no longer an unmixed joy. It's a headache now. We share with you some of the choice samples:

"Is the Line turning into a woman's corner? . . . I notice less contribs already. The Line is dead! Long live the 'Ladies' Bower.'
"One of the Lineup."

"Please remember that we, the Contribs, have been part of the Line for years. It is our Line—not yours. We want no changes. . . . G. R."

THEN THERE WAS THIS ONE.

"Before June Provines had got herself fairly settled in the 'Line' chair she started to clean house by suggesting no nicknames. Why not set the example herself? I'm betting two bits—all in one piece—that she never was christened 'June'—but of course 'Jane' doesn't sound literary.
"A Chip Off the Old Block."

THIS ONE WAS AT LEAST POLITE.

"A rose by any other name might smell as sweet in dear old Shakespeare's day, but that's a theory that our good old Line has made definitly passé. Without our Jazzbo, Charles not Charlie, Eolus and such, I'm sure our once loved Line cannot amount to much! So grant our T. E. B. and Incunabulus; Hoppergrass, The Second Lyre and Heliogabulus; That Fella Down in Streator . . . why tell us his real name? Please leave us our old aliases, we like the pseudonymic game. L. E. R."

THIS—"TO THE EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE."

"Now that I have seen samples of the Provines conductorship I am unhappy with the result. The Line shows marked signs of degeneration. It is becoming as undistinguished as a city directory. . . . Insist on actual talent at the helm. . . . Ach Gott, is it fate that determines these appointments? I wish you would take a sporting chance on me. . . . DOWN WITH JUNE PROVINES.
"Your truly, Margaret Tinsley."

AND EVEN THIS.

"Shame on you! What have you done with our beloved Line? Get some one who can fill the space with material several degrees above its present moronic level.
"Disgustedly yours, F. Martin."

To Add to Our Uncertainty, This One.

"Front Views and Profiles was Front Views and Profiles and never could be anything else. Your readers didn't want it to be different. I also felt that 'A Line o' Type or Two' was a column of another sort . . . and still looked backward to the days of R. H. L., when the Line—like Knighthood was in Flower. . . . I want F. V. and P. back. E. P."

And to Complete It—This.

"Could you please tell me why June Provines isn't in the paper any more? M. E. C."

THE quips—and the dictionary says to quip is to scoff or jibe—are not exactly falling where they may. The aim seems to be pretty good.

PROPER FOOD FOR CHRONIC ILLNESS.

ABOUT a year ago one of the large eastern hospitals determined to make a careful study of a sizable number of their chronically ill patients. Many had been hospitalized and had been sent back to their homes improved—but not well. Others were seen in the out-patient section, where visits are made much as to physicians' offices. Most of these individuals had obscure ailments with a multitude of symptoms. By common consent all were acknowledged to present unsolved problems. Many had gone through every department in the institution, where much information was gathered—but somehow the parts of the puzzle did not fit. A few had been referred to the psychiatric division, only to be returned unaided.

At a conference of the medical staf it was decided to devote special attention to these men and women in an effort to locate a common factor which applied to all. Were they [the physicians] overlooking a simple deficiency, the supplying of which would relieve the great majority?

Symptoms were carefully tabulated. This took some time, as the periods of disability ranged from two to five years. All suffered from nervousness and it was noted that many easily were excited and upset. Then came a long catalog of distressing aches and pains in various parts of the body. Tingling and numbness of the fingers, fatigue, a sense of weakness, and a tendency to bruise easily, all were observed and recorded. When the mouths, throats, and teeth were examined, tender gums, bad breath, and many infections were disclosed. Digestion was uneven; that is, there would be two or three days of perfectly normal appetite—and then indifference to food coupled usually with abdominal pain.

From the above I am sure that many of us would be impressed with the fact that an attack should be made on all phases of digestion. This proved the most favorable line of advance and—much to the surprise of the investigators—not a single one of these patients was found to be receiving a balanced menu, although the shortcomings were not all alike. It was discovered also that in practically every case the beginning of the trouble dated back to some illness—influenza perhaps—at which time the diet was modified considerably. In many a normal food regimen never had been resumed. Several received too little protein, others a great excess of starchy foods, while still others were too low in minerals. All were lacking in vitamins.

Vegetables [fresh or canned] were given particular consideration and, strangely enough, it was found that the canned varieties served better than fresh. This fact was so startling that it was followed up with a visit to the homes, where cooking procedures were analyzed. It was learned that in most instances fresh vegetables such as potatoes, cauliflower, carrots, beans, peas, spinach, etc., all were overcooked. In the process minerals were leeched out and many of the starch granules thrown away with the pot water.

General improvement resulted from the prescribing of adequate balanced nutrition programs and the majority emerged promptly from the persistently ill class. Lacking elements were supplied by milk, fresh fruits or tomato juice, whole wheat bread, meat once a day, and an ounce of cod liver oil.

In this same connection I wonder how many parents are watching the daily intake of their offspring? If important elements are omitted in the growing stage far more damage will ensue than with our middle aged invalids. We have learned that no boy or girl should leave for school without a substantial breakfast. All too often appetite at this hour of the day is low, but it can be encouraged until it becomes a good habit.

The youngster—or the adult, for that matter—has no right to demand of the heart, the blood, or other organs full and satisfactory performance unless nutrition is complete.

SUNLIGHT, AIR BEST.

Mrs. R. J. H. writes: Does fumigating destroy tuberculosis germs? If not, what is the best method?

REPLY.

Tubercle bacilli are destroyed by twenty-four hours' exposure to sunshine and fresh air. This is better and safer than any disinfecting chemical.

TREATING FOOT CALLUS.

N. V. writes: How can I get rid of a callus on the ball of my foot?

REPLY.

Soak the part repeatedly in hot water or keep oil in contact with it. This will soften the horny layers and permit removal. Correction of your footgear and of improper posture or other abnormalities is essential to prevent relapse.

OFTEN FOLLOWS COLD.

R. O. writes: What causes wheezing and whistling especially on arising?

REPLY.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru.—Under date of Jan. 4. contracts were signed between the Peruvian government and the Frederick Snare corporation of New York, Havana, and Lima, calling for the expenditure of 21,836,080 sols [approximately $5,500,000] in the construction of a new port at Matarani, southern Peru, and in the extension of the existing port works at Callao.

Matarani, located some twenty or thirty kilometers north of Mollendo, will replace the latter port as the Pacific terminal of the Southern Railways of Peru, owned by the Peruvian corporation, a British concern, serving Arequipa, Cuzco, and the Lake Titicaca region, and connecting with La Paz, Bolivia, on the through rail route to Buenos Aires. Mollendo is an open roadstead and at certain seasons of the year landing at this port often is hazardous if not impossible. Matarani, on the other hand, is a natural inlet on the coast and has been selected after extended and careful surveys as the most suitable site for port development.

The sum of $4,000,000 is appropriated for the Matarani project, which is to be completed in thirty-six months. Two breakwaters, 610 meters and 150 meters long, connecting with small islands in Matarani bay, will form the inner harbor. Within the harbor will be a wharf 450 meters long, faced with concrete and filled with rock. [A meter is 39.37 inches.] No dredging will be necessary. The outer bulwark foundations of the wharf will consist of steel cylinders loaded with rock. Behind the wharf proper four large modern warehouses will be built, together with a customs building and other requisite structures. Almost 2 million cubic meters of rock will be excavated from the shore line to make space for the wharf and warehouses and to serve as fill for the breakwaters and wharf.

Construction of the port at Matarani will necessitate the relocation of that section of the Southern Railways of Peru between La Joya and the coast, a distance of 87 kilometers.

The contract for the extension of the Callao docks, on which $8,750,000 has been spent in the last ten years, calls for the building of a new 467 meter bulkhead, connecting the new docks with the French docks built in 1876. This new extension calls for an additional expenditure of $1,500,000, and also is to be completed within thirty-six months. The new bulkhead will provide wharfage for two additional steamers, bringing the total number of steamers which can be docked in the new port terminal, at one time, to ten. An area of 173,000 square meters, or more than seventeen city blocks 100x100 meters, along the present Callao waterfront will be gained by filling in the area behind the new bulkhead, and will be utilized for new streets, plazas, and building sites, which will completely alter the face of the old port.

The new port undertakings will be financed through the Reserve Bank of Peru at a low rate of interest.

The foregoing items do not include a new and modern graving dock, to be completed by May 2 of this year at a cost of $1,500,000. The dock will be able to take steamers and warships up to 10,000 tons displacement. Also not included is the new naval arsenal and shipyard for vessels up to 1,500 tons under construction adjacent to the graving dock. Arsenal and shipyard are to be completed prior to July 28 of this year at an estimated cost of $1,000,000.

All contracts for the modernization of the port of Callao, since the work was initiated ten years ago, have been awarded the Frederick Snare corporation and have been carried out under the direction of G. P. Seeley, vice president in charge of the Lima office.

ESTATE ADMINISTRATION.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" is administrator of estate [there is no will] which consists of small apartment building and small insurance. Estate was supposed to have been closed at end of first year.

1. Over five years have elapsed and it is still in probate.

2. B and C never have had any accounting and A refuses to give an accounting to B and C regarding expenditures.

3. Are B and C entitled to know how the income from the rental of apartments is being spent?

4. Does the administrator have to file statements regarding estate in the city hall, and [5] may the heirs examine files?

6. Does the court allow every one sufficient time to examine expenditures of administrator before closing estate?

7. Does court examine the account of administrator?

8. Will heirs be notified of time of probation?

9. Can they raise objections to unnecessary and excessive bills?

10. Does administrator have to show bills for everything charged to estate?

11. Are fees determined by the amount of cash the administrator handles or by the value of unsold property?

12. Is administrator permitted expense money besides fee charged for handling estate? In case an attorney handles collection of insurance, [13] is fee taken from income of estate?

14. Is it necessary or advisable to transfer ownership of property to one party before making sale?

15. How would heirs force case to be terminated after the one year in probate?

16. I think it would be interesting and educational if your column could have an article each day pertaining to proceedings of the court and different things regarding law which would be beneficial for a great number of people to know.

C. B.

1. The beneficiary should ask the clerk of the court to bring pressure to bear on the administrator to close the estate.

2. The administrator's responsibility is to account to the court rather than to the beneficiaries.

3. The administrator as such does not necessarily have anything to do with the real estate. If he is functioning as property manager, in addition to his functioning as administrator, then it would seem reasonable for the beneficiaries to demand an accounting.

4. He should account to the Probate court in the county building.

5. Yes.

6. Yes. Unless the beneficiaries sign waivers the administrator will be required to file his account and give them notice, affording opportunity to file objections.

7. Yes.

8. Yes, assuming that you mean time of closing the estate.

9. Yes.

10. In general, yes.

11. The Illinois statute says not over 6 per cent of the personal property.

12. Depends on what you mean by expense money. The administrator is not entitled to his living expenses, but he is entitled to the court costs, etc., in addition to his percentage.

13. The attorney's fees in case special services are necessary would depend on the agreement under which those services are engaged. For ordinary services of probating the estate, we incline to the opinion that the fees should come out of the administrator's percentage. If you mean to draw a distinction between income of the estate and other assets of the estate, we do not understand the purpose of that distinction.

14. We see no reason for it on the bare facts that you state.

15. The first step would be to try to get the clerk of the court to act. If this does not produce results, employ another attorney.

16. It is not clear whether you are suggesting something different than the manner in which the department is now handled.

ECONOMIC FALLACIES.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—In your editorial yesterday on the President's speech you neglected to show how devious are the arguments on which his whole policy is based. About agriculture, he gave three alternatives for remedying the situation: To cut the cost of farm production, to make the government the guarantor of farm prices, and to enable the farmers themselves by majority rule to control production. Nothing is said about the fourth alternative [which should be the first and only one to pursue]: To increase consumption by making it possible for the "ill fed third of our population" to be better fed.

Then he sets forth how, after increasing food prices by farmer control, the wages of workers should be increased. Don't you see the fallacy of such a principle? If food stuff prices [and, of course, clothing and everything else using farm products, too] are increased, no benefit will result to the workingman from an increase of his wages in dollars and cents, and, likewise, if such wages are increased everything the farmer has to buy will likewise increase in price and we shall be where we have started.

He says: "If the purchasing power of the nation as a whole—in other words, the total national income—can be still further increased . . ." meaning, all the time, in dollars and cents. But, if the income in dollars and cents will be increased for everybody there will be no increase in purchasing power as expressed in goods and services, because the higher prices necessarily following will absorb the increase of the income in dollars. The only way to increase the purchasing power of the people in goods and services is to produce more of these. This is the fundamental tenet of economics which it seems our President cannot grasp. Therefore, his entire policy is bound to fail.

Many opinions have been uttered as to the reason of the present recession, among them that it is due to too rapid increases in wages. I believe that this is the one most important cause. Increased wages raised prices to such an extent that people are holding off their purchases. Just look at the table of automobile sales in Cook county in December, 1937 and 1936, published in your issue of this morning. There is your complete answer. For years now automobiles have become lower and lower every year [and qualities better]. Now that prices had to be raised volume fell off. Here is where the C. I. O. killed the goose that laid the golden eggs. What profits it them now that their wages are higher if they have no jobs?

FARMER'S COMMENT.

Claytonville, Ill., Jan. 10.—"As it was in Andrew's day, so it is in mine," proclaims F. D. R. If only we could believe that it is no worse in Mr. Roosevelt's day!

The voting mass has been swayed by these hypnotic orations. The capitalists and industrialists have been painted as big bad men that should be taken into custody. The impression given is that if you back me I will take from these big, bad men and distribute among you. Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin are known for their ability to charm the masses too. The victims emerge and find themselves in a state of fear for what might happen if they don't follow.

If the new compulsory farm bill is made a law, we farmers will emerge from this New Deal metamorphosis policed by snoopers and regimented by fear of punishment. Foreign agricultural products will continue to flow into our country to supply its needs at our expense.

THE RELIEF INVESTIGATION.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The letter appearing today regarding the relief situation and signed by "Taxpayer" is worthy of reply inasmuch as Mr. Leo Lyons has always welcomed suggestions for the betterment of the relief organization in this city.

For the last several weeks there has been assigned to each office a representative of private industry who has been investigating various cases and reporting back to their superiors who are well known business men here in Chicago. When this report is completed it will be handed to Gov. Horner, who in turn will recommend legislation accordingly. So far it has been absolutely impossible to function with the 8 per cent overhead allowed by law.

If "Taxpayer" has a way out of this relief mess and will call on Mr. Lyons in the Merchandise Mart, I am quite sure that he will get a very cordial interview. The writer of this has served almost six years with the relief administration.

ARNOLD S. HYLDAHL.

SHOULD SHE BE TOLD?

Chicago, Jan. 7.—When I was 7 years old my folks died. There were five children, three boys and two girls. Both girls were adopted while we boys were taken in by relatives.

The older sister was told by her foster parents that she had brothers and sisters and should make it her business to keep in touch with them. My younger sister, who was 2 years old, was never told about her being adopted. After she was adopted her foster parents moved from the city of adoption. This all happened 20 years ago. We have recently heard that she just got married.

I would like to have her know that she has brothers and sisters, but I was told that it would hurt her feelings to think that she has been adopted and was not a real daughter. This places me in a position of not knowing what to do. Would knowledge of the truth in any way change her life? Our family would like at least to see her.

G. H.

EIGHTH GRADE INDIGNATION.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—I will be a graduate from the public grammar school this coming February. I am looking forward to attending the Kelvyn Park Senior High school. I have been told, much to my righteous indignation, that swimming or "physical education" is compulsory. Tell me if you can what swimming has to do with an education? Can you get a decent, respectable job just because you know how to swim?

How is it that at other public high schools gym could be taken instead of swimming? May I dare hint that maybe some of the pupils residing in the district have no bath tubs in which to take a bath so they have to take swimming, so-called, at the high school in the winter time when the beaches are closed?

I think that to have swimming compulsory is very inconsiderate.

TWO TELL COURT OF UNION PAY FOR SHOP TERRORISM

Testify at the Upholsterer Officials' Trial.

Two men indicted with Gus Novotny, business agent of the Upholsterers' union, local No. 18, took the stand yesterday at his trial before Judge Joseph Sabath on a charge of malicious mischief and testified that terrorism was used to bring business men under domination of the union.

The witnesses are Steven [Red] Straza, 2525 South Whipple street, and John [Fat] Jendrach, 2504 South California boulevard. They are also under indictment, but were granted separate trials and are assisting the prosecution.

Describes Officials' Offer.

"Novotny offered me the job of breaking windows in upholstery shops," said Straza. "He was to furnish the bricks and stench bombs that we tossed. 'If the work is good,' he told me, 'you'll get $10 a window. But you'll have to get another kid to help you.' Fat was willing to be the helper and we got paid for each job. We did half a dozen or so. I split half and half with Fat."

Jendrach confirmed Straza's testimony but said he had never had any direct contact with Novotny. Straza admitted acting as a picket for the union, although he was not a member, and said he was paid $16 a week for this work.

Victims of Terrorism.

"In March, 1936," he said, "Novotny came and demanded that our shop be unionized. I didn't want to do it and neither did the men, so the demand was refused. In a little while my window was smashed. So was my electric sign. A stench bomb was tossed into the place too. After that I called union headquarters and told them I was licked. They sent me a contract which I signed. There was no more trouble."

Other places in which similar terrorism was used included the Relax Upholstering company, 5466 Lake Park avenue; the Perfect Parlor Furniture company, 1532 North Elk Grove avenue, and the Star Upholstering company, Grand and North avenues.

Shortly before adjournment of court the state attempted to introduce into evidence a confession alleged to have been made by Novotny. Arguments on its admission are to continue today.

THIN MAN MAKES IN AND OUT JOB OF STORE THEFTS

Sleuthing Stops Leak at Soda Fountain.

The manager, Maurice Bernstein, 4804 North Springfield avenue, reported it first on Dec. 23. The night before, he said, he had left $350 in the cash register; when he returned in the morning the money was gone.

On Jan. 10 the assistant manager, Samuel Himelfarb, 6634 North Clark street, told police he had left $300 in the register the night before and—well, it was gone.

Windows and Doors Locked.

Sergt. Peter Harlib, sent to investigate, found that the doors were securely locked at night and were protected by burglar alarms. No windows had been broken. It seemed there was no way for the money to get out of the store and no way for a thief to get in. So Harlib and Capt. Patrick O'Connell told Jacob M. Hartman, owner of the store, that the thefts looked like inside jobs.

That made things tough for Bernstein and Himelfarb. They were asked whether they would like to take lie detector tests, and promptly said they would. Their conduct was so convincing that Harlib began to look around again.

Behind the soda fountain he found a small hole cut in the wall. It was not much more than a foot square and steam pipes filled part of the opening, which extended through to a hallway. Sergt. Harlib asked himself whether a thief could have crawled through. "It couldn't be done," he said.

Prove It Can Be Done.

The worried Bernstein and the assistant manager demonstrated that it could. They sent a thin youth through the hole. Sergt. Harlib then arrested James C. Sanders, colored, 21 years old, in his home at 4709 South Michigan avenue. He had been discharged as a porter from the store force in mid-December.

Sanders confessed yesterday that he had taken the money and spent it all on liquor and girls. He also had hoped that suspicion would fall on Bernstein and Himelfarb. "I never did like them," he said.

ACCIDENT CHASER MAKES AN ERROR IN SHIFTING SIDES

His Troubles Over Injury Suit Multiply.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Martin Shapiro was dismissed by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday when Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown reported he had already been charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Mr. Brown said that Shapiro was working last summer as an investigator for Attorney Harold Jackson, who is under arrest for an alleged attempt to defraud the Monon railroad in a personal injury suit.

"There was a collision of cars on the Pippin, a roller coaster ride at Riverview park," the prosecutor continued, "and several persons were injured. One of them was Sylvester Bialkowski, 2113 Caton street. The next night, after Bialkowski had been at work through the day on a fishing boat, Shapiro met him.

Put Victim in a Cast.

"Shapiro told the fisherman he had a good claim and took him to a hospital, where a cast was placed on Bialkowski's body. First, though, the victim signed a contract under which Jackson was to get one-third of the proceeds of the suit he would file. 'We'll say you have a fractured back,' Shapiro said.

"After Bialkowski stayed in the cast for two months, his relatives decided to change attorneys. The new lawyer had the injured man examined by physicians, who said that his back was all right, but that he had suffered muscle and ligament strains and a kidney injury.

"Shapiro then went to the officials of Riverview park and offered to tell them the truth about the Bialkowski case for $200. They suggested that he return and see the general manager. He returned. Sergt. Frank Hannigan was there to play the part of the general manager, with Policemen Willis Brennan and Martin Ward as assistants.

Takes the $200; Seized.

"When they had heard his tale and handed him the $200 Shapiro started to go. He was seized, deprived of the money and kept in custody."

Meanwhile Jackson and one of his investigators, J. J. Stahl, were arraigned in the Felony court on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the railroad company. Their case was continued to Jan. 21 and bonds for each were fixed at $12,500 by Judge Oscar S. Kaplan.

Zoning Board Reports 199 Public Hearings in 1937

The zoning board of appeals, Mayor Kelly was informed yesterday in an annual report, held public hearings last year on 199 applications for variations from the requirements of the city zoning ordinance. Of this number eighty-eight were granted and sixty-five denied.

OAK PARK PUTS TRAILER CAMP BAN IN EFFECT

Oak Park's trailer ordinance, prohibiting trailerites from gathering in camps and providing strict regulations for use of the rolling houses by individual owners, went into effect yesterday.

A camp is defined in the ordinance as any place on which stand two or more trailers used as dwellings, regardless of whether a charge is made for rent of the ground. A single trailer may be kept not more than 30 days in one spot, and then only if it has water and sewerage connections, a fire extinguisher handy, and 5,000 square feet of ground about it. Violators are liable to fines of from $5 to $200 for each day.

A RADIO CRITIC LETS PUBLIC IN ON HIS OPINIONS

Tosses a Few Orchids and Otherwise.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ben Bernie: That "lull between sponsors" [vacation] was just what you needed. First instalment of your new show had all the punch, pace and sparkle of those sessions from the College Inn a half dozen years ago. Jane Pickens and Buddy Clark are tops in their departments. While Lew Lehr [who sounds a little like Herman Bing of the movies] was plenty funny in this first round as your heckler, he has the potentiality of developing into a pain—as Jack Pearl and Bert Lahr did. That "Tobacco Road" brand burlesque of radio's daytime script shows was a pip. How about some more of them?

E. F. McDonald Jr.: Your plan to expand and diversify your broadcast series, which has been concentrating on telepathy, to include exploration of other frontiers of science—fever therapy, anesthesia, ethyl gasoline, and many other things—is a step in the right direction. We have enough entertainment on the air. We need more programs that inform, instruct, illuminate, and provide public service. . . And we hope that your pre-cognition [hunch] that Amelia Earhart will be found alive, which you are backing up with bets among your friends, will be borne out.

Mae West: Your "Mrs. Eve" broadcast may be preserved for posterity. Under a federal statute the script and recording NBC turned over to the federal communications commission cannot be scrapped without permission of the national archives department, we hear.

Don Quinn: Week after week, in fact year after year, your Fibber McGee scripts are bell ringers. How do you do it? Marion Jordan, of course, is missed from the program, but you, Jim Jordan and the rest of your company are bridging that gap every Monday evening.

George Washington Hill: How about a winter vacation—say four weeks o so—for that chanting tobacco auctioneer? Many listeners tell us that his scrambled speech is the biggest fly in their [broadcasting] ointment.

Harold Stokes: Take a bow on those "On a Sunday Afternoon" broadcasts. We hear that several of your aspiring young singers have landed jobs as a result of appearances on this W-G-N program. Marion Frances is now with Frankie Masters on NBC's It Can Be Done; Gilbert Mershon has landed a sponsor on two other local stations; Danny Ryan is singing with a dance band, and Patricia Long has a good prospect.

Leslie Edgeley: Many a kind word has been wafted in this direction about your There Was a Woman scripts. We particularly liked the one about Sarah Henry's influence on the life of her husband, Patrick.

Marek Weber: They'll be renaming the "Contented hour" the Champagne hour if you continue putting that Viennese sparkle into it. You are giving a program that has been a little too complacent a new lift.

Eddie Cantor: All that business about Ida and the five girls was funny—very funny—five years ago. It needs a long rest. I'm sure Mrs. Cantor and the girls would appreciate it as well as radio listeners.

OBITUARIES

Albert Mendel.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Graceland cemetery for Albert Mendel, former Chicago realty dealer who died last Saturday at Tampa, Fla., where he had lived since 1920. Mr. Mendel, who was 73 years old, was the son of Edward Mendel, pioneer lithographer who prepared campaign portraits of Abraham Lincoln in 1860. He is survived by a brother, Edward Mendel.

James Farquharson Leys.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—James Farquharson Leys, 70 years old, retired vice admiral, died of pneumonia last night at the Naval hospital here. His home was in Bryn Mawr, where he had lived after he retired in 1932. He had served through the Spanish-American and world wars.

Edward Graham.

Edward M. Graham, 118½ South Maple avenue, Oak Park, died at his home last evening. He was 83 years old. Prior to his retirement 16 years ago he was superintendent of the Vaughan & Bushnell company, hardware manufacturer, 2114 West Grand avenue. He is survived by his widow, Mathilde, and a son, Mark.

Hugh Neilson.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Hugh Neilson, a pioneer in telephone communications, died today at the age of 93. Three years after Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1874, Neilson, then a telegraph operator, became manager of the Toronto Telephone and Despatch company.

John I. Keller.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Funeral services were held today for John I. Keller, former mayor, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Leo Youngblood, on Tuesday at the age of 77 after an illness of nearly a year.

Charles R. Lee.

Funeral services for Charles R. Lee, veteran Chicago advertising man and employé of THE TRIBUNE, will be held at 3 p. m. today in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue. Burial will be in Santa Ana, Cal. Mr. Lee d[illegible] Tuesday.

REV. BURTON HOLT DIES; WARTIME CHAPLAIN ABROAD

The Rev. Burton P. Holt, who was senior chaplain of the First army corps in France during the world war, died yesterday in Hines hospital. He was gassed in the Argonne and had been in ill health since. The Rev. Mr. Holt served with the 414th machine gun train. After the war he became pastor of the First Roseland Presbyterian church, but gave up the pastorate after a few years. He was born in Whitman, Mass., 51 years ago.

Surviving are his widow, Estelle, 10731 Forest avenue; two sons, Robert and Ralph, and two daughters, Ruth and Mrs. Rachel Hopkins. Funeral services will be held at the Roseland church at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Cedar Park cemetery. Members of Roseland post, American Legion, of which the clergyman was past commander, will attend.

Funeral Services Held for Robert B. Harshe

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at St. James' Episcopal church for Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art Institute of Chicago. Mr. Harshe had headed the institute since 1921. His body will be cremated and the ashes sent to Salisbury, Mo., his birthplace, for burial.

An Explanation
The Illinois State Pawners Assn. is a nationally recognized institution, making thousands of loans annually on diamonds, watches & jewelry to individuals and to jewelers on their stocks of new merchandise. Many of these pledges are not redeemed and the collateral can then be sold by us at a price to cover the loan and interest. These pieces can be bought at only a fraction of the original price.

DOCTOR'S MAGIC LEDGERS LEAVE COURT FEVERISH

They Vanish, Then Bob Up in a Hectic Day.

Miss Betty Pfeisinger cut her finger back in 1932 and had it fixed by Dr. Carl T. Lewerenz, 3953 West 63d street, who was then 33 years old.

Dr. Lewerenz asked her if she would like to be his office assistant. Miss Pfeisinger at 20 was a stenographer without a job. She accepted. Came the new year and a proposal of marriage. She also accepted this and the wedding took place on Feb. 3, 1933.

Yesterday Mrs. Lewerenz came into court before Judge Charles A. Williams with her attorney, Benjamin B. Davis. She wanted temporary alimony and support for her son, William, who was 9 months old yesterday. She has a divorce bill charging cruelty pending.

Clash Over His Income.

Mrs. Lewerenz said she knew the doctor had an income of $1,000 a month. She used to keep his books. Dr. Lewerenz answered that her memory was faulty, if not downright poor. His books, he said, were in court with his new office assistant, Mrs. Katheryn Wierman, to uphold his point that he took in no such sum.

Into an anteroom went the principals, their attorneys, Mrs. Wierman, and the doctor's financial ledgers. Attorney Davis glanced over a few pages of the figures kept by Mrs. Lewerenz before she left her husband last Dec. 6.

"Some one has been doctoring this stuff with the help of an ink eraser," he declared. "I'm going to ask that the court impound the books and have an expert ascertain how many of the figures have been altered."

Dr. Lewerenz denied there had oeen any tampering. They all trooped back before Judge Williams. Attorney Davis said he would like to have the court look at the books. Judge Williams inquired where they were. Davis went after the ledgers. They had disappeared.

Solves Puzzle Too Late.

"Hey!" suddenly shouted Jerome B. Strauss, law partner of Attorney Davis. "There goes the secretary with them, out that door!"

Attorney Strauss, a former University of Chicago track star, took out after Mrs. Wierman. Hampered by a crowded courtroom, he reached the elevators too late to stop her as she left the building.

Judge Williams ordered her brought to court in the afternoon. Instead there appeared Attorney Clarence Lewerenz, a relative of the doctor, who said the books had arrived mysteriously at his office and were now in court, but that the secretary was ill. Judge Williams issued an attachment for Mrs. Wierman, who lives at 3154 West 64th street, but ordered execution of it delayed when Dr. Leverenz promised to have her in court today.

IN LOVE, HE FINDS SHE IS DAUGHTER, 2 DIE TOGETHER

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The frustrated love of a father and daughter who learned of their kinship only after they met recently for the first time and developed an affection was blamed today for their deaths, which were termed murder and suicide.

The bodies of Nelson Meese, 47 years old, and his daughter, Nellie, 17 years old, were found side by side in the home of the girl's mother, Pearl Hollis, in the mining village of Scottdale. Coroner H. Albert McMurray said Meese apparently had killed his daughter and then himself with a homemade pistol.

The coroner said Meese had not seen his daughter since her birth until they met recently, and that they had then fallen in love. The girl had lived with her mother, who was unwed at the time of Nellie's birth. A letter Meese wrote the girl said: "You are the only person I ever saw that I really liked and you turn out to be my daughter."

PUPPY LOVERS ARE SEPARATED; AWAIT PARENTS

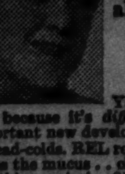
Miami, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Edwina Keyser, 13 years old, and Lowell Mast, 15 years old, eighth grade sweethearts, were separated today while juvenile authorities awaited arrival of their parents, who were expected to take them home to Bremen, Ind.

The girl was sent to the county children's home at Kendall and the boy was held in the county jail.

"We are in love and just wanted to go away together on a trip," authorities quoted the girl as saying. They ran away last Friday in a car belonging to Edwina's family.

WHO ELSE WANTS HEAD-COLD RELIEF?

"I was suffering from a terrible head-cold when I heard a radio announcer say: 'Try REL for quick relief.' I said to my husband: 'Bunk! Some more sales talk' . . . but I decided to try it anyway. I got a real surprise for I got almost immediate relief. Next day my head-cold was almost gone."



Mrs. E. B. Houston, 723 4th St., Lyndhurst, N. J.

Thanks, Mrs. Houston! You found REL so effective because it's different! It represents an important new development in the treatment of head-colds. REL reduces the swelling . . releases the mucus . . clears the head . . makes breathing easier! 30c and 50c sizes.

NOTE: Used in time, REL often "heads off" the miserable discomfort of a head-cold. Get REL right away!

Case Plant in Rockford Reopens After Sit Threat

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Operations at the J. I. Case company Rockford plant, suspended yesterday by labor difficulties, were resumed today. The plant's 1,700 workers were sent home yesterday after 200 attempted to incite a sitdown strike because a dozen fellow workers had failed to pay union dues.

$3,000,000 DAU ESTATE CLOSED; GOES TO CHARITY

Trust Fund Is Set Up for Six Institutions.

Judge John F. O'Connell approved a final accounting of the estate of Jep J. Dau, chairman of the board of Reid, Murdoch & Co., in Probate court yesterday. Mr. Dau, who died March 12, 1935, left nearly all of his holdings in trust for six charities.

The inventory listed the estate as worth $2,036,785, most of it in securities. Four large blocks of stock, with no par value, were carried at a nominal figure of $1 a share. Their present worth, however, according to yesterday's market quotations, adds nearly $1,000,000 to the value of the estate.

Also included in the estate are bonds valued at $200,000 and cash of $512,183. Because charity gets most of the estate, the state inheritance tax amounted only to $1,378. The inventory, prepared by the law firm of Wilson & McIlvaine, did not state if a federal inheritance tax had been paid.

Trust Set Up for Charities.

Mr. Dau arranged most of his estate in a trust, dividing the income into twenty equal parts. Four of these parts—one fifth of the income—are to go to each of the following institutions: The Chicago Home for Incurables, the United Charities of Chicago, the Children's Memorial hospital, and the Young Women's Christian association. The remaining four parts are to be divided equally between the Danish Old People's home and the Chicago Orphan asylum.

He also set up a $100,000 trust fund to pay sickness and disability benefits to employés of Reid, Murdoch & Co., who have been in the company's employ more than ten years. Mr. Dau also left $10,000 to Ripon college in Wisconsin.

Small bequests were left to a nephew and a niece. Mr. Dau's wife, Harriet Hughes Dau, died in 1917. They had no children.

Kavanagh Estate to Widow.

The will of Marcus A. Kavanagh, judge of the Superior court for thirty-seven years, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Judge Kavanagh, who was 78 years old, died Dec. 31 in Hollywood, Cal.

Attorney William D. Saltiel, who filed the will, gave no estimate of the estate's value, but said it would not be large. Judge Kavanagh left it all to his widow, the former Jeanne Latour, his secretary, whom he married in 1933 when she was 27.

FIND YOUNG DIVORCEE RAPED AND FATALLY BEATEN IN ALABAMA

Phenix City, Ala., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Beaten and raped, the body of a young woman was found today on a road five miles from here. State patrolmen identified the victim as Mrs. Nellie McFarland, 20 years old, a divorcee.

"Apparently she had been knocked in the head and run over by an automobile," said State Highway Patrolman W. J. Linch. "She had been dead several hours when found. Dr. Ashby Floyd of Phenix City said she had been raped before she was killed."

Phenix City Police Chief Otis O. Gay said two colored men are held on suspicion, without formal charges.

LASSIE'S WAYS IN COURT SAVE MASTER A SUIT

Lassie, a collie owned by George Dahl, 4838 Wolfram street, had her day in court yesterday and acquitted herself like a lady. Accused of being a vicious and ferocious animal, accustomed to biting and attacking people, Lassie only looked pleased when Peggy, 2 years old, her mistress, pulled her ears and tail. Judge Thomas A. Green dismissed a $200 damage suit brought against Dahl by Louis Trento, 652 North Curtis street, who was bitten by Lassie last July 4.

Life Begins At 40

Willie Hoppe at 50 Again Defends His Crown As a World Billiard Champion

Asked if his game has improved since he was the "Boy Wonder," he is amused. "I am STILL learning," he says

WILLIE HOPPE—playing on table with new-type cushions he recently developed.

THE FIRST TIME Willie Hoppe won the 18.1 balkline championship was back in 1906, when he was nineteen years old. This is one of the most difficult forms of billiards—and Hoppe's feat was extraordinary. He became famous as a prodigy.

Other titles were won later—the 18.2, 14.1, Three Cushion and One Cushion.

Last November, during his recent 18.1 championship match, the newspapers were filled with talk about his "masterly nursing," "flawless masses," "superb gathering shots" and "remarkable repertoire."

For Hoppe has kept the touch of his youth. And he has added to it three decades of experience. Today the control he has over billiard balls is something uncanny to watch.

There Is No Substitute for Experience

Only the man with long training is really master of his profession and equipped to meet every emergency. Employers needing workers who are always reliable, and consistently sound in judgment, find these qualities in men over 40.

"Life is like championship billiards," Willie Hoppe says. "It requires steady nerves—and enough stamina to carry you through the hard sessions. I sometimes have to make 250 points twice a day for six days in a stretch. I couldn't do this without my health."

James Clarke Built up Morale. Has New and Better Construction Job

Dear Life Begins: A "sand-hog"—that is, a compressed-air worker—has to be in first-class condition. Company doctors examine you once a month to make sure you are.

Some years ago I was working in what we call "high air"—or heavy pressure. It took more out of me than usual. I was tired, nervous, jumpy and my face broke out in pimples. I was worried the doctors might not pass me.

I started eating Fleischmann's Yeast. It helped put me back in shape and still helps to keep me that way.

I went on with my job, even after I passed the age limit. Now, at 42, I'm going into something new and better in the construction line. I've had this idea for a long while, but wouldn't have attempted it if Fleischmann's Yeast hadn't helped build up my health and morale.—JAMES CLARKE

Mrs. D. B. Reed Is In Trim at 45. Sells Stories of Stage Experiences

Dear Life Begins: After 15 years in show business, I planned to take life easy for a little while. But with no hard work I began to feel sluggish. My digestion went off, too. Then suddenly I had to find work.

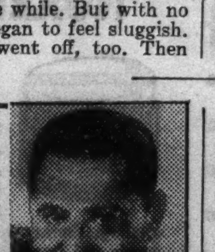
One day I was telling a friend my troubles. She said, "You can make your own job. Why don't you write—tell those good stories you've told me." But I knew I couldn't while I felt like a bump on a log. Then she said I should eat Fleischmann's Yeast to get back my pep and I decided to try it right away.

In a week I began to feel less sluggish and after a month my digestive system was normal.

I started writing about my years of trouping. That was a year ago—and in that year I've sold six stories.

Now that I'm busy at my writing and don't get much exercise, I depend on Fleischmann's Yeast to help keep me in trim.—MRS. D. B. REED

Harry S. Richman Got Back His Good Disposition. Tips Better



Dear Life Begins: Being a waiter, I kind of got into the habit of getting my meals any time it was convenient, and eating them too fast.

I'd been doing this for years, but at last my whole digestive system got so out of gear that my nerves felt it. I couldn't seem to help being irritable. It was bad enough for the ones who worked with me, but when I began to talk back to the people I waited on—well!

Fleischmann's Yeast had helped my wife's indigestion, so she talked me into trying it. Within 10 days the headaches I'd been having were definitely relieved and as I kept up with the three cakes a day, my digestive troubles straightened out.

My temper improved, too, and my old customers began to come back to my tables. Judging by the tips, they're pleased with the service they get!—HARRY S. RICHMAN

How You Can Help Check the Digestive Weakening that Brings on Age

As people grow older, the juices in the stomach which digest food are likely to become less powerful. They tend to flow more scantily, as well.

Then it is time to give your digestion a little help.

Your digestive system can be toned up. For Fleischmann's Yeast helps make the gastric flow stronger and more plentiful. This stimulation is due to the millions of tiny, live yeast plants in fresh yeast.

You get an additional tonic action from Fleischmann's Yeast. It has 4 important vitamins—the Nerve Vitamin, the Cold-Resistance Vitamin, the Bone Vitamin and the Vitality Vitamin. As their names show, each plays its part keeping you fit.

Don't let digestive decline go on unchecked. Begin eating Fleischmann's Yeast regularly 3 times every day—plain or in a little water. You'll soon learn to like its fresh, malty flavor. Eat one cake ½ hour before meals. This will help the gastric juices to flow more freely and be ready to digest your food when you eat.

See how much happier life seems when health and energy return!

MANDEL'S MILLINERY — FIFTH — STATE

Ousted Agent and 2 Auto Company Men Accused.

True bills were reported voted by the grand jury yesterday charging Edmond F. La Voie, former state sales tax investigator, and two officials of a west side motor sales concern with conspiracy to defraud the state of about $30,000 in sales taxes.

Edmond La Voie.

Beside La Voie, the following were reported named in the indictments due to be returned in open court today: William H. McFadden, president of the McFadden Motor Sales company, 3210 Jackson boulevard, and David K. Springwater, former manager of the concern.

Ex-Agent Gives Self Up.

McFadden and Springwater were arrested Tuesday, but police from the state's attorney's office were unable to find La Voie until he surrendered in the Criminal Courts building yesterday. All were freed on $5,000 bond.

The reported grand jury action was the first important development in the campaign against evaders started after Sam Nudelman, state finance director, discharged 16 of his investigators for accepting graft and inattention to duty. La Voie was the first of these agents to be fired.

Conviction on the conspiracy charge carries with it a penalty of from one to five years in prison.

Monthly Tax Reports Missing.

Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson completed grand jury work in the McFadden case yesterday after receiving assurances from Springfield that in the finance department records are documents which will take the place of several in the case reported lost on Wednesday.

Missing are eight monthly tax reports from the McFadden concern but in their place the state can substitute monthly index cards kept by the department which contains the information carried on the originals.

The grand jury report is expected to be made before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington today.

Seize 11 as Tax Dodgers.

Eleven other alleged sales tax violators, including Justice of the Peace Frank Kaminski of Thornton, were arrested yesterday. Kaminski formerly owned a grocery in Calumet City. He is charged with evading $1,000 in taxes. The eleven, all from Chicago suburbs, will be arraigned tomorrow before Justice of the Peace Harry Leviton of Berwyn. The arrests were made on warrants sworn out by investigators under Assistant Attorney General Mortimer Porges.

Fasting Cleric to Spurn Food 2 More Years, Friends Say

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The Very Rev. Israel Harding Noe, whose friends say has been fasting for nearly two weeks after a year in which he lived on oranges alone, was reported today to be planning to abstain from food and drink for two years.

The clergyman, who is dean of St. Mary's fashionable Episcopal cathedral, declared he is carrying out a spiritual demonstration beyond the comprehension of medical scientists.

"When my program has been completed in the next two years I shall have something to say," he said today as he strode vigorously across the street from the deanery to conduct a 45 minute service in the cathedral. He is 47 years old.

Fear He May Collapse.

Friends assert he says he subsisted for a full year on only orange juice and that since last Jan. 2 he has eaten no food except a tiny communion wafer and sip of wine at the church's regular communion services three times a week.

However, physicians among the dean's friends have expressed belief he may soon collapse. He was a man of unusually robust health when he began his experiment. Now he is only a shadow of the stocky, rosy-cheeked clergyman of former years.

His friends are divided over whether to take him to a hospital in the event of collapse and feed him intravenously or permit him to sacrifice himself in his determination to show a new way of life.

Reconciled with Wife.

It had been hoped that a reconciliation two weeks before Christmas with his wife, Mrs. Ellen Camblos Noe, and her return to the deanery with their two children would cause the clergyman to give up his asceticism.

The couple had been separated since 1931, when Mrs. Noe unsuccessfully sought a divorce. She asserted then the Rev. Mr. Noe had reached such a state of spiritual perfection he no longer cared for things of the flesh.

The dean said at the time of the divorce hearing that marriage embraces first a life of generation, which is accomplished when a union is blessed with children, and later a life of regeneration. He said the only Christian standard of birth control is self-control.

LUMBER WIDOW DEAF TO CALL OF DOUGHNUT TRADE

Mrs. Emily Flamm Gilchrist, who has engaged in the lumber business since she inherited a $2,000,000 estate at her husband's death eight years ago, will not desert it for the doughnut industry in which she has just become interested by marriage.

The wealthy widow, who says she isn't 70 years old, as some one reported, but nearer 49, was secretly married Tuesday to Roe Wells, vice president of the Doughnut Corporation of America. They were one of the last nonresident couples to receive a marriage license at Valparaiso before the Indiana Supreme court suppressed the marriage mills.

15 Friends Share Secret.

"Roe's a very nice man, really," she confided yesterday. "And we didn't elope, we planned it for several weeks. We did hope to keep it quiet for a while, and told only about 15 intimate friends our little secret."

Mrs. Wells objected to the way her friends kept her confidences about her three previous proposals, too. One was reported to have come from D. Hall Roosevelt, brother of the President's wife. This appeared to worry Mrs. Wells.

"I just hope D. Hall doesn't read the stories about a romance he is supposed to have had with me," she added. "I'm sure he wouldn't like it at all. As for the North Shore real estate man who was the third suitor—well, they don't know his name, anyway."

Retains Interest in Lumber.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells will divide their time between Chicago and New York. Mrs. Wells will spend at least three months each year in her apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive, she explained, directing her lumber holdings.

Meanwhile, friends speculated on whether Mr. Wells would continue in his executive capacity with the doughnut corporation or whether he would assist his wife in handling her lumber interests. There was no indication last night that their marriage would change their respective business affairs.

HEART ATTACK FATAL.

Anton Ehm, 79 years old, 6228 Champlain avenue, who was born in Austria and lived in Chicago for fifty-six years, died yesterday in his home of a heart attack.

DENIES KNOWING OF $6,200 THEFT BY HIS 'ANGEL'

Patrick J. Billings, sometime movie extra, thought that Miss Rose Marie Gennarelli was a good angel when she gave him money, but he was shocked when he learned she was taking it from her former employer, the Securities Service corporation. He testified to this effect yesterday in the Criminal court, where both are charged with conspiracy to defraud the company of $6,200.

Billings told how he met Miss Gennarelli in a north side ballroom. Later, he said, she slipped $60 into his coat pocket after hearing of his plans to make $5,000 a week in the movies. Then she told him she had received a settlement for an accident and gave him more, he said.

Billings will be cross-examined today, when the case may be given to the jury in Judge Rudolph Desort's court. Miss Gennarelli has pleaded guilty.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Percy Gardner, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary on two charges by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

MOVIE ADMIRER LEAVES SUM TO MARION DAVIES

Reno, Nev., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—For years Clark Alvord, hard rock miner of the Nevada hills, adored Marion Davies of the movies. He never missed one of her pictures and often drove forty miles over rough desert roads to see them. He wrote her hundreds of fan letters that went unanswered.

Last week he died, and today his will was filed. It left the bulk of his small estate to the actress. His property included $1,000 cash and the South Eastern Mining company of Eldorado Canyon, Nev., worth about $9,000. When he drew the will in 1930 Alvord bequeathed his entire estate to Marion, but later added a codicil that 45 per cent be given his legal heirs.

Alvord died in the desert town of Nelson, where he was miner, postmaster, and keeper of a general store. Known throughout Nevada for his mining activities he also was a student of Indian lore. In 1936 he published a book of poems, "Indian Muse," and once wrote a dictionary of the Piute language.

BLAZE KILLS LIVE STOCK.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Fourteen head of cattle, two mules, many sheep and hogs died in a $7,000 fire at the William Waddup's farm near here today when two buildings were destroyed.

'L' Transfers to West Towns Railway Will Begin Sunday

ULSTER, UNEASY OVER DE VALERA, CALLS ELECTION

Seeks Voice of People on Irish Unity Scheme.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A surprise general election on Feb. 9 in Northern Ireland was announced in Belfast today. This was interpreted as Ulster's answer to an indication that Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Ireland will make a new effort to get control of the six counties of Northern Ireland in the course of talks in London next week with Malcolm MacDonald, British secretary for dominion affairs.

It was believed previously that May was the earliest date elections would be held. Lord Craigavon, Ulster's prime minister, announced today, however, that in view of De Valera's attitude: "I feel it necessary to put the position of Ulster beyond a doubt."

British Warn Ireland.

British officials warned De Valera on Dec. 30 it would not recognize his right to attempt to apply Ireland's new constitution, which became effective Dec. 29, to Ulster, and that it would not admit that the new constitution affected Ulster in any way.

It was believed in some quarters, however, that De Valera may try to force the British into an agreement to change Ulster's status in return for the coöperation the British want from Ireland [now also known as Eire] in defense matters. That, evidently, is behind the sudden move to call elections.

"The opportunity now presents itself, under our system of representative government, to allow the people to pronounce upon issues for themselves, and I have no doubt as to the answer they will give," Lord Craigavon said.

The Ulster parliament will be dissolved Jan. 20, with nominations on the 29th and voting Feb. 9.

Expects to Win Poll.

The present cabinet has been in office since November, 1933, and is confident of its strong hold upon the people. An election strengthening it would show overwhelming opposition to any change in the present status of Ulster, as a member of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and that is the result Lord Craigavon expects.

One of the chief topics of the Anglo-Irish talks will be the question of a British loan to Ireland in return for the development of Irish air and naval bases for British use. De Valera will seek political advantages as a sort of bonus.

Irish Deputies Applaud.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 13.—General applause greeted Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's announcement in the dail eireann last night that he and three ministers will meet British ministers Monday in London. He said they would discuss outstanding differences between Great Britain and Ireland.

The deputies foresaw the settlement of the economic war which has been going on between the two countries since 1932, the removal of punitive tarifs on cattle exported from Ireland and an all around relief of the tarif position.

De Valera will insist, above all, it was said, that Northern Ireland join with the 26 counties of Ireland—the former Irish Free State—under the new constitution.

WOMAN JUDGE SEES JARECKI'S COURT AT WORK

Lawyers who appeared yesterday before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of County court were surprised to see sitting beside him an attractive woman, blue eyed, blonde, and dignified. She was Judge Jessie Sumner of Milford, elected county judge of Iroquois county last month.

Judge Sumner is 39 years old, unmarried, and a Republican. Visiting in the city she dropped in on Judge Jarecki, a Democrat, to see how courts are conducted in a large city. She was the first woman elected a county judge in this country.

Although her last campaign was strenuous, Judge Sumner announced she will seek the Republican nomination for congressman from the 18th congressional district in the spring primary. The judge said she expects a hard fight in Vermillion county.

Bride Loses Trousseau as Aurora Home Burns

The home of Frank C. Schafer, owner of the Aurora Greenhouse company, Aurora, was swept by fire early yesterday. Eleven persons, including guests who had arrived for the wedding of Miss Gertrude Schafer to Arthur Johannessen, which had been planned for tomorrow, were driven into the cold in their night clothing. Miss Schafer's wedding gown and trousseau were destroyed. The loss was estimated at $8,000.

Mother's Witnesses

Mildred Maier (seated) and her sister, Marie.

Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday granted Mrs. Marie Sophie Maier, 3812 North Ashland avenue, a divorce from August Maier, a WPA foreman. They were married in 1908 and separated Nov. 14, 1937. Mrs. Maier, who is 52 years old, testified that her husband threatened her with a pistol and struck her. Two daughters, Mildred and Marie, who are radio entertainers, testified for their mother. Alimony of $5 a week was awarded.

ROBT. I. RANDOLPH TO CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS SEAT

Backed by Republican Committeemen.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Robert I. Randolph, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of the Secret Six, crime fighting agency, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman of the Sixth district. His announcement was made after a meeting of the district's committeemen, who unanimously selected him to make the race.

Democrat Now Has Seat.

The sixth is the second largest congressional district in Cook county in population, giving way only to the adjoining Seventh district. The sixth has 600,000 population, about evently divided between a tier of west side wards and most of the western suburbs. Mr. Randolph lives in Riverside. The present congress man is Thomas J. O'Brien, a Democrat.

Another congressional announcement calculated to produce a first class political row on the south side came from Roscoe Conkling Simmons, well known colored orator, who will try for the Republican nomination in the First district. It has been understood that former Congressman Oscar De Priest also will file for his old seat. Arthur W. Mitchell, the first colored Democrat to hold a seat in Washington, is the present congressman.

Tea Held for Women Candidates.

Members of the State Republican Woman's club met for tea yesterday in the Republic building in compliment to Miss Mathilda Feinberg and Mrs. Helen Sewell, candidates for election as representatives of the Fifth and Sixth districts in the state legislature. Mrs. William Harrison Cade was reëlected president of the club and Mrs. Harry E. Hoss, Mrs. Rosalie Didier and Mrs. Emma Martini were chosen vice presidents.

Considered the world's tiniest baby when she was born, Jacqueline Jean Benson, now a chubby, brown-eyed child with an appealing grin, will celebrate her second birthday today.

Although she weighed only 12 ounces at birth, her weight now is 24 pounds and she is 29 inches tall. She has developed like other children—even to the extent of not liking spinach. Her vocabulary is growing daily and, with the aid of her mother, Mrs. Lester Benson, she is slowly learning to walk.

Legion Post Will Present Watch to Hero Debowski

The Chicago police post of the American Legion will present a watch today to Lige Debowski, heroic chef, who killed two bandits and was wounded five times himself in a liquor store at 1007 Leland avenue last July. Debowski is slowly recovering from his wounds in the County hospital.

BUTTER SAUCES PLEASE PALATES OF GOURMETS

Many an author of smacking good dinner dishes attributes his or her success in cookery to a generous use of butter. A huge lump of butter in the mashed potatoes, butter for the broiled steak, a buttered vegetable, hot, buttery rolls, cake or pudding with a butter icing or sauce. There aren't many dishes which can't be enhanced in flavor with butter.

At times butter is too expensive to use as lavishly as we'd like, but nowadays the price is quite reasonable. Fish, vegetables, meats and desserts may blossom forth in butter sauces such as these:

MUSTARD BUTTER—Blend ½ cup butter, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper and 2 teaspoons white vinegar. Serve with broiled fish.

MAITRE D'HOTEL SAUCE — Cream ¼ cup butter, add the juice of a lemon and 2 tablespoons finely minced parsley. Season with salt and paprika. Serve with fish or broiled steak.

PARSLEY BUTTER: Add finely minced parsley to creamed butter in the proportion of 2 teaspoons parsley to 2 tablespoons butter.

DRAWN BUTTER SAUCE—Melt ¼ cup butter, stir ¼ cup flour into it, and add slowly 1½ cups boiling water. Cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter and beat well, just before serving. Serve with fish or vegetables.

BLACK BUTTER — Heat ⅓ cup butter until well browned, add 1 teaspoon lemon juice and season with salt and pepper. Serve with fried fish or meat. If the fish or meat has been cooked in butter, use that butter as a basis for the sauce.

ALMOND BUTTER—Melt ¼ cup butter and saute ¼ cup shredded blanched almonds in it until they become slightly browned. Serve with fish.

BUTTER AND CRUM SAUCE—Melt ½ cup butter, add ¼ cup fine, dry bread crums, 1 teaspoon minced chives, ¼ teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Allow the crums to brown. Serve hot with cooked asparagus.

QUEEN'S HARD SAUCE—Cream ½ cup butter until fluffy. Work in 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar, and add another cup of sifted confectioners' sugar alternately with 3 tablespoons of any liqueur or cordial. Chill and serve on hot pudding or gingerbread.

CHERRY HARD SAUCE—Instead of the liqueur or cordial in the preceding sauce, use juice from canned cherries, and add ½ cup finely chopped cherries. Chill before serving.

FOAMY BUTTER SAUCE—Cream ½ cup butter with 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and, just before serving, add ¼ cup boiling water and 1 stiffly beaten egg white. Beat until foamy and serve on pudding.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Sugar and Lard Among Costlier Staples.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

The trend in food prices continues downward, although few significant changes have been made in the last week. Figures gathered in THE TRIBUNE'S survey reveal that the list of food items advanced in price is extremely short this week.

Sugar and lard are about the only foods on the shopper's regular staple list that have been raised, and these advances are not general. Many stores added ½ to 2 cents a pound to lard. Others are still selling it for last week's prices. Following sales held last week, most stores have marked their sugar prices up for today and tomorrow.

Greengrocers and butchers marked up few products for the week-end.

Butter Prices Lower.

Butter prices continue to go lower. Approximately 9 cents a pound has been shaved off the price of package butter in the last month; roll butter has been reduced about 5 cents a pound. Merchants generally have cut their butter prices 1 cent a pound compared with a week ago.

Flour is on sale in some stores. Most stores have reduced their prices 4 cents a 24½ pound sack on the higher priced grades. In addition some have reduced their lower priced grades as much as 10 cents a 24½ pound sack.

Higher grades of coffee are off 2 and 3 cents a pound in several places.

The few reductions made in the fruits and vegetables departments were small in most cases. Spinach is off 1 to 2½ cents a pound. Head lettuce is cheaper generally. Green onions are off a penny a bunch in some stores. Grapefruit continues to go lower. Prices were considered low, and some merchants reduced grapefruit as much as 2 cents each again this week.

Baking Potatoes Less.

Idaho baking potatoes are 4 cents a peck less in some stores. In most stores green beans will be found 1½ to 3 cents a pound under last week's prices; a few, however, raised them 1 cent a pound. Fresh tomatoes are 2 cents a pound higher in some stores and 2 cents a pound lower in others. Grapes are scarce; some stores are not offering them this week. A few stores have reduced their prices on red grapes a cent a pound.

Several cuts of fresh meat have been reduced to the bargain price level for today and tomorrow in many retail meat markets. Pork loin roasts are 6 cents a pound cheaper in city and suburban shops. Pork spareribs are slightly less in some places. Pot roasts, the old Sunday dinner standby in many homes, will be found 2 cents a pound off in some butcher shops in almost every neighborhood. Neighboring shops, however, have raised their prices 2 cents a pound on pot roasts in many cases. Still other butchers are using the same price tags. Loin lamb chops have been marked down as much as 4 cents a pound in several places, while leg of lamb is 6 cents a pound higher in the same shops.

Frying chickens are off 2 cents a pound, but consumers still consider them relatively high.

Down in Packingtown dressed beef is officially reported to be about the same on the better grades of carcasses. Common and medium kinds of beef are steady to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher. Veal and mutton are about the same. Dressed lamb is $1 to $1.50 a hundred lower than a week ago. Pork loins are steady to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The federal reporters quote fat steers and yearlings steady to 25 cents a hundredweight higher on the live stock market at Union stockyards this week compared to last. The week's top on fed steers is $12.10, with the best long yearlings reaching a top of $11.75. Hogs weighing 220 pounds or less are 5 to 10 cents a hundred less than a week ago. Those weighing 220 pounds or more are 20 to 50 cents a hundred lower. The top price paid for light hogs this week was $8.70 a hundred. Fat lambs are reported to be about the same as last week; the week's top on slaughter lambs, $8.85 a hundred.

Greens Reach Shops.

Mustard, collards, turnip tops, and other kinds of greens from the southern states are appearing on the central market now and are beginning to find their way into some of the stores. Fresh rhubarb from hothouses in Michigan is selling at reasonable prices. Some fresh okra came from Cuba this week.

Items that have been reduced in price on the wholesale fruit and vegetable market since last week include apples, green beans, spinach, oranges, and lemons. Carrots, cauliflower, head lettuce, dry onions, rutabagas, and fresh tomatoes are slightly higher, according to federal reports.

A MARMALADE FRESHLY MADE IN MID-WINTER

Let the contents of the jam and jelly shelf run low, even if it is the middle of winter. Who cares, when the larder can be replenished with freshly made citrus marmalade?

GRAPEFRUIT MARMALADE.

Use one large grapefruit and three large oranges. Cut into thin slices, cover with three and one-half pints water [7 cups] and let stand over night. Boil slowly until tender; add 3½ pounds sugar [about 8 cups] and continue cooking until fruit is clear and sirup sheets from spoon. Remove from heat, cool about 5 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent floating fruit. Pour into clean dry glasses, filling them to within ¼ inch of the top. When cold and set cover with paraffin and store in a cool, dry, dark place.

GOOD-TO-EAT PORK CHOPS BAKED WITH TOMATOES AND RICE

PORK CHOPS WITH TOMATO RICE.

6 pork chops, 1 inch thick
3 cups cooked rice
1 can condensed tomato soup
2 tablespoons bread crums
Salt and pepper

Brown the chops in hot skillet. Season with salt and pepper. When browned, remove from heat and place in casserole. Add ½ cup hot water and heap the rice on top of the chops. Pour over all, one can tomato soup and sprinkle with crums. Bake uncovered for one hour in moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

COMBINED SOUPS IS A DELICIOUS FOOD THOUGHT

One of the brightest new ideas in canned soup cookery is that of combining two soups to make one.

[Serves Six.]

1 can condensed tomato soup
1 can condensed vegetable-beef soup
2 cans water

MOCK TURTLE AND PEA SOUP.

[Serves Six.]

1 can condensed mock turtle soup
1 can condensed pea soup
2 cans water
1 tablespoon sherry

TOMATO BOUILLON.

1 can bouillon
1¼ cups tomato juice
¼ teaspoon lemon juice

APPLETS MUST BE POPULAR; HERE IS RECIPE AGAIN

Applets must be the family's favorite confection in many households—there are such frequent requests for the recipe. Here it is again:

APPLETS

2 cups unsweetened apple pulp [8 medium cooking apples]
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup chopped walnut meats
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Red vegetable coloring
Confectioners' sugar

Add sugar to apple pulp and cook until thick [about 30 minutes]. Stir occasionally. Soak gelatin in cold water for about 5 minutes. Add to hot apples, stirring until dissolved. Cool slightly and add nut meats, lemon juice, and a few drops of red coloring to tint a delicate pink. Pour into flat pan to ½-inch thickness. Keep in refrigerator overnight. Cut in squares and roll in confectioners' sugar. Adding 1 tablespoon of cornstarch to each ½ cup of sifted confectioners' sugar prevents stickiness.

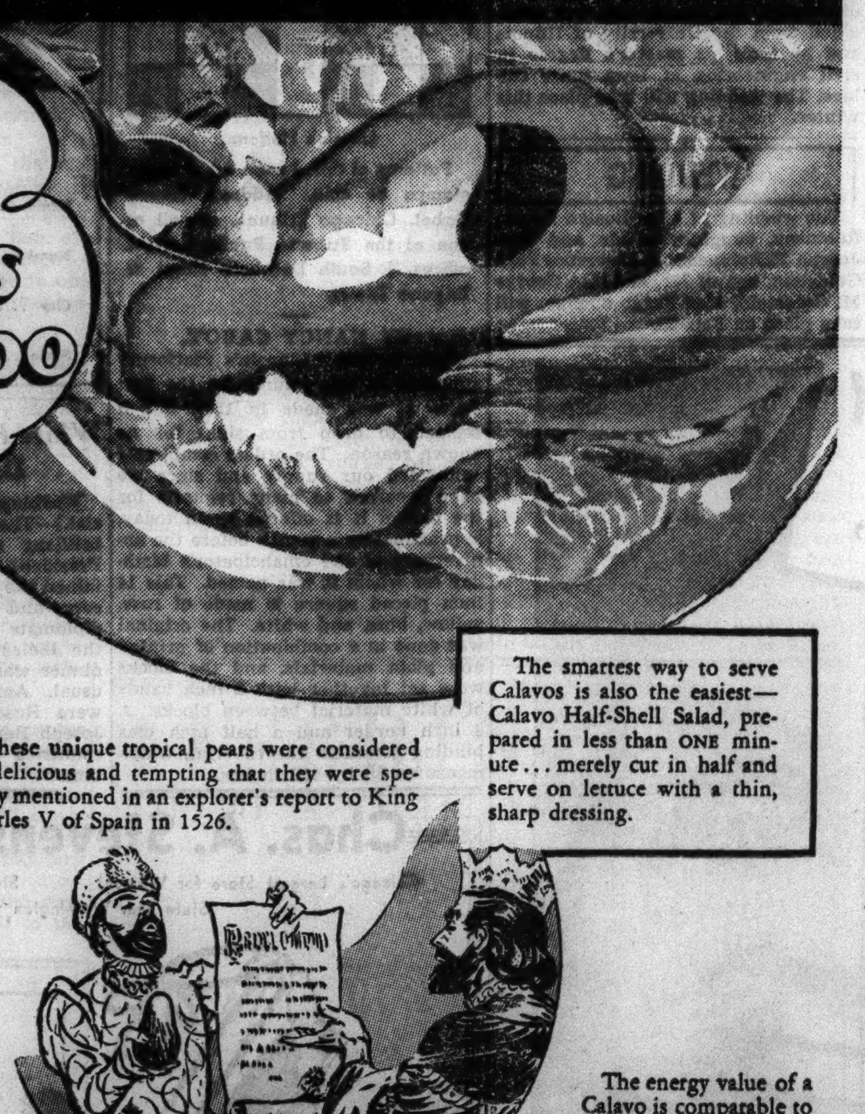
IT'S CALAVO TIME Again!
Large Supply... Watch Grocers' Specials!
ODD FACTS ABOUT CALIFORNIA'S FINEST AVOCADO PEARS


A generation ago there were only a few avocado trees in California. Now there are over 400 varieties. For your protection The Calavo Growers of California permit their trade-mark, CALAVO, to be stamped on their best avocados only... tropical pears carefully selected from only the 14 finest varieties.
These unique tropical pears were considered so delicious and tempting that they were specially mentioned in an explorer's report to King Charles V of Spain in 1526.
The smartest way to serve Calavos is also the easiest—Calavo Half-Shell Salad, prepared in less than ONE minute... merely cut in half and serve on lettuce with a thin, sharp dressing.
The energy value of a Calavo is comparable to that of fine lean meat... far in excess of any other fresh fruit on the market.

A few years ago Calavos were more than $1 each. Today your dealer has plenty at special prices anyone can afford.
Men are so often hard to please with salads. But we have yet to hear of a man who does not like Calavos when served properly (see coupon for Recipe Book).

Calavo pears are picked exactly at the right time (laboratory tested) so as to soften properly for delicious eating. They are just right for serving when they yield to gentle pressure of the full hands.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The chapter in your Gold Book dedicated to the "tired business man" proves that you have humane instincts. But how about dedicating a chapter in your next book to the T. H. M. [tired home maker]? To her the intricacies of contract bridge are but one of the multitude of problems with which she is called upon to struggle. Some of the others being, in the order of their difficulty . . . husbands [and now the self-rated bridge expert], children [adolescents in particular], the family budget [unbalanced, like a bridge hand, with a void], housekeeping [endless in detail], homemaking [ah! but this is an art], gardening [and the neighbors' dogs], schools, church, clubs, other organizations, and so on ad infinitum.

"Please, Mr. Culbertson, won't you give us, the T. H. M.'s, a condensed, foolproof formula, too? Not quite as elementary, perhaps, as the one you have outlined for the T. B. M. Thanks a million. Sincerely,

"Mrs. D. S. A., New York."

When I wrote the Gold Book I considered devoting a special chapter to the ladies but immediately put the idea aside as unsound. I realized, of course, that many women have only a limited amount of time that they can devote to the study of bridge. But, I reflected, in view of the lightning rapidity and bulldog tenacity with which the feminine mind absorbs and retains knowledge, it would be subtly insulting for me to write such a chapter. I fear that Mrs. D. S. A. wrote me with her tongue in her cheek. Witness her disingenuous request for a foolproof formula, but one that is "not quite as elementary perhaps as the one outlined for the T. B. M." We tired business men would get very sore about this if we weren't so tired!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 heart	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade queen. East, although he knew very well that conventional play called for his king, thus insuring that the spade suit would not be blocked, deliberately violated the convention in this instance because he had a sound reason for doing so. He played the spade ten. West, then, led a low spade and declarer found himself in quite a dilemma. Naturally, he could not tell the exact division of the spade suit. East's sequence of plays made it appear probable that the suit was divided 4-3, because [declarer reasoned] with only the king and 10, East's correct play would have been to overtake the queen and return the ten. Thus, with the hope that the heart ace lay in East's hand, declarer held up his spade ace, permitting East's king to win. When a third spade lead failed to materialize, declarer had a sinking sensation that he had been bamboozled, but it was too late now. Declarer could make only four no trump, which turned out to be a poor match point score.

At every other table North-South made five no trump because East played in orthodox fashion. At these tables, when declarer saw the king overtake the queen, they immediately counted East for only two spades and they jumped on the second lead. If West had the heart ace it would do no good to hold up, anyway.

Useful Toys Solve Small Child Problem

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

After the articles appeared that were written for young mothers who are distracted and impatient because their smallest ones love to follow them around and be with them and get under foot, came this letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I, too, have a word for the mother whose child gets under foot. I am a young mother, 26 years old, with a little girl of three and a half years.

"I keep a six room house, wash, iron, and fire furnace in the winter and I don't have any help.

"Get under foot? She did until I woke up. Now she does everything I do. She has her own set of housework tools, to use when she doesn't care to play outside, which is most of the time because there are no small children in our neighborhood.

"When making beds she fluffs pillows [made to seem a very important job!]. When washing dishes [contrary to dishwashing etiquette] I wash silver and the aluminum percolator and parts first which keeps her busy drying and putting away in their proper places, while I do up the glass and china.

"It's the same with washing and ironing. She turns the socks to be washed and, although her iron doesn't heat, irons the hankies. When I'm mending I give her an old sock [to be discarded], a needle and thread and oh, my, the yards of sewing with one needle full of thread!

"My goodness, impatient mothers! There are a million and one things that a tot can do [or thinks she is doing] and it fills them so full of importance and accomplishment that they expand all over the place!

"Eventually they will really be doing these things in the approved manner and so take a few of the smaller tasks off of your hands.

"One thing I don't do is let her see me doing over something that she has already done. As far as she is concerned the job is perfect just as she has left it. They all improve with repetition.

A YOUNG MOTHER."

It is just as this mother says, there are dozens and dozens of things that will keep a young child happy about the house and that will also teach her deftness and give her the experience of doing something happily with some one else.

Lorraine Matthews Is Bride

Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Reach Jr. was Miss Lorraine Matthews until her marriage on Wednesday at the Drake hotel to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Reach of Winnetka. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Matthews of 70 Scott street. Mr. Reach and his bride have gone to Nassau and Havana on their wedding trip.

Engagements Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice S. Miller of 130 Beach road, Glencoe, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Holbrook, to Dr. Frederick Lieberthal, son of Dr. and Mrs. David Lieberthal of Chicago. Miss Miller is a graduate of Bradford academy and attended the Goodman theater and the Chicago Art theater. Dr. Lieberthal was graduated at Harvard in 1922 and from the Rush medical school in 1926. He is a member of the faculty of Northwestern university medical school. The wedding will take place in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Patterson of Larchmont, N. Y., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sallie, to George A. Pagels, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pagels, 2021 West 110th street. Miss Patterson, a graduate of the University of Illinois, received her master's degree in economics from Columbia university. Mr. Pagels also was graduated from the University of Illinois and he took his master's degree in civil engineering at Iowa State college. The wedding will take place this winter.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Roslyn Louise Robineau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Robineau, to Lawrence Paul Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Goldstein, 1546 Fargo avenue, will take place on Feb. 22.

THERE'S no mystery about the amazing way American Family Soap turns out a far whiter, sweeter-smelling wash than ordinary soaps—without boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing, or the use of strong bleaches. For laboratory tests have proved that American Family contains as much as ⅓ more suds-making material than other leading brands of bar soap sold in this territory—including soaps containing naphtha. It's this extra suds-making material that gives American Family Soap greater washing power. That produces the rich, creamy, active "DOUBLE-SUDS" which float out even the grimiest dirt in record time, and with utmost ease to clothes. Because these "DOUBLE-SUDS" take the place of boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing and strong bleaches, colored fabrics retain their gay brilliance indefinitely. White clothes come out snowy white. All washables last unbelievably longer.
A short trial with American Family Soap will reveal why this famous brand has been the leading seller in this market for over 90 years. And why countless thousands of women know—"It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes." Made by Procter & Gamble.

Jewish Women Told Freedom Is Issue Today

Citing the difficulties that lie in the path of democracy, speakers at the Silver Jubilee massmeeting of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods yesterday called upon women to play a leading rôle in the defeat of fascism and the building of a world free from insecurity. The sisterhoods have 55,000 Jewish women members.

The meeting was held in the Palmer house. Speakers included Rabbi George Zepin, executive secretary of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Ruth O. McCarn, counselor to women at Northwestern university, and Mrs. Abram Simon, founder and honorary president of the sisterhoods. Lady Lily Montagu, secretary of the World Union for Progessive Judaism greeted the meeting, via radio, from London.

"The task of democracy has changed" Rabbi Zepin said. "The western world has heretofore been occupied with one problem, the right of the common man to choose his leaders—political democracy. Now the scene of the battle has shifted from the political to the economic arena. It has now become a struggle for the choice of employers, more accurately the right to employment."

Mrs. Simon saw the greatest task for women in lending their efforts to the preservation of democracy. "We women" she said, "are pledged to the defeat of imported fascism, communism or Hitlerism.

Lincoln's Platform.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Back in 1934 "Lincoln's Platform" appeared in this column for the first time. It was made in 1860, but it seemed to drop from sight for no known reason. The orders completely exhausted our supply and since we have received so many requests for the design it is offered again today, approximately a month before the anniversary of the emancipator's birthday for whom it was named. This 14 inch pieced square is made of rose, yellow, blue, and white. The original was done in a combination of printed and plain materials, and the blocks were set together with 2 inch bands of white material between blocks. A 6 inch border and a half inch bias binding complete the coverlet, which measures 88 by 108 inches.

House Frock Easy to Make

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

You can make this pretty house dress in a jiffy. There are a couple of seams to sew, a little ready-prepared trimming to apply, and there you are! This model takes especially well to horizontal stripes, available in so many of the lovely washable fabrics. The collar is a rather deep one, edged in ruching, lace or, if you so choose, braid. The cuffs on the puffed sleeves match the collar. The pointed bodice is reminiscent of peasant styling, and the generous sash ties in a bow in back.

The skirt has nice flare, achieved without plaits or paneling. You will like the comfort and chic which this simple model affords. This is an easy pattern to follow, and we advise you to make several different frocks from it. The expense will be trifling and your home wardrobe will be enriched.

Style No. 3442 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

John Cameron and Dorothy Palmer Wed

BY JUDITH CASS.

WEDDING announcements will arrive in Chicago in a day or so from Dr. William H. Palmer in St. Petersburg, Fla., telling of the marriage of his daughter, Dorothy Ann, to John W. Cameron on Jan. 3 in St. Petersburg.

The news of the marriage of young Mr. Cameron, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron, to Miss Palmer will come as a surprise to his Chicago friends. Their engagement was announced in December and the wedding date tentatively had been set for the late spring. Mr. Cameron went to Florida to spend the Christmas holidays with his fiancée and her father, and the couple decided to be married at once.

Dr. and Mrs. Cameron were invited by telephone to come south for the ceremony, but they were unable to get away. However, several of Mrs. Cameron's relatives were present at the wedding, which took place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Peter's Episcopal church.

Mr. Cameron and his bride went to Miami on their honeymoon and now are on their way to Chicago. Dr. and Mrs. Cameron expect them on Sunday, according to the latest news, and they probably will stay with the bridegroom's parents at 1210 Astor street until they find an apartment of their own. Dr. Palmer's home is in Janesville, Wis., but he spends every winter in Florida.

Bridal Dinner for Mary Clow.

Mrs. Howard Linn, who is Miss Mary Melville Clow's godmother, and Mr. Linn will give a bridal dinner at their Lake Bluff home, Pointed Roofs, tonight for Miss Clow and Mario Braggiotti, who are to be married tomorrow. The Austin Niblacks will entertain at cocktails preceding the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow will give a luncheon tomorrow for their niece and her fiancé and the out of town guests. Following the wedding, which will take place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell will give a dinner for the bride's other godmother, Mrs. Granger Blair, who is here from Washington.

Sebastiano Braggiotti, who is to be his brother's best man, and his wife, and Miss Gloria Braggiotti, who is to be the maid of honor, are the only members of the Braggiotti family who have come for the wedding. The matrons of honor are to be Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin, the bride's sister, and Mrs. James E. Finan, the former Betty Sturges Field. Mr. Finan, Jacques Frey, Edward Briggs of Boston, George Platt Lynes, and Henry Blackman Fell of New York are other out of town guests.

Prokofieff Sailing Date Uncertain

The Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago is still unable to start selling tickets for the concert planned for Feb. 15, for the president, Mrs. Inez Stark, has not heard definitly whether the artist, Serge Prokofieff, will be here. His friend, Ephraim Gottlieb, has had a cable in answer to one he had sent to Moscow which said enigmatically, "Available date next season."

This seems to indicate that the internationally noted pianist and composer will not be leaving Russia soon and that his engagements in this country for this season would have to be canceled. However, Prokofieff's New York manager has had no later word than that Prokofieff would sail from France for this country on Feb. 3, so he and Mrs. Stark are hoping that there is some misunderstanding and that the pianist will be in Chicago on the 15th to play, as planned, in Mandel hall.

The Renaissance society is sponsoring another concert this winter, one to be given by Fernando Germani in Mandel hall on Sunday afternoon, March 13. Mr. Germani is an organist and the first artist to adopt the electric organ as a solo instrument. He was here for several hours yesterday on his way west where he will give a series of concerts before returning to Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, Ginger Rogers.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.

Q.—Miss Rogers, you are a Texan, aren't you?

A. — Yes, and no.

Q. — Such flippancy is in contempt of court.

Ginger Rogers wins a contest.

A. — It's not flippancy; it's the truth. I was born Virginia Roggers in Independence, Mo., but when my mother became the society editor of the Fort Worth Record I went to Texas.

Q.—Quite a few newspaper men and daughters of newspaper men out here. You, Florence Rice and Frances Mercer, Nelson Eddy, Frank Morgan, and——

A.—Are you interviewing me?

Q.—Objection sustained. How did you get into show business, Ginger?

A.—I won a Charleston contest. Henry Santrey and Anne Seymour were playing at the Majestic theater in Fort Worth, and they staged an amateur Charleston contest for the kids of Oklahoma and Texas. The finals were at Dallas, and I won. First prize was three weeks of vaudeville on the Interstate circuit.

A.—That was months later. First I played Chicago and St. Louis and other towns in vaudeville. I didn't want to go into Paul Ash's act as a matter of fact.

Q.—Why not?

A.—Well, I was supposed to take the place of Helen Kane. You remember what a sensation she was with her "Boop-boop-a-doop" routine, Ed, and naturally it was a tough spot to follow. But I finally went in. I sang two songs and said some allegedly funny things.

Q.—What songs were you singing?

A.—Let's see. One of them had a daffy title—"Come On Out and Come On Into My Arms."

Q.—What was the next step?

A.—"Girl Crazy," with Willie and Eugene Howard and Ethel Merman.

Q.—I don't remember you in that show, Ginger.

A.—Flatterer.

Q.—I didn't mean it that way. When did you get into pictures?

A.—I was making pictures in the east, at the Long Island studios. But I decided they weren't paying me enough dough, so I went to the head man and I told him.

Q.—So he gave you a raise?

A.—So he did not. He said that if I wasn't satisfied, I could always quit. So out of false pride, I quit. But it taught me a lesson that I've never forgotten. It's always better to ask for a raise than demand it.

Q.—You started out here on the coast with Warner's, didn't you?

A.—No, my first contract was with Pathe. Then I did a couple with Joe E. Brown. Then after "Gold Diggers," Warners' let me out, and I signed with RKO.

Q.—It must have seemed at that time that you were about washed up, didn't it?

A.—Things weren't breaking too well for me. And then along came "Flying Down to Rio" with Fred Astaire. There's one thing about this business—there's nothing that one good part can't cure quick.

A.—Probably "Stage Door." It was the first time that I'd really attempted a dramatic part, and the success of the picture and the reaction of the fans were heartwarming.

A.—Plenty. You can work as hard as you want, but you'd better have luck riding with you, too, or it's no go. I've always worked hard at whatever I've done, but looking back, I often thank the Lord for being so darn nice to me.

Q.—What's the greatest thrill you've had in this business?

A.—There have been a lot of them, Ed. The first vaudeville date, the first Broadway appearance, the first musical comedy, "Top Speed," the first picture, but I think one of the greatest thrills was at Madison Square Garden the night you introduced me at the Harvest Moon ball. When the applause started it was so ear-shattering that I thought that the mayor had just made an entrance. I didn't know whether to sit down or to start applauding, but I could see you motioning me to stand up. When it finally dawned on me that the applause was for me, I had the funniest sensation I've ever had. I've never forgotten that night. But you know they rushed me out and took me over to Dempsey's so that the fans wouldn't mob me for autographs. Say, I would have much sooner sat there and watched those colored youngsters dance.

A.—You're darn right I will. It's been swell, dissolving the partnership while we both went on our own, but it'll be nicer still to get back together again. This will be our seventh picture, and just between you and me, it looks like the best, at least, we'll have our fingers crossed.

Through the Looking Glass

Some time ago we undertook a course of hair reconditioning treatments, promising ourselves that we would take at least eight before we made up our mind about their merits. Dandruff and all the other hair ailments aren't acquired overnight—and neither are they banished in one easy lesson with this or that preparation.

There is a great deal to be said on the scientific side about these treatments; in them pituitary extract is used externally. But like us, you are probably interested only in the results. We thought them extraordinary. The scalp scales, after a time, disappear. The hair is softer, but stronger, and has luster. We even—and we cross our heart and hope to die if this isn't true—sprouted some lovely new hairs, lovely in our wistful eyes because they were brown, not gray! Waves last longer. All in all, it's something to write home about.

When you undertake this course of treatments you must do some things at home, go to the beauty shop for others. Each week, in the beauty salon, you have a "hair bath," a special hair cleansing with a special preparation. After this the pituitary oil is applied to the scalp with an eye dropper. And that, by the way, is the system in applying oil to the scalp!

When you sign up for your course of treatments you're given certain quantities of the pituitary oil to apply at home at stated intervals between visits to the shop. You're given an eye dropper, too. It's no trouble at all, and there's no noticeable greasiness. In fact the oil alone seemed to us a find in the way of a hair dressing aid; it gives luster and makes unruly hair manageable.

At the end of the course of treatments you're amply rewarded for the time and money you've spent. Your bedraggled hair has taken on new life and gleam. If you're having what seems to be hopeless hair problems, we earnestly—and honestly—recommend these.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Miss Bustabo Really Merits Homecoming

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Orchestra hall saw a homecoming in the grand manner last night when Guila Bustabo returned to the city in which much of her early childhood was spent. She is the 18 year old Manitowoc born violinist who has just completed a three year tour of Europe.

Guila Bustabo grand homecoming.

With the assurance of a veteran, Miss Bustabo walked out upon the historic stage to make her first appearance at a regular subscription concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Slight, with delicate features and outflaring, shoulder length hair, a fine set of bangs, an extremely exotic appearance, and a white confirmation dress, she won the liking of the members of her audience before they had heard so much as a single squeak out of her fiddle.

But there were not to be any squeaks. She delivered the opening phrase of the Mendelssohn concerto in so breathtakingly confident a manner, with such ease and style and polish, that it took us not longer than ten seconds to realize that we were in the presence of no mere child prodigy but of a fine violinist who asked no consideration whatever because of her youth.

With an attractive disdain for mere technical difficulties Miss Bustabo romped successfully through the first movement, only to display in the second certain musical endowments for which nothing that had gone before quite prepared us. Here was simple, angelic singing of a type rarely heard even in the most crowded of seasons.

With a white, pure tone admirably suited to the splendid naïvete of the music, this remarkable young violinist proved herself the possessor of a natural musical eloquence. Her simply constructed, finely rounded periods, in which the beginning implies both the middle and the end, have that uncanny power to impress a listener with the great importance of what the music is conveying. This goes far beyond mere style; it is the innate musicianship of the player.

At the conclusion of the concerto's third and final movement the audience allowed its feelings to discharge themselves in loud and long continued salvos of applause. Curse the miserable fiddle, which allows no encores unless they be the unaccompanied music of Bach!

Miss Bustabo evidently felt that Bach would be out of place after an experience of the particular kind of dewy morning of the world innocence which fills the Mendelssohn concerto—so there were no encores.

Hans Lange, conductor of the evening, preceded the concerto with the overture to Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and a first performance anywhere of Zoltán Kurthy's "Puszta" rhapsody.

The title of this latter piece, the work of the 35 year old principal viola of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, is translated "Hungarian Prairie." Themes tinged with the lonesome, semi-oriental colorings of Hungary, themes whose intervals and harmonic structure stamp them as exotics in main line western music, are built into a work whose form, on first hearing, does not seem to grow naturally out of the composer's thought, but to be chosen rather as a frame into which the music is to be fitted.

"SHE MARRIED AN ARTIST."

Paul	Franklin Pangborn
Betty	Jacqueline Wells

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Attention, Personality Scouts! Concentrate on Luli Deste! And if you don't say she's a find, a knockout, a beauty, and a honey—why I miss my guess.

Miss Deste, daughter of a baron and baroness and the divorced wife of a baron, hails from Vienna. She has only appeared over here in one other film—"Thunder in the City," with Edward G. Robinson, at which time she was given favorable notice. In "She Married an Artist" she proves that she's definitly "big time." I prophesy that producers will be battling for her services.

The picture is a lightweight comedy drama which also gives John Boles opportunity to show up to good advantage. He's the artist—a New York illustrator—whom "she," a French designer, marries.

The stormy, completely nutty courtship and married life of Toni and Lee provide the story's motive power, and it is a yarn that should surprise, amuse, and interest you.

Toni's pat, parting remark to the effect that "some of the happiest people in the world live in asylums" will give you, Dear Reader, some inkling of the sort of thing that goes on in this movie.

Miss Deste and Mr. Boles seemed thoroughly to enjoy working together and they make a handsome team. Their supporting cast is a dandy. Frances Drake, who looks not unlike Miss Deste, gives a peppy performance. Helen Westley as the artist's housekeeper is a card. Various temperamental gentlemen are adequately portrayed by Messrs. Pangborn, D'Arcy, and Windheim. . . . Direction was excellent.

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

The new stoves being shown at the current house furnishings markets are marvels of efficiency. One electric model we saw has five degrees of heat for its burners. From warm [80 watts] to simmering [160 watts] you regulate the heat through quarter speed [325 watts] and half speed to superspeed, 1,300 watts. Thus, there is a temperature for every cooking need.

Other excellent features of this 1938 stove are: A six quart, built-in cooker which cooks small quantities or prepares whole meals at once; a clock that automatically times the oven for you, turning it on and off while you're away; a completely insulated oven with sliding shelves; a special broiling oven with glowing electric coils under which to broil your steaks and chops. This range is available in various sizes from a small bachelor apartment model to a de luxe one with six burners.

New Footgear and Handbags Match Exactly

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Footgear and accessories so well matched that an expert with a spyglass can't detect a shadow of variation in color is something shoppers have dreamed about since the beginning of the ensemble madness. To be able to find all this important loot grouped together is the first sign of a millennium. But you can have it all just for a trip to town.

One of the newest colors, called Parisand, is used for pumps, sandals, street oxfords and afternoon slippers. It's a gorgeous vivid tone of copper resembling the gleam of a new penny. the suèdes are as soft as thin velvet, the kidskins as supple as heavy satin, and the heels come in all heights and shapes. Stunning combines of suède and kidskin are other notable examples of an inspired shoe designer.

With the footwear come some of the best looking bags ever unpacked; swanky strap models, envelopes and unusual shapes. Both suède and calfskin are available as well as combinations of the two. These match exactly the suède and lether in the shoes. Belts, gloves, scarves, handkerchiefs and costume jewelry have been made expressly for the Parisand tone of the footgear and the accessories are lavishly versatile in style.

One, two and three thread hosiery complete the items featuring this stunning new color. Every piece mentioned is dyed exactly the same color, with the same gleam of copper as the clever slippers. In as short a time as an hour you can select all the necessary accessories and shoes for your spring wardrobe in this color.

Fashion photograph . . . midseason ensemble of flaming red wool coat contrasted with dull black crêpe dress. The wide sash belt of huge black and white printed silk is of the material used to line the coat. Long loose sleeves, a soft tie at the fitted waistline and a collarless neckline are high fashion details of spring coat models. A small black hat tufted like an old-fashioned pincushion has covered small buttons of red to accent the tufted design. Hat and costume are now available in the midseason showings.

RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1938: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer, James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house he finds the front door ajar. Entering, his flashlight reveals a girl who commands him to "Run!" A shot whistles after them as they flee. At his Cousin Daphne's, James later meets the girl. She is Sally West, sister of his college chum, Jocko West. She hints of danger to him—because of what he saw—her brother and herself. Jackson, a rival salesman, takes credit for driving the car the night of the fog and is run over and killed. Sally and James fall in love. Sally is in fear of Ambrose Sylvester, the novelist, who is her guardian; also his wife, Hildegarde, and the latter's cousin, Henri Niemeyer. The money Sally's Aunt Clementa left to Jocko comes next to her, and if she dies, to Ambrose. The aunt, supposedly bedridden, discovered that her ancestral home, Rere place, was being used for some criminal purpose, and found and hid the evidence. Sally, James, and Jocko conduct a futile search of the house. While putting his car up, James is knocked out by Henri. Meanwhile, Jocko goes to investigate the cellars, and Sally is confronted by Henri and Hildegarde. They admit they intend to kill them. Sally is chloroformed and awakes to find Ambrose beside her. She escapes to join Jocko. James, regaining consciousness, returns to the house and, catching Hildegarde and Henri with a book and parcel, snatches what they have found. Hildegarde sets fire to the house. James rushes to save Sally. The three are trapped in the cellar.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

THE DIAMOND NECKLACE.

James felt in his pocket and produced the other thing which Hildegarde had taken from behind the panel. He thought the mysterious packet would at least distract Sally's mind from Ambrose Sylvester.

She had drawn back and was leaning against the wall, as far from the well as possible, in a half sitting, half kneeling position. James put the parcel on her lap and sat down beside her. From her other side Jocko West leaned forward.

Sally picked up what looked like a roll of brown paper, clumsily fastened with string. The string had some old sealing wax clinging to the knots, but it was so loose that it was quite easy to slip it off. There was tissue paper inside, very much creased and lumped together around something which weighed heavy and loose in her hand.

Jocko gave a sudden curious laugh.

"It was in the letter—Aunt Clementa's letter! She put Hildegarde's book behind the panel with one of our bats, in the place with the family secret. And what's the betting this is the family secret? Off with the paper, Sally, and let's see if it's what I think it is!" He held up the candle.

Sally pulled away the paper and there came out, long and flexible, link falling from link, a necklace. The links were dusty, but the diamonds dazzled in the candle light. There was a row of them, one to each link, very large and shining, and then a tracery of smaller stones set in festoons, and from the three middle festoons three swinging tassels with a very great diamond at the head of each.

Jocko laughed.

"So Giles pinched it. I always thought so—the dirty dog! What are you going to do about it, Sally—throw it down the well?"

Jocko burst out laughing.

"O Sally—you treasure! Henrietta Maria started if off to the king getting on for three hundred years ago and you propose to deliver it just as if nothing had happened in between. Is that the great idea?"

Sally said, "Of course." She looked at the big diamonds and thought about Giles Rere, who had betrayed his trust, and about Ambrose Sylvester, who had betrayed his. She felt James' hand on her shoulder and knew that he would never betray any one. They would have their quarrels and they would have their troubles, but it wasn't in James to betray. The knowledge was warm at her heart and the necklace cold in her hand. She was glad when James took it away from her and wrapped it up again.

"It's as safe in my pocket as anywhere," he said, and put it back there.

Some time later.

"We ought to be sitting in the dark, you know," said James. "That candle won't last forever and we may want it badly."

Jocko laughed cheerfully.

"Lots of candles," he said, patting a pocket. "About half a pound of 'em, I should think. I don't come down into cellars without the wherewithal to see 'em by."

"How are we going to get out?" said Sally suddenly.

"We'll have to wait for the fire to burn itself out," said Jocko on one side of her.

James put his arm around her. The well gaped at him. The door was shut. How long could they stick it out? How long would they have to stick it out? And even as the thought formed in his mind the second shock came. Its violence was beyond expression and the noise prodigious. Sally's faint cry was lost in it. Everything rocked and rocked again, and overhead the vaulting bulged and cracked.

"It's coming down," said Jocko in an odd, light voice—"the whole damned house. That's about the size of it."

James pulled Sally to her feet.

"The bolt's on the door!" he cried. "They were there to keep the back way in—they must have been! They don't make sense any other way. The air's quite fresh in here and it's coming up from the well. The well is the back way in and it's our way out. Hold up, Sally, while I have a look!"

Sally shut her eyes, because she heard the stone crack again above her, and she thought that was the end. Then James was speaking, his words hurrying and stumbling.

"There's a ring—there! Look, J. J.! And steps—notches—good enough for foothold, anyhow. Rings and notches! There's our way, and we'd better get going!"

Sally stood against the wall and thought she felt it move. She said: "I can't go down the well. It's no use—I just can't."

And then she opened her eyes and saw only Jocko, there on the brink of the well—only Jocko, not James—whilst her heart nearly stopped with fear. She heard his voice coming up with a strange echoing sound.

"It's all right, J. J. There's a cross passage about ten feet down—quite dry. You'll have to let the candle down to me."

The rock above them cracked again, but Sally watched him set two lighted candle ends on the edge of the well some way apart and then quickly and deftly make a noose for the candle and candlestick and lower them down and out of sight.

James' voice came back in a moment.

"Good work! Now for Sally!"

Sally turned faint. Her heart knocked against her side and the blood drummed in her ears. She heard voices, but they were just a noise without words or sense. And then Jocko had her by the arm. He shook her a little and his grip hurt. He said with harsh authority:

"Pull yourself together! O, yes, you can! Now listen! Im going to hold you and let you down to James. There's plenty of foothold. He'll guide your feet. It's perfectly easy—you've only got to do what you're told." He put his lips against her ear and said in a hard whisper, "If you faint, you'll fall, and if you fall you'll kill James, and if you stay here you'll be crushed to death, because the roof's going to fall in. Now will you behave?"

Sally said "Yes" on a faint, piteous sob. She would much rather have been crushed to death than go down the well, but she couldn't kill James. She bit deep into the corner of her lip as Jocko took her by the arm and made her kneel on the brink.

James' voice came up to her.

And then Jocko was swinging her over.

"Feel with your foot—a little more to the left—no, lower down. That's it. Now catch that ring on your right. I'm going to shift you sideways so that you can reach it. It's all right—I won't let go."

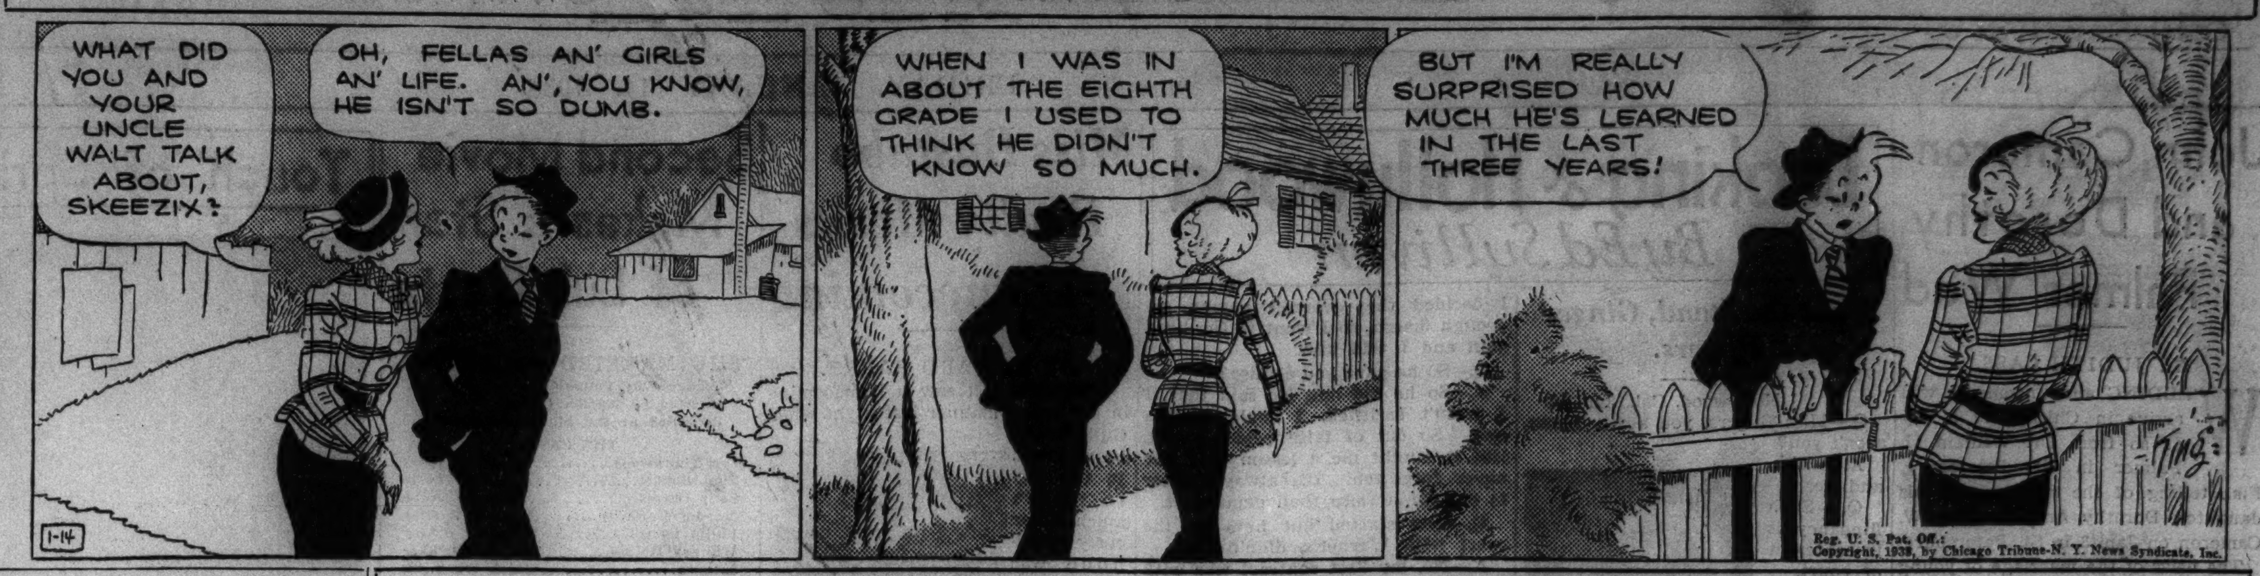
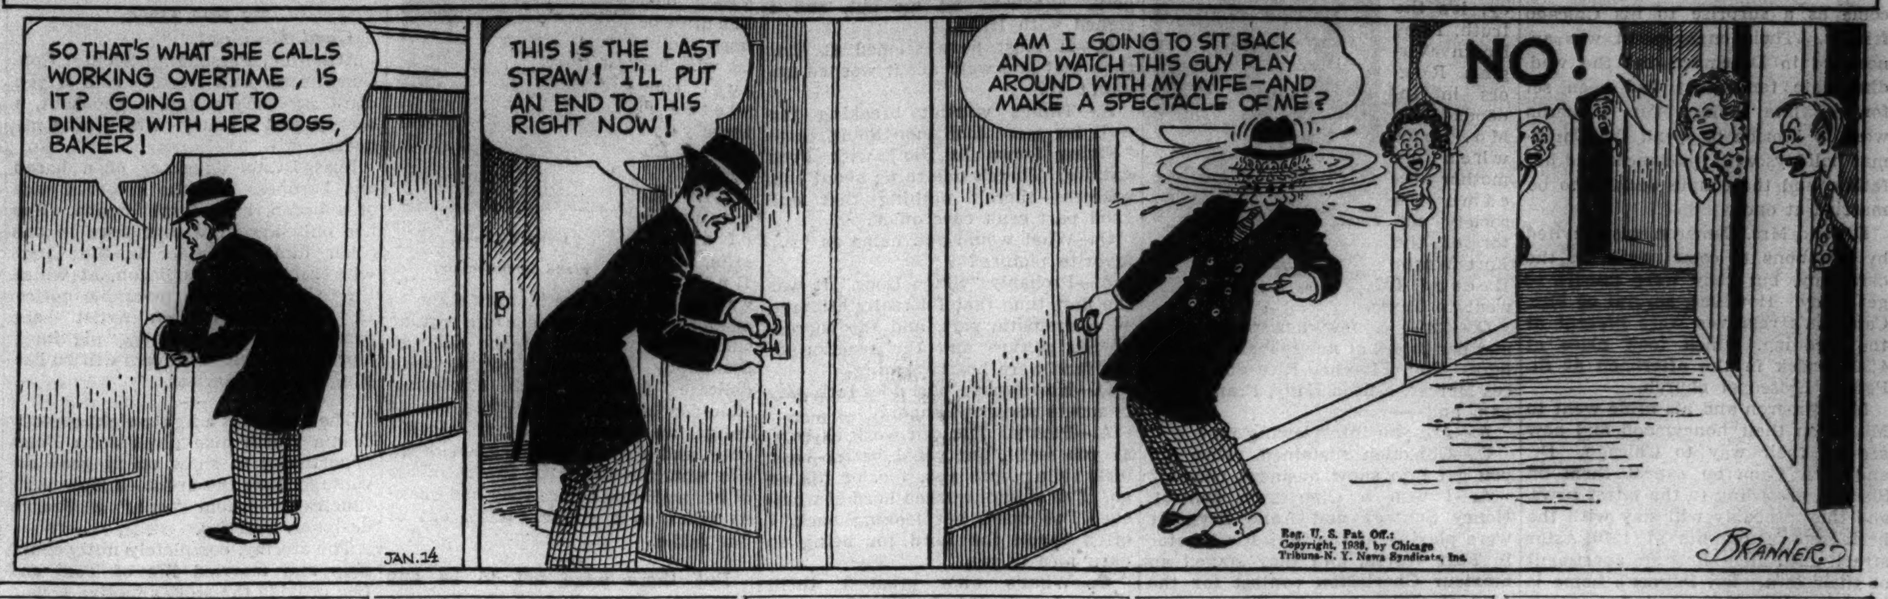
GASOLINE ALLEY—HE'S GAINING



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Neighborly Advice



Man Tailored Suit Requires Dainty Corsage

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

To take the suggestion of masculinity away from a tailored coat or suit, there always is the gay little feminine corsage and the coiffure. The girl with the flowing page boy coiffure isn't likely to be accused of looking masculine no matter how tailored her dress or suit. But a girl with a severe coiffure and a sharply tailored hat needs something to lift the ensemble out of the mannish doldrums.

Lily Pons has some ideas on flowers and she, being partial to tailored suits, is particular about adding that corsage note with the purpose in mind of which we speak. Although, goodness knows, the petite and ravishing Miss Pons never could appear "unfeminine" in anything.

She tells that artificial flowers or dead flowers involve one of the stage superstitions. They are supposed to signify, in theater legend, the end of a career. In Hollywood she is delighted that the climate and current styles permit the use of corsages for every occasion, with the flower markets the most beautiful she ever has seen. It's an incentive to wear fresh flowers in California. It was fun doing her latest picture, in which she appears as a fantastic bird girl, because she could wear colorful feathered costumes accentuated with bright blooms worn in her hair. Backgrounds, including a tropical jungle scene, permitted the lavish use of bright flowers and shrubs.

For daytime wear, Miss Pons reports, clusters of gardenias or carnations are most popular. Large dahlias [single flowers] are good, too. She notes that, during cocktail hours, spray orchids, stephanotis clusters and green orchids have their particular fans. And lilies of the valley also are effectively worn as corsages.

For formal wear a single full blown red rose, a single gardenia, or carnation, as she has seen them, appeal to the lovely songstress. A tiara of small white flowers, such as lilies of the valley, is bound to add charm to the wearer.

The Hawaiian influence, one gathers, is urgently felt in the land of picture making. Miss Pons likes the lei effect because it tends to lend a note of informality to the most formal gown, to soften the effect of the severely cut one.

Emerson House Ball to Be Tonight.

Whatever the plans of most of the young married and debutante sets for early this evening, many of them will end the night dancing and having supper at the Emerson House ball to be given at 10 o'clock in the New Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel.

Many, including the chairman, Mrs. R. Martin Stevenson, and several other members of the Emerson Settlement house board of directors, will arrive from dinner parties. Others will go to the ball after the theater—perhaps the theater in which Miss Joan Bennett is appearing in "Stage Door," for she will go afterwards to the ball to act as a judge of a waltz contest that will be a feature of the evening's entertainment.

Miss Bennett has more than a casual interest in Emerson House, for she attended school in Versailles, France, with three Chicagoans who were active members of the Emerson House board before they moved away, Mrs. George Beach Jr. [Jane Schuttler], Mrs. John R. Bigelow Helen Farnum], and Mrs. Edward C. Shotwell [Charlotte Drum]. Mrs. Shotwell's sister-in-law, Mrs. John Drum, also is a member of the board.

Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, president of the board until last week, and Mr. Hodgkins will go to the bridal dinner of her brother, Robert F. Carr Jr., and Miss Vesta Culbertson, who are to be married tomorrow, and they expect to bring most of the young people from the dinner to the benefit dance.

The board's new president, Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., and Mr. Collins, the Sidney P. Wauds, and Miss Virginia Waller are entertaining at a progressive dinner party.

The Roger D. Shaws, the Harold P. Smiths, the Austin Zimmermans, Lefens Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods, and the Niblack Thornes are among those who have reserved tables at the dance. The Solomon B. Smiths, the junior John P. Wilsons, and the Louis C. Sudlers are others giving dinner parties.

Walter Frazier also is a judge for the waltz contest, as are Lischeron and Adams, who will inspire the contestants with an exhibition of ballroom waltzing immediately before the contest starts at midnight.

Miss Elisabeth Dewes is in charge of a group of pretty young women who will sell cigarets at the party. They include Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr., Mrs. Corwith Hamill, Miss Margot Reid, Miss Narcissa Thorne, Miss Frances Price, Miss Nancy and Miss Barbara Bastien, Miss Kay Bolger, Miss Mary Alice Bacon, Miss Florence Hermes, and Miss Eleonore Thompson.

Junior League Lecture Series.

The last of a series of lectures sponsored by the arts department of the Chicago Junior league will be given at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the league's headquarters in the Drake hotel. Mrs. John L. Cochran, a league member, will speak on "Sunday Night Suppers."

After the symphony concert this afternoon some will find time to attend either the Cliff Dwellers' or the Cordon tea and then go to the opening of an exhibition of paintings, sculpture, and drawings by John Storrs at the Roullier Art galleries, or to a cocktail party Nicolas de Molas is giving at the Ambassador East hotel to bid his Chicago friends au revoir.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank is to be the hostess at teatime at the Cliff Dwellers. Assisting her will be Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III., Mrs. Karleton Hackett, Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, and Miss Abby Tallmadge.

The exhibiting artists of the Black and White exhibition now hanging in the Cordon galleries will be especial guests at tea at the Cordon club today. Ada Belle Files, contralto, will sing, accompanied by Martha McCormick at the piano.

Mrs. John Crerar is opening her home at 209 Lake Shore drive for a meeting of the Italy America society at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Miss Clara Lake will show her pictures of the Augustan Exhibition of Roman Civilization and films of some of the recent excavations.

The second all French program of the International theater this season will be presented at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Goodman theater. Three one act plays will be given with Mme. Suzanne Noble, Mme. Elmina Blais, and Louis Rousseau of the Paris Opra Comique taking part.

Members of the Chicago Figure Skating club led by Mrs. Lyman Drake will give an exhibition of fancy skating at a carnival for adult members of the Skokie Country club tonight at the club. There will be dinner in the grill at 6:30 o'clock.

TRAILER SOLVES PROBLEMS OF A TRAVELING MAN

Gives Him Home Cooking and Piles Up Sales.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trailer Camp, Delray Beach, Fla., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Parked beside THE TRIBUNE'S trailer under coconut palms on the ocean front here is the mobile residence, office, and sample room of J. A. Davis, 10258 Avenue J, Chicago. His triple duty vehicle is a 23 foot trailer weighing 3,600 pounds.

Mr. Davis, as a commercial traveler, is a member of a class of trailer users that has been growing in the last two years. His rolling equipment and his experiences are worthy of note for this reason.

Year and Half on Wheels.

For a year and a half Mr. Davis and his wife have been residing and working in a combination office and living quarters, with accommodations as compact as those of a small yacht. He is a representative of A. Backus Jr. & Sons, Detroit manufacturers of wooden containers and tools.

"Before we bought this outfit," he related over a cup of coffee served on a folding table in his living room, "my wife had a choice of staying home in an apartment or of living in hotels, with me jumping from city to city. We don't have any children.

"This isn't any mansion, but it's much more comfortable than a lonely room in a hotel. And home cooked meals are better than I was getting in restaurants."

Doorway Leads to Office.

We were sitting on a davenport that is converted into a bed at night. A lavatory, toilet, and shower were behind a door in the corner, besides a clothes closet. A gasoline stove, a kerosene heater, a sink, and a cupboard were against the walls. To the rear was a doorway to the office.

The office, with 64 square feet of floor space, contains a small desk and portable typewriter, a file case, a chair and a bench for displaying samples. Has its own door to the outside.

"I have found it much easier to get the president of a factory to step out of his office into his plant's parking lot to see these wares than it was to get him to visit a sample room in a hotel," said Mr. Davis.

COLLISION ENDS FIVE MILE POLICE CHASE; 2 SEIZED

Gordon Schmidt, 19 years old, of Woodstock, and William Peterson, 14 years old, 1639 Adams street, were arrested yesterday when a stolen automobile in which they led two police squads in a five mile chase over west side streets collided with another machine at Jackson boulevard and Morgan street.

During the chase Detectives Lawrence O'Keefe and Joseph Valla of the Desplaines street station fired a dozen shots at Schmidt and Peterson. They said the pair went through nine red lights at 60 miles an hour. No one was injured when the car crashed into the automobile of Julius Reichel, 5216 Newport avenue.

Schmidt is 6 feet two inches tall and weighs 185 pounds. His companion stands 4 feet 10 inches and weighs 98 pounds.

Court Psychiatric Clinic Has Busiest Year in 1937

Dr. D. B. Rotman, director of the psychiatric institute of the municipal court, reported to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby yesterday that in 1937 the institute handled 7,201 cases, a greater number than in any previous year. The institute certified 701 cases to the psychopathic hospital as insane, 84 were sent to the Lincoln state school as feeble-minded, 49 to the Dixon state hospital for feeble-minded and 314 were asked to attend a psychiatric clinic at one of the university hospitals.

1,186 Who Drive Without Stickers Get Summonses

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, reported last night that 1,186 motorists were handed summonses yesterday for failure to have 1938 city vehicle stickers on their automobiles. City Clerk Peter Brady issued 18,562 licenses during the day, bringing the total to 304,898.

Gets $17,500 Verdict

BETTY BROWN.

Betty Brown, 9 years old, 1414 Wilson avenue, was awarded $17,500 damages in a sealed jury verdict returned Wednesday. It was opened yesterday in Judge E. I. Frankhauser's court. On Sept. 24, 1935, Betty suffered severe leg injuries when she was struck by the truck of Meyer Shandler, 4705 Maypole street. Betty's legs were strapped tightly together for many months while physicians grafted skin from one leg to the injured one.

FIND FRAGMENTS OF CLIPPER, BUT NO CREW BODIES

Searchers See Signs of Terrific Blast.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Bits of wreckage and personal effects which indicated the twenty-one ton Samoan Clipper was destroyed by fire and an explosion were carried to Pago Pago, American Samoa, today by the United States mine sweeper Avocet.

There was "no evidence of bodies" of Capt. Edwin C. Musick and his six man crew, the Avocet reported to Pan American Airways, operator of the flying boat. Pan-American officials said a forty ton, seventy-two passenger plane is being built for the New Zealand line and will be given test flights in March.

Carried Cargo of Express.

The Clipper carried air express but no passengers on its first commercial flight from Hawaii to New Zealand. Fifty miles out of Samoa Tuesday an oil line broke and the Clipper turned back, cruised to dump gasoline to lighten the load for landing, then fourteen miles northwest of Pago Pago plunged into shark infested waters of the South Pacific.

A preliminary examination of the fragments recovered indicated that the gasoline being dumped vaporized and ignited, possibly from a hot exhaust pipe. Whether the blast happened in the air or on the surface was not indicated. There was a large oil slick on the water and Samoans had seen a black column of smoke above it on Tuesday. There were many bits of wreckage on the "slick" but no large pieces.

Recover Radio Officer's Coat.

The Avocet made an all day search of the area. The bits recovered were burned, charred and coated with aluminum powder. All showed signs of an internal explosion of the all metal plane. The bits included:

A bent tie clasp in the pocket of a pair of trousers which were identified as belonging to Assistant Engineer Officer J. A. Brooks.

COLLIDING AUTOS FLATTEN TRAFIC SIGNAL; 3 HURT

Each Driver Avers Other Ignored Light.

Three men were injured when two automobiles collided and overturned yesterday at Washington boulevard and Central avenue. In the crash the cars knocked down a stop light which each driver accused the other of having failed to heed.

Peter Darge, 37 years old, 7904 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park, driver of one car, was the most seriously hurt, it was found at the Frances Willard hospital. His companion, Arthur Dittman, 40 years old, 7925 Westwood drive, Elmwood Park, and the other driver, Frank Kautz, 27 years old, 2520 North Mason avenue, were treated at the hospital.

Schoolboy Killed by Truck.

Charles Glover, 6 years old, colored, 1955 Taylor street, was crushed to death by a truck at Roosevelt road and Damen avenue yesterday as he was going home from school. August Battaglia, 42 years old, 948 West Ohio street, driver of the truck, was held by police for questioning.

Andrew Broniec, 52 years old, 3432 Sunnyside avenue, Brookfield, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Louis Kovarik, 22 years old, 3321 Maple avenue, Brookfield. The accident took place in Grand avenue, Brookfield. Mrs. Mary McCormick, 36 years old, housekeeper for Broniec, was struck by the car and seriously injured. Kovarik blamed the accident on an icy pavement.

Frank W. Schmidt, 76 years old, 7152 South Chicago avenue, who was struck by an automobile in front of his home Monday, died in the Woodlawn hospital yesterday. The driver of the car was Jacob Fischer, 4829 North Central Park avenue.

Faces Manslaughter Charge.

Lee T. Mulroy, 35 years old, 2600 Kimball avenue, a driver for the Chicago Motor Coach company, was charged with manslaughter yesterday and released in $4,000 bond by Central police. His bus killed Mrs. Belle Moyer, 73 years old of Hammond, Ind., at State and Washington streets Wednesday. Mulroy will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 49 persons had been killed in Cook county by automobiles since the first of the year. Of these 37 were killed in Chicago, where 550 were injured in the same period.

SALESMAN GETS PROBATION FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Jack Groh, 40 years old, 118 Thomas street, was found guilty yesterday in the Safety court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge J. M. Braude placed him on probation for a year and deprived him of the right to drive for 30 days. After that, Groh, a salesman, must use his car only for business purposes and may not drive for pleasure until the year is out.

Others found guilty of trafic violations were:

John A. Biernat, 29 years old, 2629 North Fairfield avenue, reckless driving, fined $25 and suspended from driving for four months.

FIRE REVEALS GAMING TO ALL EXCEPT SHERIF

"There has been no gambling there since September when I ran them bowlegged. Then they put in an orchestra and a bar. All the crowd was in the bar."

Thus spoke Sherif John Toman yesterday, after fire destroyed the gaming room of the Everglades Country club, a gambling house on Dundee road near Skokie boulevard, in unincorporated territory near Northbrook. Two hundred gambling patrons escaped safely. Defective wiring is believed to have caused the fire.

In the ruins of the club, which is said to have been operating to capacity crowds for six weeks, were the charred remains of three large roulette tables, three dice tables, and several blackjack tables. It was reputedly run by George Turner for the gambling syndicate of William H. [Big Bill] Johnson.

GEORGE MUNGER MADE FOOTBALL COACH AT PENN

Freshman Director Promoted.

In announcing the promotion of the 28 year old former Penn player, the university returns to graduate coaching. Munger succeeds Harvey Harman, who resigned Dec. 27 after a disastrous season.

President Thomas S. Gates in making known the appointment said Munger has expressed his complete adherence to the policies and principles under which the university conducts its athletics.

Munger will assume his new duties at once. President Gates said that Munger now holds the faculty rank of instructor in the department of physical education and will be advanced to the rank of assistant professor in the department, effective July 1. Munger's salary as head coach was not announced.

Earns Associates' Confidence.

"While holding the rank of instructor," Gates said, "Munger has acted as director of freshman athletics and specifically as head coach of the freshman football and track teams.

"In this capacity he has earned the respect and confidence of his associates and has demonstrated an ability and character which merits his promotion."

Gates' announcement further said that the assistant football coaches, including the head coach of the freshmen, will be selected in consultation with Munger.

The appointment, he said, was made upon the recommendation of the directors of the division of intercollegiate athletics and the dean of the physical education department after consultation with members of the advisory football committee and with the advice and approval of a special committee of trustees of the university.

Decathlon Winner in 1932.

Munger is a resident of Cynwyd, a Philadelphia suburb. He attended Hill school, Pottstown, Pa., and Episcopal academy, Philadelphia, distinguishing himself in football, basketball, and track, and entered Pennsylvania in 1929.

He had no trouble making the freshman football eleven and became a varsity half back the next year. He played three years on the varsity, filling the full back post in his last year. Munger won the decathlon at the Penn relays in 1932.

Munger coached the freshman football team in 1933, 1936, and 1937, losing only two games, one in 1933 and the other in 1937.

While coaching Munger found time to work for a master's degree in psychology. He was married in 1935.

L. S. U. NAMES HOWELL

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 13.—[Special.] — Louisiana State university today named Ed [Blue] Howell back field coach of its 1938 eleven. Howell, former star back at the University of Nebraska, has been head coach at the Kansas State Teachers' college at Pittsburg for nine years. Howell succeeds Joel Hunt, who resigned recently to take the post of head coach at the University of Georgia.

Athletic Director T. P. Heard pointed out that Howell's association with L. S. U. will not be a new one, since he is an alumnus of the university, having taken his master's degree here. While on a sabbatical leave from Kansas State Teachers, he assisted in coaching the freshman backs of the 1936 and 1937 seasons here, so that he will be well acquainted with his 1938 material.

RIGGS CRUSHES HINES, 6-2, 6-3, IN MIAMI TOURNEY

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, defeated Wilmer Hines of Hollywood, Cal., 6-2, 6-3, in the quarter-finals of the Nautilus tennis tournament today.

Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, the only other seeded player remaining, eliminated Weston Painter of Milwaukee, 6-1, 6-2, and will meet Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., tomorrow. Riggs' semi-final match with Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., will be played Saturday.

THE GUMPS—NEVER SAY DIE

Penn's New Football Coach

Whitehead in Line; Nine Sox Still Unsigned

Receipt of a signed contract yesterday from John Henderson Whitehead, the problem right-hander of the pitching staf, caused J. Louis Comiskey, president of the White Sox, to recheck his roster. Uncle Lou was surprised to find that there still are nine men on the outside of the fence, whereas he had previously figured only six.

Some of the nine haven't been heard from since the contracts were mailed out and some are using the mails in an effort to have the original ante boosted.

Those in the unsigned class are Zeke Bonura, Marvin Owen, Luke Sewell, Jack Hayes, Lou Berger, Rip Radcliff, Monty Stratton, Merritt [Sugar] Cain, and an unnamed pitcher. Nothing has been heard from Bonura, a chronic haggler, since he sent back his contract accompanied by a hint that he thought he was worth more money.

'I'M NO HOLDOUT'—BONURA

New Orleans, La., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—"They've got me all wrong," Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox first baseman, said today when asked if he really is a holdout again.

"They had me down as a holdout before I even got my contract for the coming season. I'm no holdout and it makes me look bad to see all of this stuff in the newspapers. I'll sign when I get what I think is right.

"I like Chicago and I believe Chicago likes me," Zeke continued. "I would hate to think that my services are not appreciated. I'll give all I've got to the team. I am sure Owner Comiskey and Manager Dykes will do by me what is fair. I don't intend to quit the Sox unless they make me. We'll be sure to agree. I believe we'll be up there fighting all the way next season. Gee Walker is going to help us a lot and Dykes can always get together a fighting, good playing bunch."

Bonura paid a visit to the Fair Grounds race track yesterday for the first time in three years and was as tickled when he told some of his Chicago friends, here for the Western Fruit Jobbers association convention, that he thought Frank C. had a chance to win the fifth race. He did and paid $27.60 for $2 in the mutuels.

"If I could call my home run shots like I did that one, I'd be great," said Zeke. "I've a lot of friends here from Chicago for the convention who are real baseball fans and I guess they think I am plenty smart as a picker. But I really haven't been to the races in three years. I just liked the name of the horse. My Chicago friends made expenses here on my tip and that made me happy."

Frank Moore's 67 Wins Dean's Meet; Dizzy Shoots 81

Bradenton, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N. Y., shot a 67, six under par, today to win Dizzy Dean's golf tournament and Dizzy himself was so busy acting as host he didn't go to the postoffice to find out whether the Cardinals have slashed his salary.

Dizzy declined to talk about the new contract, mailed recently from the St. Louis office, but his wife said they hadn't been to the postoffice in two days and knew nothing about it.

Moore shot seven birdies and went over par just once to collect $200 top money. Lloyd Gullickson of St. Petersburg, winner of the first Dean tourney last season, took a 68 to tie for second place with Bill Heinlein of Indianapolis. Each won $62.50. Augie Nordone of Syracuse, George Sullivan of Montclair, N. J., and Bert Montresser of Decatur, Ill., each had 71 to earn $25 each.

Eldon Auker, Detroit pitcher, and Jack Russell, Boston Red Sox hurler, shot 75 to head the baseball players division with Cleveland's Lloyd Brown another stroke back. Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, National league batting champion, and Wes Ferreil, Washington pitcher, scored 78.

Dizzy finished with an 81. Playing with Frank Willard and Billy De Beck, cartoonists, and Mark Briggs, Daytona Beach hotel manager, Dean dropped long putts on the first three holes for two pars and a birdie, then his putter failed him.

De Kalb Teachers Beat Armour Tech Five, 44-28

De Kalb, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—De Kalb State Teachers' basketball squad defeated Armour Tech this evening, 44 to 28. Price, a freshman, led the De Kalb attack with 16 points. Armour led at the half, 19 to 17.

SILVER SKATES ENTRANTS AWAIT TEST TOMORROW

BY WILFRID SMITH.

All plans have been completed for the twenty-first Silver Skates Derbies, the first preliminaries of which will be held tomorrow afternoon on Garfield park lagoon. The remaining preliminaries and the eight championship races will be held Sunday afternoon. Between the last of the qualifying races and the first championship event the Chicago Figure Skating club will present a program of five events, including a performance by Robin Lee, national figure skating champion.

Two thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight boys and girls are registered for the qualifying races tomorrow afternoon. These represent the list of contestants in the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior Derbies and in the girls' junior class. All are under 16. On Sunday the remaining four classes—boys' intermediate, men's senior, and girls' intermediate and senior—will report for their preliminaries.

Time Element Is Important.

The notice of most importance to all contestants concerns the time for reporting to the clerks. Tomorrow racing numbers will be distributed at the Garfield park boathouse on the south shore of the west lagoon on Washington boulevard between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. Programs will be distributed free to contestants. Each skater is listed in his respective Derby and is numbered. A racing number will be given out and at the same time the clerks will assign contestants to their qualifying races.

On Sunday contestants in the other four Derbies will report at the same place between 10 a. m. and 12 noon. No numbers will be given out after these deadlines.

The first preliminary race tomorrow will start at 2 o'clock. The first preliminary Sunday will start at 1 o'clock.

Every One Can See Races.

There practically is no limit to the crowd which can be accommodated. While no one except skaters and officials will be permitted on the ice, officials of the Chicago park district and of Garfield park have arranged for a limited number of bleachers to be erected along the shore. These afford an excellent view of the course as does the upper floor of the boathouse.

Contestants and spectators have choice of transportation to Garfield park, which his centrally located on Chicago's west side. Washington boulevard buses number 31 stop at Central Park boulevard. Jackson boulevard buses No. 26 also stop at Central Park and then you must walk north to Washington boulevard. Lake street and Madison street surface lines, stopping at Central Park boulevard also furnish transportation. The Lake street elevated stop is Hamlin avenue and the lagoon is south of Lake street.

Permit Curb Parking.

Parking will be permitted along the curb of Central Park boulevard, Washington boulevard drive and the North drive of Garfield park.

There is sufficient ice at Garfield park so that the Derbies will be held even if the temperature should be above freezing. According to park officials, it will not be necessary to postpone the races unless the temperature reaches 50 degrees above zero.

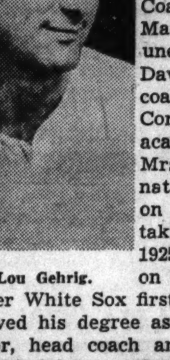
MADIGAN SIGNS FOR FIVE YEARS AT ST. MARY'S

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Edward [Slip] Madigan, whose St. Mary's college football teams have been national contenders for a decade, will coach the Galloping Gaels for the next five years. Madigan, who began coaching the St. Mary's elevens in 1921, signed a new five year contract today. It was reported that he was given an increase in salary.

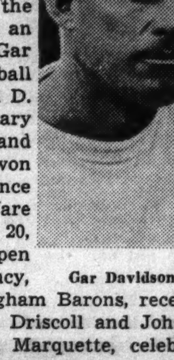
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

UNIVERSITY of Arkansas statisticians claim that Dwight [Paddle Foot] Sloan had a better pass record in his three years as a Razorback than did Sammy Baugh at Texas Christian. . . . They say down in the red clay country that Sloan, who hails from Van Buren, Ark., used to kill squirrels by throwing rocks at them. . . . It is further averred that his aim with his right arm became so deadly that he switched to left hand throwing so he wouldn't "mess up" his targets so much. . . . Chicago and Illinois, which resume track relations Jan. 22 in a meet at Illinois, met annually with the exception of one year from 1897 to 1920, when the Illini triumphed, 103 to 32, leading Coach Stagg to the opinion that the Maroons should not continue such an uneven competition. . . . Capt. Gar Davidson, Army's retiring football coach, is aid to Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, commandant of the Military academy. . . . Horton Smith and Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare each won national golf championships of France on their 21st birthdays, Mrs. Vare taking the women's title on June 20, 1925, and Horton winning the open on May 22, 1929. . . . Bud Clancy, former White Sox first baseman, now of the Birmingham Barons, recently received his degree as an undertaker. . . . John L. Driscoll and John L. Taylor, head coach and line coach, respectively, at Marquette, celebrate their birthdays on the same date, Jan. 10. . . .



Lou Gehrig.



Gar Davidson.

Lou Gehrig will start that movie Monday. . . . He has the rôle of a cowboy hero of the wild west. . . . George Weiss, head of the Yankees' farm system, is honeymooning in Los Angeles. . . . Fred Apostoli, conqueror of Freddie Steele, got his start in a San Francisco amateur tournament. . . . He eventually won the national A. A. U. welterweight championship. . . . In the 14 years Leonard Sachs has been basketball coach at Loyola the varsity squad never has exceeded 14 players. . . . The present group, which meets De Paul at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, numbers only twelve. . . . Jack Doyle, Irish heavyweight, is making a crooning tour of English music halls. . . . Joe Cronin of the Red Sox will be the only playing manager in the major leagues next season. . . . Al Musso, basketball star at Millikin university, is a brother of George Musso, Bears' guard. . . . Reb Russell, former Northwestern football star, who now plays cowboy rôles in the movies, is visiting Chicago friends.

Poetry, Old and New.

The poets sing of birds and brooks,
Of grassy glens and shady nooks,
And sometimes even write whole books
On subjects quite provincial.
They tell of love and chivalry
In days of old across the sea;
Of battles, wars, and victory—
Of which none is essential.

I'd rather hear of modern things
Instead of flowers, love, and kings;
To me, it seems, nobody sings
Of topics interesting.
Give me a poet who could write
About the Braddock-Louis fight,
The baseball season at its height,
Of hocky, golf, and wrestling.

If he could pen in words that rime
How busy housewives spend their time;
How famous persons make their climb
In this tough world of ours;
If he could make us beauty find
In tasks that form our daily grind
I'm sure that he'd at once be signed
To write away for hours.

So, if you feel like writing lines
About such things as mills or mines
Or office work and different kinds
Of modern occupation,
Don't dilly dally—go ahead!
No matter what great poets said,
They can't deride you—they're all dead!
Let's be a modern nation!
—Tessie, the Duchess.

Reunion in Paradise.

Seems to me I can visualize that scene when Charlie Williams, former secretary of the Cubs, who died Wednesday, joined the long line beyond the portals. There to meet him and greet him were lovable characters of the great national pastime, men with whom Charlie had been associated in the game to which he had given the better part of his life—magnates, players, and baseball writers.

A few of those whom Charlie met in his athletic walks, who preceded him in death, include William L. Veeck, Charles Webb Murphy, Barney Dreyfuss, Sam Dreyfuss, Garry Herrmann, William F. Baker, Charles Ebbets, Charles Comiskey, Charles Stoneham, Frank Chance, Harry Steinfeldt, Mike Donlin, Pat Moran, Christy Mathewson, John J. McGraw, George Stallings. And the newspaper men with whom he had associated were all there: Sy Sanborn, Hugh Keough, Harvey Woodruff, Charles Dryden, Gus Axelson, Ring Lardner, Bozeman Bulger, Bill Hanna, Malcolm MacLean, Johnnie Keys, Fred Hayner, and scores of others. Charlie has joined them all now. We hope he is happy. —J. O. S.

Ten Years Ago Today—Tony Beckman and Gerard De Baets won the Chicago six day bike race. . . . Alfred J. Reach, one of baseball's pioneers, died at Atlantic City. . . . Michigan's basketball team upset Indiana, 42 to 41. . . . Other basketball scores: Iowa, 36; Illinois, 30. . . . Wisconsin, 35; Minnesota, 26.

LOYOLA, DE PAUL TO TAKE BASKET FEUD TO STADIUM

Return to Site of Thrilling Overtime Battle.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Those celebrated basketball troupes, Loyola and De Paul, will take over the Stadium next Wednesday night for a repetition of the show that was so successful last season when they drew 10,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever saw a basketball game in Chicago.

The officials of the Catholic Youth organization, which is sponsoring the event, should not be considered too optimistic if they expect considerably more than 10,000 spectators at this season's meeting. For last year's show was so good that they might expect every one of the 10,000 to return and it is quite probable that some of those 10,000 will tell friends about it.

A Thriller Last Year.

Just to refresh the memory of the basketball public, Loyola beat De Paul last season, 46 to 43, at the end of two overtime periods. This outcome was particularly remarkable because Loyola was apparently hopelessly behind at one stage of the encounter and worked its way up, point by point, until the score was tied just before the end of the regulation playing time.

That was the first athletic encounter between the two schools in several years, though in the past the rivalry between them had been traditional. That meeting revived all the former enthusiasms and antagonisms. This season's engagement, therefore, is expected to take up where the last one left off.

Two Loyola Veterans Back.

Two of the players who figured prominently in Loyola's victory will be back Wednesday to harass De Paul. These veterans are Wilbur Kautz and Mike Novak. Kautz, who scored eight baskets and two free throws in last year's game, will be harder than ever to stop this time. He is generally considered to be one of the smartest floor men in college basketball, and is an accurate marksman as well.

Novak, who combines considerable basketball talent with tremendous heights, serves as a rallying point for his teammates during moments of great pressure. Inasmuch as he is 6 feet 9 inches tall he can often take complete command of the ball until one of his companions gets into position to receive a pass and score.

New De Paul Team.

The De Paul team that performed so brilliantly last year has vanished completely, every member of the starting lineup having been graduated. Any coach might be worried by the thought of trying to fill the shoes of Nick Yost, Ed Campion, Willie Phillips, Fred Knez, and Willie Wendt. But Coach Tom Haggerty has built up an effective team around a group of returning lettermen, including Pat Howlett, Tom Cleland, Kiernan Crowley, Clem Naughton, Bob Neu, and Frank Reuse.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks stretched their undefeated streak to three games tonight, holding Montreal's Canadiens to a 2 to 2 overtime draw in a National Hocky league match.

The split in points moved the Canadiens up into a second place tie with the New York Americans in their section. The Hawks remained in third place in the American division, three games ahead of Detroit.

Hawks Come from Behind.

Coming from behind with a goal in the second period, the Hawks took the lead early in overtime when Cully Dahlstrom flipped a backhand shot behind little Paul Gauthier, subbing for the injured Wilf Cude in the Canadiens' nets. The veteran Pete Lepine then came through with one of his infrequent goals, four minutes from the end to earn the Frenchmen their draw.

About 5,000 fans saw the Canadiens take the lead in the first period on Paul Haynes' goal from a scramble in front of the net. Defensemen Cliff Goupille and Babe Siebert were in on the play. Carl Voss tied the count for Chicago on a solo dash midway through the second session.

Overtime Play Is Speedy.

In the overtime, both teams threw aside the close checking tactics that had slowed up the earlier periods. Dahlstrom's goal came after a passing play with big Earl Seibert and Voss. Johnny Gagnon and Siebert were in on Lepine's tieing point, a goal mouth shot that Goalie Mike Karakas had no chance to save.

The Hawks were aggressive after an early Canadien burst of speed and Gauthier's first stops in the big time off Seibert and Dahlstrom, had to be good. Gagnon went right through the Chicago team with a neat display of stick handling, but Karakas handled his shot easily. A minute latter, however, the Frenchmen went ahead, Haynes lifting the puck over a scramble of players in front of the net.

Goupille Draws Penalty.

Play dragged the next five minutes with Chicago boring in but not getting far past the tight Canadien defense. Seibert almost broke loose but lost the puck as he was rounding the Montreal defense. Goupille drew the first penalty when he boarded Seibert heavily. The big Hawk went off for a rest.

Blake and Gagnon backchecked the Chicagoans into submission until Goupille returned. Romnes picked a corner with a goalmouth shot and Gauthier turned in the nicest save of the period as he got his toe on the puck.

Lepine broke through twice at the start of the second period, but Karakas smothered both shots. The Hawks were in next and Gauthier picked off short drives by Seibert and Voss. When McKenzie was chased for holding Mantha the Canadiens sent four men on the attack, but the Hawks held them out until the sides were even again.

The Hawks finally evened the score when Voss, racing down left wing, caught the corner with his high shot. The time was 15:51. The Canadiens got a chance to go ahead again on the next play when Romnes was sent off for bouncing Haynes, but the French offense was not clicking and McKenzie and Thompson almost counted for Chicago on fast breakaways.

Dahlstrom Makes Goal.

Blake took up the Canadien attack in overtime after Romnes had tested Gauthier from far out. The Hawks scored first, Dahlstrom pivoting to flip a backhand shot past Gauthier from a few feet in front of the net. Seibert, who made the pass, and Voss drew assists.

The Canadiens kept five men in the Chicago zone after that and finally were rewarded with the tying goal at 6:03 when Lepine pushed in Gagnon's pass in front of the net. Babe Siebert started the play.

GOLDEN GLOVES PHYSICAL TESTS TO OPEN JAN. 21

First Quota of 800 Nearly Reached.

The first physical examination for Golden Gloves boxers will be held Friday evening, Jan. 21, at Trafton's gymnasium 180 West Randolph street. The date was set yesterday, when it became apparent that the first quota of 800 contestants would be reached early next week.

Letters to these entrants will be mailed out not later than Tuesday. Those receiving official notification must report to the Golden Gloves physicians at Trafton's gymnasium, on the fifth floor between 6 and 8 p. m. Each contestant will be mailed a parental consent card, which must be signed by the parent or guardian of each boy if he is under 21 years of age.

Boxers Must Be 16.

All amateur boxers according to the rule of the Central association of the Amateur Athletic association, must be at least 16 years of age.

Amateur boxers from the Catholic Youth organization will be examined Monday evening, Jan. 24, at the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. This examination is for C. Y. O. boxers only who wish to compete in either the Novice or Open divisions of the four Chicago Golden Gloves sectional tournaments.

Four Examinations Likely.

The date for the third physical examination will be announced later. Four examinations probably will be held before the lists are closed. Golden Gloves entries will be accepted until midnight, Jan. 30. The first Chicago tournament will open on Feb. 9 on the west side at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street.

SET JOLIET SEMI-FINALS

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Semi-finals of the Joliet sectional Golden Gloves tournament will be held here the night of Feb. 8, officials of the Joliet Spectator, announced today.

The card will include approximately 30 three-round bouts. Boxers will compete from Elgin, Aurora, Joliet, the southern part of Cook county, and Kankakee county.

Profits from the semi-final round will be given to the Kankakee Exchange club's benevolent fund to furnish eye-glasses for under privileged school children.

SOUTH BEND SETS DATES

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The News-Times' ninth annual Golden Gloves tournament, sponsored in conjunction with the Chicago Tribune meet, will be held at Palais Royale Feb. 16, 17, and 18. Three 1937 champions will not return to defend their titles. Alex Kettles, heavyweight winner of the 1937 Joe Louis sportsmanship trophy, is now fighting professionally, as is Ray Harris, featherweight champion. Tommy Pallatin, 1936 national lightweight A. A. U. champion and 1937 Tribune team member, will turn pro shortly. The News Times' team again will be in charge of Al Tellson, who has led South Bend teams to the Chicago Tournament of Champions for seven years.

ARMOUR TECH'S SWIMMERS FACE LOYOLA TODAY

Armour Tech's swimming team will open its season with two meets this week-end, facing the Loyola squad at Loyola this afternoon, and North Central college tomorrow evening in Bartlett pool at the University of Chicago.

Racing Pigeons Go on Show in Elgin Armory Today

More than 500 racing pigeons will compete for grand championships today, tomorrow, and Sunday at the Elgin National racing pigeon show being held in the Elgin Armory. The show is sponsored by Northern Illinois pigeon fanciers. Today will be given over to judging, after which the exhibit will be open to the public.

NEW YORK GETS 170 RACING DAYS AT FIVE TRACKS

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Jocky club today approved 170 days of racing this year at the five New York tracks. The dates are subject to the approval of the New York State Racing commission but that is considered a mere formality.

As in other years, the season will open at Jamaica, April 15, the earliest possible date in New York, and close at Empire City, Oct. 29. The jocky club considered the possibility of running until Nov. 15, as permitted by law, but finally decided on much the same schedule as in 1937. The dates:

JAMAICA—April 15-May 7 and Oct. 3-15.
BELMONT PARK—May 9-June 4 and Sept. 15-Oct. 1.
AQUEDUCT—June 6-29 and Aug. 29-Sept. 14.
EMPIRE CITY—June 30-July 23 and Oct. 17-29.
SARATOGA—July 25-Aug. 27.

4 Knockouts in Semi-Finals of I. A. C. Meet

Four of sixteen semi-final bouts in the annual amateur boxing tournament sponsored by the Illinois Athletic club ended with knockouts last night in the club gymnasium.

One of the victims was Eugene Tookes, Catholic Youth organization bantamweight star, who won the 1937 I. A. C. flyweight title. Berlin Hadnott, teammate of Tookes, floored Gene for the count in the third round.

Frankie Kainrath, C. Y. O. 118 pound champion, who is defending his I. A. C. crown in the same class, knocked out Frankie Bausone, also of the C. Y. O., in the first round. Joey Du Pont, C. Y. O. featherweight champion, scored a three round technical knockout over Wayne Fidler, a member of the same organization, and Clarence Brown, C. Y. O. heavyweight title holder, stopped Walter Schramm of the Inland Steel Athletic club of East Chicago in two rounds. Referee Freddy Caserio stopped the Du Pont-Fidler contest.

Semi-final Round.

Race Commissioners Will Meet in Boston

Miami, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The National Association of State Racing Commissioners selected Boston for its annual midsummer convention this year at the conclusion of its winter meeting today. The date was not fixed.

LEVINSKY BOWS TO CHICAGO MAT SOCIETY TONIGHT

It's Just One of Evening's Many Events.

Highlights of tonight's boxing and wrestling program are:

Johnny Cellura, Detroit featherweight, will make his first Chicago appearance in eight months in a ten round bout with Varias Milling, veteran Filipino boxer, at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

King Levinsky, former Maxwell street heavyweight fighter, who has not appeared athletically in this town since his embarrassment at the hands of Joe Louis at Comiskey park Aug. 7, 1935, will make his Chicago debut as a wrestler in a 30 minute match with Pat Murphy at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Joe Taziola and Tony Sopko, welterweight rivals, and Earl Gibson, Gary lightweight, and Art Alto will meet in two bouts of five rounds each on the amateur program at Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Eddie Steel, Portage Park heavyweight, is paired with Luke Baylark of the Savoy Athletic club in a five round amateur headliner at Northwest arena, 3968 Milwaukee avenue.

Johnny Helstrom vs. Frankie Flynn [6], 138.
Eddie Helstrom vs. Norman Cordaro [4], 145.
Eddie Shapiro vs. Johnny Fairchild [4], 128.

Cochran Wins Block, but Still Trails Schaefer

HYDEPARK, WELLS WIN 3RD GAMES IN PREP LEAGUE

Three Central Section Leaders Triumph.

Hyde Park of the south section, and Wells of the west section won their third games in the senior division of the Chicago Public High School basketball league yesterday.

Hyde Park rallied to triumph over Calumet, 27 to 23, and Wells defeated Foreman, 37 to 35, in the closing minutes of play. The Wells-Foreman score was tied twice. In the first quarter, it was 9 to 9, and when the third period ended the score was 27 to 27.

In the central section three senior teams remained tied for the lead by winning their second starts. Du Sable triumphed over Kelly, 33 to 29, Tilden routed Manley, 42 to 24, and Lindblom whipped Harrison, 41 to 30.

RED WINGS MAKE THREE GOALS BUT SO DO RANGERS

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings and the New York Rangers played a 3 to 3 tie tonight in a National Hocky league match.

The tie enabled the Rangers to advance within two games of the idle Boston Bruins, leaders of the American division, but left the Wings six points behind the third place Chicago Blackhawks.

The Wings took the lead for the first time on McDonald's goal early in the third period, but Clint Smith scored to tie the score for the third and last time. The overtime produced little action.

Lawson Beats Oak Park in League Volley Ball, 15-11

The Lawson Y. M. C. A. volley ball team defeated Oak Park, 15 to 11, in the second round finals of the Chicago Volley Ball league at the Central Y. last night. In other games Lawson defeated Central, 15 to 5, and Oak Park triumphed over Evanston, 15 to 4, and the Turners squad, 15 to 10.

Bears Leave Today to Play Houston Stars

After a two day workout in the 124th Field Artillery armory a squad of twenty-five Bear football players will entrain on the C. & E. I. railroad at noon today for Houston, Tex., where it meets an all-star team on Sunday. The Bears will play in Dallas on Jan. 23 and in New Orleans on Jan. 30.

The opposition for Sunday's game, a combination of last year's college players and National league stars, including Gaynell Tinsley of the Chicago Cardinals, provides the most formidable opponent the Bears have been called upon to meet outside the league.

Schweidler Returns to Squad.

Head Coach George Halas will not join the club until Tuesday. Assistant Coach Luke Johnsos will be in charge until his arrival. Players in the squad are Karr, Plasman, Wilson, McDonald, Manske, Trost, Stydahar, Thompson, Fortmann, Musso, Conkright, Sullivan, Bausch, Molesworth, Ronzani, Feathers, Nolting, Manders, Rentner, Buivid, Francis, Doehring, Brumbaugh, Dick Schweidler and Reino Nori.

Schweidler, a half back, was with the Bears in training last season, but was forced to retire when he suffered an injured hand. Nori, a former De Kalb Teachers' quarter back, who was with Brooklyn last season, has signed a Bear contract for 1938.

Meet Redskins in Cotton Bowl.

After the Houston game the Bears will move to Dallas, where they meet the champion Washington Redskins in the Cotton bowl Jan. 23.

On Jan. 30 the Bears go to New Orleans to play another all-star outfit composed chiefly of southern players.

At the invitation of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, the Bears and Redskins will meet again in Miami, Fla., Feb. 6, in the Orange bowl.

Military, Naval Basketball Tourney Opens Tomorrow

The Military and Naval Athletic Association of Illinois will open its basketball tournament at the Naval Reserve armory at Randolph street and the lake front tomorrow. Opening night schedule:

124th Field Artillery vs. 202d Coast Artillery; 8th Infantry vs. 132d Infantry; Aviation vs. 108th Quartermaster; Marines vs. Naval Reserve; 122d Field Artillery vs. 108th Medical Regiment.

Entry in Ski Meet at Cary Mounts to 88

Plans of officials to limit the entry in the Norge ski competition at Cary, Ill., Sunday to fifty were abandoned last night when it was found that eighty-eight skiers, among them Sigmund and Birger Ruud of Norway, had entered the contest—and that more might join the lists. The meet will be the first international event ever held in the middle west.

Thirty skiers will compete in Class A for the major prize. This group includes the Ruuds. Also in this event is George Kotlarik of Duluth, Minn., Polish star, who in his first competition on the Norge slide, last year, took second place. His entry has just been received. The Ruud brothers, incidentally, will arrive from New York only shortly before the competition, but will reach the slide in time to make a number of practice jumps.

Ulland, Eie to Compete.

Among others who will compete in Class A are Sigard Ulland, of Lake Tahoe, Cal., and Nils Eie, a Norwegian attending the New York university medical school.

Ulland is regarded as one of the best ski jumpers from the west and has entered chiefly to test his ability against the Ruud brothers. He will have that opportunity only in the Norge competition as the Ruuds have been barred by the United States Ski association from competing in any other meet in this country. The Norge meet has the sanction of the International Ski federation, the body which controls the sport throughout the world and the ban of the American body on the Ruuds therefore does not apply in this meet.

Eie Holds Collegiate Title.

Eie holds the international collegiate title, won at Zell am See, Austria, last year, and last Sunday won the event at Bear Mountain, N. Y. He has exceeded 200 feet in practice jumps at Lake Placid.

Ferrell Predicts He'll Lead 1938 Victory Parade

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, temperamental righthand pitcher for the Washington Senators, said today he expects to lead the American league in games won next season. That's one reason, he said, why he has returned his contract unsigned. It called for a pay cut of $3,000 a year.

"I don't mean I'll have the lowest earned run average," he explained. "I never was much on that earned run business. I just try to nose the other team out and with a few breaks I'll win more games than anybody else this year."

Ferrell said he does not expect he will have any trouble coming to salary terms with Owner Clark Griffith.

"I had a comparatively poor season last year, winning fourteen and losing nineteen, but I pitched good ball all season and lost a lot of games by one run," he said. "With a few breaks I would have won many more.

"Since it wasn't my fault I didn't win I don't feel I should be asked to take less pay. I am in good shape and anxious to play for Washington. I think we'll get together all right."

Hebrews Seek Playoff Berth in Basket League

The Chicago Hebrews can win a place in the Windy City Basketball league playoffs with a victory over the Schlosser Bakers tonight in the Park Casino, Madison street and Hamlin avenue. One more week remains in the first round of play. In the other league game the Petrones, defending champions, will meet the Millers Nationals. A girls' game between the Brownies and the Cicero O'Brien lassies will open the program.

ABRAHAMS IN QUARTER-FINALS OF 'Y' HANDBALL

Bill Abrahams of the Lawson Y., defending champion in the singles division of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. handball tournament at the Hyde Park Y., advanced to the quarter-finals last night by defeating Joe Frank of Hyde Park, 21 to 15, 21 to 17.

Dave Rumick of Lawson, runnerup last year, turned in a 21-13, 10-21, 21-15 victory over Louis Apple of the Hyde Park Y. Results of other matches:

8,500 TO ATTEND DEDICATION GAME IN PURDUE GYM

All Seats Sold for Wisconsin Battle Tomorrow.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Purdue's new fieldhouse will be dedicated Saturday night before a capacity crowd of 8,500 as the Boilermakers meet the Wisconsin basketball team.

Saturday's crowd will include 1,000 contributors to the fieldhouse fund and state officials, who will be the guests of the university and athletic department.

The dedication ceremonies, which will follow a band concert, will be presided over by L. A. Downs of Chicago, an 1894 Purdue graduate who is president of the Illinois Central railroad and served as chairman of the alumni fieldhouse committee.

The evening dedication exercises in the fieldhouse will be preceded by an open house in the new men's gymnasium beginning at 2:30 p. m. The program will include a fencing meet with Notre Dame, a wrestling match with Illinois State Normal, the all-university boxing tournament, a varsity-freshman swimming meet, and badminton and table tennis exhibitions with students representing Illinois.

CHAMPS PLAY WITH CIESARS.

Maybe I am a Slow-Poke-
So I cling to old-time methods . . . the public likes it . . . because folks here buy more of our bottled beer than any other By RICHARD SEIBOLD.
Meister Bräu Brewmaster

WE COULD SPEED UP... by adding Sugar or Syrups

BUT WE'LL NEVER DO IT . . . And when we bottle we won't use anything but Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself

Today everything is rush and hurry . . . speed and more speed. Well, that may be all right for some things. But I don't think hurry has any place in the making of good beer.

We have made for 47 years a beer called Meister Bräu. We make it now the same as we made it then.

We could use machine-age methods—short-cuts that save time and work. But these are not old-time ways, to produce an old-time brew.

We could save the time of cleaning the malt and hops by boiling them twice as long—that's a "new" method.

Another "new" way is to use sugars or syrups in the beer. This saves time and work. But we prefer the old way. Though greater skill is needed.

And we could save money by using a cheaper grade of hops. But that may make a raw beer.

I know you'll find a real difference in our beer . . . made the old, slow way. But to be sure of getting beer made this way, ask for Meister Bräu. You'll be thankful for a bottled or canned beer made like draft beer.

RONRICO WEST INDIES Cocktail*
*Trademark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright 1937.

You'll agree that it's your lucky day when you taste your first—the year-round star of Ronrico's "good drinks that TASTE good"—the cocktail sensation of America, made in an electric drink-mixer, served in a champagne glass.

1 teaspoon granulated bar sugar
1 dash White Maraschino Liqueur
1½ oz. Ronrico White Label

Place in electric mixing cup and add large quantity of finely crushed (not shaved) ice. Allow electric mixer to work until drink is well frapped. Strain into 5½-oz. saucer champagne glass through kitchen-type wire strainer. Tap side of strainer with cup to force fine ice through into drink.

Whether you order a West Indies in your favorite taproom, or mix your own, be sure it's made with Ronrico, America's favorite West Indies rum. Get the new Ronrico recipe book from your dealer, or write to Ronrico Corp., 111 Eighth Ave., New York City, for free copy.

ONLY RONRICO has Ronrico's wonderful taste—only Ronrico's secret distilling formula can produce it. Insist on Ronrico when you order mixed drinks.

VIEW FINANCING BY UTILITIES AS SIGN OF REVIVAL

One Issue Sold; Another Submitted to SEC.

The possibility of a revival of financing in the capital market, which has been stagnant since last fall, was foreseen yesterday with the reported successful offering of $30,000,000 of Consolidated Edison company of New York debentures and the filing of a registration statement for issuance of $67,000,000 of new securities by the Appalachian Electric Power company.

Appalachian Electric Power, a subsidiary of American Gas and Electric company, is seeking approval of the securities and exchange commission for issuance of $57,000,000 of 4 per cent first mortgage bonds due in 1963 and $10,000,000 of debentures due in 1948. Bonbright & Co. will be the principal underwriter.

Offering prices and the debenture interest rate are to be disclosed later.

Will Simplify Debt Structure.

The proposed financing is designed to simplify debt structure and cut interest rates, as well as reduce the open account debt of the company to American Gas and Electric. All present mortgage bonds will be retired.

The Consolidated Edison debentures were reported heavily oversubscribed and prices were lifted immediately from the 101¾ offering figure to 102⅝ bid, 102⅝ asked, in over the counter trading. Later quotations were around 102¼ bid, 102½ asked. Biggest buyers were said to be New York banks and insurance companies.

Investment bankers are reported to believe success of this financing will do much to counteract shyness of the public toward new security offerings. First evidence of this belief was furnished in the Appalachian registration, and it is estimated that new issues now under consideration aggregate at least half a billion dollars.

Few Issues Now Approved.

The SEC calendar of new issues is practically bare. Bonds in registration amount to only $15,000,000, compared with $107,000,000 a year ago and the average monthly total of $300,000,000 in the latter part of 1936.

Financing reported under consideration included the following: Armour & Co., $75,000,000; Commonwealth Edison and Public Service of Northern Illinois, $74,530,000; Ohio Power, $58,500,000; Public Service of Colorado, $45,000,000; Philadelphia Electric, $33,800,000; Nebraska Power, $16,500,000; Cincinnati Union Terminal, $12,000,000.

A banking group headed by Halsey Stuart & Co. is offering $1,982,000 of Houston, Tex., 2½ and 3 per cent bonds, due Jan. 15, 1941-'58 at prices to yield 1.30 to 3 per cent.

Rochester, N. Y., awarded an issue of $2,000,000 of 1.70 per cent public works bonds due Feb. 1, 1940-'48, to a syndicate headed by Brown Harriman & Co. at a price of 100.0599.

Walgreen Company.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly send me all the information you have on Walgreen common and preferred stock?—C. A. J.

Answer: The Walgreen company operates more than 500 drug stores in about 195 cities in thirty-five states. Nearly half of the stores are concentrated in the Chicago area. Merchandise manufactured by the company and its subsidiaries also is sold to about 750 independent druggists throughout the United States.

Expansion of the company has been rapid in the last half dozen years. Important acquisitions in recent years include Economical Drug company in the Chicago area and the Sun Drug company, which had a chain of thirty stores in western states. In the last few months large new units have been opened in Chicago, Miami, Fla., and San Francisco, Cal.

Sales for three months ended Dec. 31, 1937, totaled $18,837,836, an increase of 4.2 per cent over sales of $18,076,023 in the corresponding period a year earlier. At the end of the 1936 fiscal year there were 828,961 common shares outstanding.

1937	$67,890,000	$2,756,000	*$1.87
1936	61,784,000	2,785,000	3.04
1935	58,107,000	2,320,000	2.52
1934	53,655,000	2,559,000	3.00
1933	46,026,000	1,817,000	2.04
1932	47,612,000	1,623,000	1.75
1931	54,017,000	1,990,000	2.05

Early in 1937 the company sold $10,000,000 of new 4½ per cent preferred stock with warants attached for purchase of 100,000 common shares. This enabled the company to call for redemption $4,083,700 of 6½ per cent preferred stock. It also provided added capital for expansion.

There are now 1,292,791 shares of no par common stock outstanding. This includes the 32,900 shares sold to employés early in 1937 and the stock dividend of one additional common share for each two shares held March 2, 1937.

Current assets on Sept. 30, 1937, were $16,624,344, including $5,325,000 in cash, against current liabilities of $3,715,444, leaving net working capital of $12,908,900. A year earlier current assets were $13,069,746, including cash of $3,192,620, against current liabilities of $3,450,324, leaving net working capital of $9,619,422.

The company is paying 50 cents a share quarterly on the common. The common is somewhat speculative. The preferred is fairly good grade.

EVIDENCE NEAR END IN FEDERAL OIL PRICE SUIT

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The government climaxed its rebuttal testimony in the federal gasoline price fixing case tonight with the introduction of a so-called "submemorandum" regarding a meeting of major oil company representatives in Chicago Feb. 11, 1935.

A. H. Sus of Chicago, division manager of the Sinclair Refining company, was the principal rebuttal witness after the defense rested its case. Prosecutor Hammond Chaffetz said the government would have brief additional testimony tomorrow.

The government's charge that 16 major oil companies rigged the middle western wholesale gasoline market in 1935 and 1936 by controling only about 2 per cent of the gasoline sold in this area is based in part upon Sus' memorandum, which says in part that the major oil companies' "absorption" of surplus gasoline in the midcontinent area "would only be equivalent to curtailing their own crude [oil] runs 2 per cent."

Sus testified his memorandum, mentioning a steering committee that had been named, did not mean that any price was to be fixed but that "this buying was predicated upon the ability of the refiner to use this gasoline."

A STATEMENT OF CONDITION

which shows resources and liabilities on December 31, 1937 and which explains the nature of our business and what we are doing for citizens of Chicago and this community.

LOANS
38,570 time loans now outstanding, secured by collateral, by signatures, some by automobiles, and housing improvement loans, including those made under F. H. A. Title I. Since organization we have made over 586,900 loans for $143,776,000. It is a feature of our loans that borrowers pay them off under a definite retirement plan. Under State Banking Law we may lend 15% of our Capital and Surplus to any one individual or business concern, but $50 to $500 to $5,000 is the usual range of loans requested. — $9,708,398.82

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK STOCK
We are a member of the Federal Reserve System and own stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago equal to 3% of our Capital and Surplus. — 75,000.00

FURNITURE AND FIXTURES
We own no real estate. The vaults and other permanent equipment in our present quarters were installed by a bank which formerly occupied the premises. Our own substantial investment in furniture and fixtures has been absorbed out of earnings and is not carried as an asset on our books. — none

OTHER RESOURCES
We buy our supplies in large quantities and take advantage of trade discounts. This bracket contains cost of stationery and printing purchased in advance of requirements, insurance premiums, and minor items of prepaid expense. — 4,443.97

CASH
We do not provide the facilities for personal or commercial checking accounts payable on demand. Therefore, it is not necessary for us to carry large amounts of cash in our vaults for counter use. We maintain our reserve cash balances with the Federal Reserve and other leading Loop banks of Chicago. — 1,024,828.27

Total Resources $10,812,671.06

CAPITAL STOCK
Our paid-in capital has been doubled since organization twenty years ago. The Capital Stock now consists of 20,000 shares—par value $100 a share. — $2,000,000.00

SURPLUS AND UNDIVIDED PROFITS
We have never been obliged to cut into our Capital, Surplus, or Undivided Profits for extraordinary needs. Something has been added to our invested capital every year since we started to do business. — 1,541,158.11

DISCOUNT UNEARNED
It is our practice to make loans on a discount basis. However, we do not regard the discount as fully earned until the notes concerned have matured. — 334,915.82

RESERVES
Each month we set aside out of current earnings provision for interest on time and savings deposits, reserves for accrued taxes, and for possible losses. Doubtful paper and losses are written off at the end of each month. — 284,069.77

DIVIDENDS
We have paid moderate dividends since August 1, 1919. The amount set up in this bracket represents a quarterly dividend declared payable to stockholders on January 3, 1938. — 45,000.00

DEPOSITS
Our deposits consist of funds accumulated by borrowers to retire their loans at maturity and the time or savings pass book accounts of individuals, trustees, business firms, associations, and other groups. Interest on deposits is paid in compliance with regulations of the Federal Reserve Board. We are now paying 2½% interest per annum on Savings Pass Book Accounts and the same rate on Time Certificates of Deposit with maturities of six months or over. — 6,607,527.36

Total Liabilities $10,812,671.06

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures deposits in this bank with $5,000 maximum insurance for each depositor

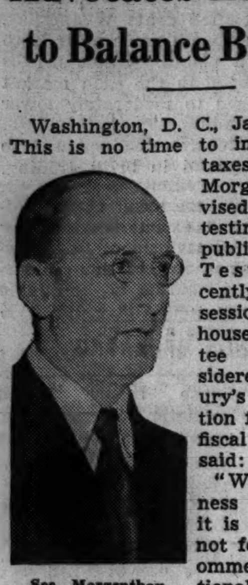
THIS IS NO TIME TO RAISE TAXES —MORGENTHAU

Advocates Economy to Balance Budget.



Sec. Morgenthau.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—This is no time to impose added taxes, Secretary Morgenthau advised congress in testimony made public today. Testifying recently at a closed session of the house subcommittee which considered the treasury's appropriation for the next fiscal year, he said:

"With the business situation as it is now, we do not feel like recommending additional taxes over and above the present tax structure. I think it is most important that we keep the revenue that we have on the present tax basis.

Urges Economy, Not Tax Boost.

"It is very difficult at this time to forecast what the situation will be eighteen months hence, but if we are going to have a balanced budget, speaking both for myself and the administration, I think the policy should be to accomplish it through economies rather than through increased taxes."

Asked by Representative Ludlow [D., Ind.] for his opinion as to how much longer the government could operate with a deficit and still maintain its credit, the secretary replied:

"I do not know. That is a pretty hard question to answer. Of course, we think we should balance the budget just as fast as we can, always keeping in mind that we do not have an unemployment situation. If we do, the administration will not let anybody starve. Barring that situation, the chances of balancing the budget are excellent."

Refuses to Guess on Slump.

Morgenthau refused to express an opinion on how long the business slump would continue. He said the country had been so convinced that the administration would not be able to control "runaway inflation" that "business generally stocked up pretty well."

"Then, when they felt that this administration would not stand for inflation and would let prices run away, they found themselves with more than normal inventories," he said.

Chairman Vinson [D., Ky.], of a house tax subcommittee, announced that its revision recommendations would be made public tomorrow. Public hearings are scheduled to begin Saturday when treasury officials testify.

Major Recommendations.

Major recommendations of the subcommittee are that the capital gains tax be eased and that the undistributed profits tax be lifted from corporations having incomes of less than $25,000 annually. Business spokesmen contend that both of these taxes were largely responsible for the recession.

Morgenthau favors a "cost of production" price basis instead of subsidies for silver it was disclosed. The house appropriations committee made public testimony in which the treasury secretary said:

"I am opposed to subsidies of any kind. I will make that statement for the record and will stand by it."

Asked if there was any "necessity for continuing the silver purchase act," Morgenthau replied:

Reports Profit on Silver.

The secretary said the treasury has made an actual as well as potential profit on the silver purchase act. He said administration of the act cost $286,761 in the 1937 fiscal year and the act's 50 per cent tax on speculative silver profits returned $633,712—a profit of $346,951.

Congress also received a recommendation from Morgenthau for legislation which would abolish holding companies for bank securities.

"There are eight or ten holding companies that hold a lot of bank stock and I think that is an unhealthy situation," he said.

J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, was quoted as saying he didn't believe such proposals were making much headway.

HYBRID SEED CORN SUPPLY MUCH LARGER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The agriculture department reported today the supply of hybrid seed corn was sufficient to plant nearly 15,000,000 acres, or about one seventh of the nation's total corn acreage. This supply is about five times last year's. Practically all the hybrid seed—described as higher yielding than the open-pollinated varieties—was available only to farmers in north central states, the department said.

The supply in Iowa and Illinois was said to be sufficient to plant about 50 per cent of the acreage of those states.

Employers Ask Again for Tax Extension

The plea of Illinois employers for more time to pay unemployment compensation taxes due this month was renewed yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The association informed Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue in Washington, D. C., that "most employers in the state do not have the cash to meet in a lump payment the state levy of 1.8 per cent on 1937 pay rolls."

Under the present federal ruling employers who fail to pay the Illinois tax in full by Jan. 29 will lose the 90 per cent credit on the federal unemployment tax to which they would otherwise be entitled. As a result many firms face the double taxation—a combined federal and state levy of 3.8 per cent—which means serious financial embarrassment to some employers.

Working Capital Tied Up.

All companies, the association pointed out, have suffered from the recession of business in the last four months. Many of them have their working capital tied up in frozen inventories because consumption has fallen off sharply.

"They will be judged delinquent by your department through no fault of their own but as a result of general conditions over which they have no control, and will be penalized at a time when industry is in great distress," the message said.

The pressure would be eased, the association suggested, if employers were permitted to pay the tax in quarterly instalments as is done with income taxes.

The association concluded with an "urgent" request that Helvering allow the 60 day extension for filing returns permitted under the social security act.

Senators Asked to Aid.

The association notified Senators Lewis and Dieterich of the tax hardship faced by employers and requested them to aid in obtaining an extension.

Helvering announced Wednesday that no general extension would be granted and individual exemptions would be allowed only when "strong reasons" could be shown. Helvering intimated that no request had been made by Illinois employers for an extension.

The manufacturers' association reminded Helvering that it had made a similar request last September. J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retailers, said such a request had been directed to Helvering in December by his group. Meek said that refusal of an extension would be a "severe blow" to thousands of large and small merchants.

REPORT LITTLE CAPITAL USED IN BIG RAIL PROFIT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Senate investigators heard from executives of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. today that the firm used "very little of its own capital" to make large profits in connection with the capitalization of Pennroad corporation in 1929.

However, George W. Bovenizer and Benjamin J. Buttenweiser, partners in the banking house, disputed the assertion of Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.], of the senate railroad finance committee that the firm "took practically no risk" to make profits of about $6,000,000. They said market conditions made possible a profit that might well have been a considerable loss. Records showed that most of the transactions took place shortly before and after the stock market crash of 1929.

The investigators said that Kuhn, Loeb had made $11,841,628 since 1924 through transactions related to consolidation activities of the Pennsylvania, Delaware and Hudson, and Wabash.

SAFE DRIVER REWARD PLAN IS CONTINUED

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Member companies of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters today reaffirmed a "safe driver reward plan," under which drivers will be granted an insurance rebate for operating without accident.

The plan, scheduled to go into effect Feb. 1, embraced none of the alternative proposals submitted by agents' associations, because, the bureau said, they offered "no adoptable improvements in the essentials of the plan as heretofore announced."

The associations had suggested a graduated reward for safe driving, a rebate of 10 per cent for the first year of safe operation, and later additional rebates up to 20 per cent. The associations advocated no increase in rates.

The national bureau, while offering a flat 15 per cent rebate annually, levies an initial advance in rates, agents' representatives contended, "so that the net reward is only 10.92 per cent of the basic rates."

Japanese Order Expected to Cut U. S. Cotton Exports

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The commerce department said today the Japanese government has ordered its cotton manufacturers to use 30 per cent synthetic fiber in their yarns to reduce imports of raw cotton. Officials said the new order, which will be effective Feb. 1, probably will reduce substantially Japanese imports of American cotton.

Continental Bank May Cut RFC Holdings

Directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company today are expected to vote the retirement on Feb. 1 of an additional $10,000,000 of the bank's $35,000,000 preferred stock now held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Of the $50,000,000 preferred sold to the government agency in 1933, a total of $15,000,000 already has been retired —$5,000,000 on Aug. 1, 1936, and $10,000,000 on Feb. 1, 1937.

If the preferred stock retirement is voted, a common stock dividend of $10,000,000, or 25 per cent, on the present common outstanding also will be voted, bringing the total common stock capitalization to $50,000,000.

Agrees to Increase Stock.

This action would be in accordance with the Continental's agreement with the RFC, under which the bank agreed to increase its common capitalization by the amount of each preferred retirement until the capitalization reached $50,000,000.

The expected retirement is made possible by the substantial earnings of the bank in 1937, when net income was $15,318,803, of which $2,332,345 was profit on the sale of securities.

Amalgamated Trust Promotions.

Directors of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank announced the promotion of L. K. Schlipper, assistant cashier, to assistant vice president, and the appointment of Walter A. Blumthal as assistant cashier. All directors were reëlected by the stockholders.

Winfield C. Warman and Longley Richards were elected assistant cashiers of the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago. There were no other changes.

Ray Cook was yesterday elected president of the First National Bank of Zeigler, Ill. He succeeds Guy F. Hitt, who resigned to become a vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

The following banks announced that all officers and directors were reëlected: Liberty National Bank of Chicago, Pullman Trust and Savings bank, and the Wheeling State bank.

All officers of the Austin State bank and First National Bank of Highland Park were reëlected.

LABOR HEAD SEES END OF SLUMP; URGES BUILDING

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Predicting the present business recession would be overcome before the end of the year, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today asserted the "greatest need of the moment" is the inauguration of a nation-wide building and construction program.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Green did not mention the C. I. O. by name but asserted the split in the ranks of labor was due to a "total disregard of unit procedure and democratic procedure." He also assailed proposals for incorporating trade unions.

The "sins and excesses of a small minority in labor" should not be seized upon, Green said, as "an excuse for subjecting the hosts of organized labor to government regulation and domination." He called upon business to accept "whole-heartedly" the principles of collective bargaining, and urged the "fullest coöperation" of business men and bankers in the furtherance of "a sound and constructive legislative and economic policy."

'A' ON TICKER TAPE TO MEAN ANACONDA; ATCHISON GIVEN 'SF'

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The coveted symbol "A" on the stock exchange ticker tape was shifted today to capital stock of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, from the common shares of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway.

The railroad stock was designated "SF," thus making it more readily recognizable by those who call the road the "Santa Fe" instead of the "Atchison."

Common stock of the Chrysler corporation drew the symbol "C" heretofore assigned to Anaconda Copper. Chrysler has been "K" on the tape.

The changes were announced by the committee on arrangements, effective Jan. 24. Some tape watchers saw the shift as indication of the increased trading interest in copper shares in the last few years, although the exchange constantly has been rearranging symbols to make them more representative of the companies behind the stocks.

BANK CLEARINGS DROP 17.4 PERCENT FROM YEAR AGO

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in the latest week ended Wednesday were off 17.4 per cent from a year ago in 22 leading cities of the United States, Dun and Bradstreet reported today. The preceding week, ended Jan. 5, had only five business days, but included first of the month settlements.

Bank check payments totaled $4,912,502,000 in the latest week, whereas a year ago the amount was $5,945,371,000. Clearings dropped $592,824,000 from the total of the five day week preceding. Between the two similar periods of 1937 there was a loss of $898,464,000.

At New York City clearings dropped to $3,014,069,000, off 19.8 per cent from the 1937 week, and the turnover at cities elsewhere aggregated $1,898,433,000, a decline of 13.1 per cent from the comparable week a year ago.

The important declines were that of 25.1 per cent at Pittsburgh; 22.9 per cent at Detroit; 21.4 per cent at New Orleans; 20.3 per cent at Boston, and 15.1 per cent at Buffalo.

AIR CONDITIONING IN CHICAGO SETS RECORD FOR 1937

New records in the number of air conditioning installations and in the capacity of plants installed in Chicago were set in 1937, the Commonwealth Edison company announced yesterday.

Air conditioning contracts for the year totaled 575, compared with 432 in 1936, an increase of 33 per cent. Capacity of the plants was 12,556 horsepower, against 8,719 in 1936, a gain of 44 per cent.

The highest number of contracts were made with private offices, where 127 installations were made in 1937, compared with 91 in 1936. Contracts for restaurants totaled 103; for general offices, 62; for residences, 57; for theaters, 35, and for shoe stores, 27.

The total number of air conditioning plants installed or contracted for in Chicago on Dec. 31 was 1,932, and total capacity was 70,207 horse power, the company reported.

Stocks Slide Late in Day on French Crisis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—Selling in the last hour of trading today shook the stock list from its lethargic state and forced leading issues to give up as much as 1½ points.

Some circles attributed the late weakness to the fresh crisis in the French franc in the absence of other news likely to affect prices. Up to that time the market had been given to fractional milling about, with indecision on the part of traders the dominant note.

Volume for the day receded to around 971,000 shares, compared with 1,209,000 shares on Wednesday.

Steel Leaders Decline.

In the industrial division steels, metals, and aviations were the focus of attention in the late activity. After holding close to previous levels, United States Steel common and Bethlehem were forced to give up 1¼ and 2¼ points, respectively. Anaconda, off 1⅛; International Nickel, off 1⅜, and American Smelting, off 2 points, were the hardest hit in the nonferrous metals division.

Boeing and Douglass, both off more than 1 point, were the targets in the aviation group.

As a result of the pressure on these and other industrials the Dow-Jones average for thirty representative issues declined 1.62 to 131.60.

Utilities Join in Decline.

Despite the generally favorable developments in the public utility field, power and light shares drooped with the rest of the list. Closing prices, however, were close to yesterday's finals. Modest fractional declines were the rule.

Gold mining shares were buoyant as a group. Homestake Mining rose 3½ points to 57, the high price for the year. Alaska-Juneau and Dome Mines gained fractions.

Losses of fractions to 2 points appeared in the farm implement shares. Montgomery Ward gave up 1¼ points in the mail order group, and others eased fractions. Oils were lower, but losses did not exceed 1 point.

Automobile issues again were plentifully supplied. Slightly more than 1 point was shaved from Chrysler's previous mark, and Yellow Truck and General Motors lost major fractions.

CHICAGO FIRM SUES FOR $476,522 ON FEDERAL JOBS

The Joseph A. Holpuch Construction company, 4010 West Madison street, yesterday filed a suit in the Court of Claims in Washington, D. C., for $476,552, which it asserts is owing to it for construction work on federal buildings.

Attorneys for the company said it had severe losses from changes in building specifications by the government and inability to hire workers under conditions imposed by federal regulations. It also lost $112,659, the firm asserted, from the government's cancellation of its contract for construction of a hospital building and nurses' quarters at Leavenworth, Kas.

The company listed other projects and losses as follows: officers' quarters, Fort Knox, Ky., $86,082; hospital, Fort Knox, Ky., $38,488; officers' quarters, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., $34,712; home for defective delinquents, Springfield, Mo., $63,436; barracks, Fort Knox, Ky., $141,145.

WHEAT BOOSTED BY DUST STORM, DROUTH IN WEST

Prices Highest Since Late in October.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .99	$ .96⅝	$1.33⅜
Corn	.61⅛	.61	1.12
Oats	.32¼	.32	.54⅜
Rye	.77	.75⅞	1.12½
Soy beans	1.00½	1.00	1.60½

Reports of dry weather and dust storms in parts of the west furnished the background yesterday for a wave of buying in wheat futures. Prices advanced about 3 cents a bushel in American markets to the highest levels since late in October. May wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade sold at 99¼ cents a bushel. Closing trades were within small fractions of a cent a bushel of the top.

A weather bureau report which suggested there was a deficiency in moisture in states which normally seed about 70 per cent of the total acreage for the country, and likened the current situation to that in 1934 and 1936, attracted the attention of speculators.

Two Years' Crops Short.

The aggregate wheat crop in the two years was well below actual domestic requirements, and approximately 20,000,000 acres were not harvested as the result of drouth.

Although there have been many reports recently of a lack of subsoil reserve moisture over a large part of the winter and spring wheat belts, the trade paid little attention to them until yesterday, regarding it too early in the season for a crop scare.

Local speculators bought wheat futures freely on the way up and outside trade showed evidence of expanding after the market became active. September wheat sold at a new high for the season.

Smaller Gains in Winnipeg.

This trading had a tendency to limit the upturn in the Canadian market, where net gains were 1 to 1¾ cents, the latter on the October contract, which sold at a new high for the season.

Corn and other grains were little affected by the advance in wheat. Corn futures declined around ½ cent a bushel early to a new low since Dec. 29, but rallied later on local buying and short covering to close ⅜ cent higher. Export sales were finally estimated at 250,000 bushels in all positions. There were no purchases of corn yesterday for deferred shipment from the country for the first time since June 1, 1937.

Sale of U. S. 'Small Bonds' Proves Costly

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Records of a congressional committee disclosed today that two administration activities—selling savings certificates and collecting social security taxes—are proving unusually expensive.

Edwin L. Kilby, assistant commissioner of the treasury's public debt service, told the house appropriations committee the small denomination bond program had cost about $3,606,870 from 1935 to 1937 and that it would cost approximately $6,095,000 during the next two years.

"It is true that they are an expensive security to market," Kilby said, "but I do not believe any security has been better marketed or more widely spread among the population. They create an interest in government, I believe."

Cost Is $1.44 Per $100.

Later in the hearings, Frederick I. Evans, budget officer of the internal revenue bureau, told the committee, in response to a question by Rep. Ludlow [D., Ind.] as to whether the social security taxes cost more to collect than other taxes, that the bureau spent $1.44 to collect each $100 in social security and railroad retirement taxes.

The committee learned, however, the bureau hoped to save about $4,000,000 annually by having the social security tax returns filed on a quarterly basis instead of monthly.

The committee was told that the high cost of selling small bonds was attributable to the expense of promotion and to the detailed bookkeeping necessitated by the law prohibiting any one person from acquiring more than $10,000 worth in one year.

Bookkeeping Is Costly.

The high cost of social security tax collection was attributed to the installation of extensive bookkeeping systems to check the millions returns required every month. This year, the treasury is trying to reduce the amount of bookkeeping by changing the payment of old age taxes from a monthly to a quarterly basis.

Some of the expenses listed in connection with the sale of bonds included magazine advertising, booklets, posters, travel, engraving, and printing and purchase of distinctive paper.

The committee slashed $500,000 from the amount requested for this work.

Set Utilities Power-Light Hearings for Next Week

Hearings involving litigation over the reorganization of Utilities Power and Light corporation under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law yesterday were set for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday by Federal Judge William H. Holly. The principal matter to be argued is a petition of Willoughby G. Walling, trustee for the company, and Melvin M. Hawley, his attorney, for the allowance of $3,500 and $5,000 a month, respectively, in payment for services. The question of the voting of the stock in elections and affairs of various subsidiaries of the company also will be considered.

SENATE GROUP IS TOLD WHY INDUSTRY LAGS

Government Blamed by NRA Official.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—A former deputy administrator of the NRA and a spokesman for the durable goods industries asserted today before the senate committee on unemployment that the government's price raising and price pegging policies, excessive regulation, and a lack of confidence on the part of business were responsible for the nation's economic ills.

William J. Kelly—lashes administration spokesmen.

Louis E. Kirstein, former NRA official, told the committee that there should be regulation of the various stock and commodity exchanges, but that "regulation should not be at the expense of impeding the flow of capital into new industries."

Program Is Defeated.

"Many of the policies initiated in the last two years, both in public and private business," he said, "have had the result of increasing costs and therefore prices at the very time when we all stressed the objective of increasing purchasing power. Obviously, various factors must be kept in balance. Such legislation, or the various so-called fair trade practice laws, have tended to increase cost at the time when we should have sought to stimulate the reduction of cost so that real wages could enjoy a greater purchasing capacity.

"Certainly, one of the basic factors in halting the recovery which was so markedly under way from 1933 to the middle of 1937 was the failure of the capital goods industry to expand as it has in previous recovery periods."

Nothing to Aid Confidence.

William J. Kelly, president of the Machinery and Allied Products institute, said there was "nothing about the public statements of certain conspicuous spokesmen for the administration during the last two or three weeks or prior thereto that would inspire confidence." Presumably he referred to the radio blasts of Secretary Harold L. Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, who blamed monopolistic practices and "business sitdown strike" for the new depression.

Kelly undertook to explain just why the capital goods industries failed to expand. He expressed the

4% Bridge Revenue Bonds

Dated December 1, 1937 — Due December 1, 1957

Coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000. Registerable as to principal only. Principal and semi-annual interest (June and December 1st) payable at the principal office of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in New York City. Callable in whole or in part by lot at the option of the Board of County Commissioners of Dakota County, Nebraska, or through the operation of the sinking fund, on any interest payment date on thirty days' published notice at 103 if called on or prior to December 1, 1941; 102 on or prior to December 1, 1945; 101 on or prior to December 1, 1949; and 100 thereafter to maturity, plus accrued interest in each case.

The First National Bank of Omaha, Omaha, Nebraska, Trustee

In the opinion of counsel, the interest is exempt from all present federal taxes on income and exempt from local taxation in the State of Nebraska.

Security: These bonds are issued by Dakota County, Nebraska, for the purchase from the Missouri River-Sioux City Bridge Company of a privately owned toll bridge, connecting the city of Sioux City, Iowa, with South Sioux City, Nebraska, on Federal Highway No. 20, and are payable solely from the net revenues derived from the operation of the bridge. The bridge is of steel and masonry construction with a 20-foot roadway; is 2,480 feet in length, and, in the opinion of engineers, has been modernized to meet existing and potential traffic conditions.

Traffic and Earnings: The average gross revenues resulting from the operation of the bridge by the last prior owner, Missouri River-Sioux City Bridge Company, and as furnished by the said Company for the ten year period ending January 1, 1937, amounts to $223,772.30. Adapting operation of the bridge to municipal ownership and allowing $50,000 for operation, shows average annual net earnings of $173,772.30 for this period. Maximum interest charges on the bonds will amount to $74,000, leaving an estimated $99,772 for debt retirement the first year. Average net earnings are equivalent to 2.35 times maximum interest charges. Based on this record of earnings the bonds should be fully retired at the call prices approximately 5½ years in advance of maturity.

Sinking Fund: The Trust Agreement under which the bonds are issued provides for a Sinking Fund, into which there shall be paid each month the net earnings of the preceding month, as more particularly defined in such agreement. All money in such fund, after providing for interest requirements on the outstanding bonds, for the next succeeding interest payment, shall be used for the retirement of bonds either by purchase at or below the call price, or by call. Each six months any money in such fund that has not been used for the purchase of bonds shall be used for the calling of bonds by lot.

The legality of this issue has been approved by Messrs. Chapman & Cutler, Attorneys, Chicago, Ill.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Further cleavage of bond market sentiment was indicated today by broader demand and rising prices for United States governments and low yield corporate liens coincident with continued weakness in various junior rails.

Reports investment circles gave a good reception to the $80,000,000 Consolidated Edison 3½s, formally offered today, appeared to stimulate demand through the list of seasoned ratings.

Selling in the rail group again converged on some loans of Baltimore and Ohio and Erie, but secondary rails generally had slight support. Erie Genesee 6s, which fell 19 points in last week's selling, dropped another 20 points on a small turnover.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were quiet and irregular yesterday. Most of the volume leaders closed somewhat lower than on Wednesday. Commonwealth Edison was down ⅛ to 27⅛, General Household closed at 2⅝, off ⅛, and Marshall Field dropped ⅛ to 9⅛.

Volume of trading was 23,000 shares, compared with 32,000 on the previous day. Of the 88 issues traded, 23 advanced, 30 declined and 35 were unchanged. The Tribune average of 20 stocks closed at 10.89, off 0.09 from the preceding close. It was the first time in 12 trading days that the average has declined from the previous close.

Dollar volume on the exchange in December totaled $9,683,431, compared with $9,622,638 in November. In 1937, volume was $190,268,068, against $292,747,353 in 1936.

Bank Stocks.

Stocks of the First National bank, Northern Trust company, and City National Bank and Trust company were strong yesterday. First National was bid up another $3 to $233. It sold at $203 at the end of 1937.

Northern Trust shares were quoted at $515 bid, $45 higher than at the end of last year and $10 higher than on Wednesday. One dealer posted a price of $518 bid. City National rose $3 to $115 bid. It was $104 bid at the end of 1937. Continental shares were unchanged at $105 bid.

Chicago Title and Trust company stock gained another $2 at $145 bid. It was quoted at $134 bid at the end of 1937.

COTTON

Cotton futures prices moved within narrow limits yesterday. Liquidation by holders of January contracts and professional and hedge selling were offset by trade and commission house buying. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to .01 cent higher. Other American markets were .04 cent lower to .04 cent a pound higher.

A fairly active demand for cotton textiles was reported yesterday in New York with prices somewhat firmer. Sales during the first three days of the week were estimated at over 50,000,000 yards.

Spot cotton closed unchanged with New Orleans, 8.80 cents; New York, 8.70 cents; Houston, 8.60 cents, and Galveston at 8.55 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Cocoa for future delivery spurted 0.21 to 0.25 cent a pound in New York yesterday on consumer and speculative buying attributed to fears that supplies of cocoa beans in the producing region of North Africa may be withheld from market.

Cocoa bean gatherers of the Gold Coast region have called a meeting for Jan. 17 to discuss a "sitdown strike" in protest against the low price of cocoa in world markets. Little cocoa has been imported by the United States from the region in recent weeks because of low prices in the New York market.

Tin for immediate delivery declined 0.75 cent to 42.25 cents a pound. Moderate sales of export copper were reported as low as 10.65 cents a pound, compared with a closing price of 10.80 cents Wednesday, but final sales were made at 10.70 to 10.80 cents a pound. Other metals were unchanged in the cash market and unchanged to moderately lower in futures trading.

Egg futures were lower at the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday on reports of heavier local fresh receipts and prospects of more favorable producing weather in the middle west. January contracts dropped ⅛ cent to 18⅞ cents a dozen.

Butter futures firmed at the start under the influence of the government warehouse report issued Wednesday, but later lost the gains to close unchanged. Cash butter was unchanged.

COLUMBIA GAS SUBMITS TO CONTROL LAW

Proposes Plan for Future Financial Needs.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The Columbia Gas and Electric company today registered under the utility holding company act of 1935. It is the fourth big utility company to accede to the law since federal courts decided the registration provisions were constitutional.

[The securities commission had called on utility holding companies to register as the first step in enforcement of the act which requires regulation of such companies and the splitting up or elimination of some of them.]

Chairman W. O. Douglas of the securities commission, said he welcomed the decision of the company to register and join in tackling some of the problems faced both by the government and by the industry.

Purpose of Registration.

Columbia Gas and Electric was said to have been pondering registration for the last year. Directors authorized the officials to file after the company had been conferring for two months, according to E. R. Reynolds, president, in formulation of a voluntary plan to enable the corporation to meet future financial requirements in conformity with terms of the utility act.

"The purpose of this plan," said Reynolds, "is to make such corporate changes as will enable the commission to find that the corporation and its subsidiaries constitute an integrated public utility holding company system and also comply with the other requirements of the utility act. The plan is not conditioned upon any public financing."

Plan Is Not Completed.

The plan has not been completed, but will be presented to the SEC as soon as further details are worked out, Reynolds said.

The other big utilities who have registered are the North American company, American Water Works and Electric company, and American Light and Traction company.

On Monday the United States Supreme court set Feb. 7 for hearing of the appeal of the Electric Bond and Share company in the test of constitutionality of the law which the utilities have so bitterly opposed.

FEDERAL BOARD TO PROBE RADIO AND WIRE RATES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The federal communications commission voted Tuesday to make a broad investigation of the rates of the major telegraph, radio, and cable companies, it was announced today.

In a dissenting opinion Commissioner T. A. M. Craven said two inquiries were needed, one expeditious hearing limited to the immediate rate situation to relieve the "highly critical" financial situation of the companies, and an extended investigation "of the major and more fundamental problems involved in the existing communication structure of the country."

The commission set Feb. 14 as the date for hearing on the applications of the companies for rate increases and on other matter which Commissioner Craven said were "not clearly specified" and would make a "long drawn out case" which would "not meet the situation presented."

U. S. Navy Official Reports Bids to Supply Steel Fair

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy, reported to President Roosevelt today that a series of tests had shown that recent bids on steel for the navy constituted a fair price. He said the procurement division of the treasury and the navy were allowed to examine the books of a friendly steel company, and that the examination showed the cost of steel had not been exaggerated.

Maytag Company Recalls 1,000 as Plants Reopen

Newton, Ia., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The Maytag company, washing machine manufacturers, today recalled 1,000 men to their jobs after a shutdown of several weeks. Other workers will be recalled as operations warrant, plant officials said.

Fish—3.

Canning and packing processes have been developed to a high degree of efficiency and satisfaction. Much of the work of cleaning, wrapping, and packaging is done by machinery, but in canning processes most fish products are packed by hand. Salmon is a major exception, and also is one of the few fish not put through some drying or cooking process. Salmon canning is the most important division of the American fishery industry.

Fish canning in the United States began in the 1820s. Processes as now developed preserve a large part of the natural flavor and permit fish to be shipped and kept on store and pantry shelves without spoiling.

Cans in which fish are packed go through a sterilizing and vacuum process before being sealed. Modern methods have seen rolled seams replace solder sealing. Another reflection of modern trends is the growing use of glass jars in recent years.

Along with refrigeration and transportation progress, canning and packaging development has been a major contribution in harnessing the uncertainties of supply—maybe you catch fish and maybe you don't—to meet distribution problems. Science continually is seeking to effect further progress.

Tomorrow: More about fish.

Joseph A. Rushton.

The spring term of the educational institute sponsored by the Chicago Association of Stock Exchange Firms will begin Jan. 31, Joseph A. Rushton, chairman of the association, announced yesterday. Courses are brokerage and accounting by L. B. McLaughlin, brokerage law by J. Arthur Miller, investment analysis by Gail C. Belden, and regulation of the security business by Kenneth L. Smith.

C. Ray Phillips, receiver for the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company for the last 5 years, has been elected president of the Automatic Products company to succeed Edwin C. Clark, who resigned but who continues as a director. Phillips formerly was a vice president of the State Bank of Chicago.

Delmar G. Roos has been elected vice president and chief engineer of Willys-Overland Motors. He has been consulting engineer for Humber, Ltd., a British auto maker, for the last year and formerly was chief engineer for Studebaker.

A testimonial dinner for P. E. Kroehler, president of the Kroehler Manufacturing company, was given by 55 of his salesmen attending the furniture market. The company has 10 large plants and has headquarters in the Furniture Mart.

Philip A. Benson, president of the Dime Savings bank, Brooklyn, and first vice president of the American Bankers' association, will speak on "Progress and Prospects in Banking" at the banquet session of the annual midwinter conference of the Illinois Bankers' association in the Palmer house on Jan. 19. Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, will speak on "Protecting Bank Depositors."

COURT NARROWS RIVERS ISSUE IN TVA TEST SUIT

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The three-judge federal court hearing litigation here between the 18 private utility corporations and the Tennessee Valley Authority today in a ruling narrowed the issues on navigation by excluding all detailed testimony on this question. The ruling was based upon a statement the United States Supreme court made in the Ashwander case in which the Wilson Dam was held to be legal property of the United States; and that TVA has authority to dispose of electric energy generated at the dam.

The ruling was interpreted in legal circles to imply that the three-judge court in preparing the findings of fact will exclude much of the expert testimony on navigation and leave for itself only one major question to decide. That is, whether the congress authorized the TVA to improve navigation on the Tennessee, and if so, has the TVA followed the mandate of congress?

Leader of Steel Scrap Men Fights Ban on Exports

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—There is no economic or legal justification for any proposal to stop exports of scrap iron and scrap steel, Michael V. Bonomo, president of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, asserted today. This country produces more than it consumes and shutting off exports would do the same sort of damage to this country that it would to agriculture or manufacture, he said. Bonomo said 40,000,000 tons were remelted in this country for all industrial and peace purposes, and less than 10 per cent was exported.

BANKS PILE UP MORE MILLIONS OF IDLE DOLLARS

Caused by Trade Slump; Less Money Circulates.

Another 100 million dollars of unemployed money piled up in the banks in the week ended Wednesday, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The depression in business and industrial activity has been swelling money held in unused reserves for several weeks. Since Dec. 22 there has been an expansion of 420 million dollars in these funds.

Last week's gain in reserves brings the total close to the level reached last spring when the reserve board put into effect the third of a series of increases in bank reserve requirements to lessen the danger of an unsound expansion in credit. Indices show that business and industry began to slow up last year almost at the same time the reserve board's order went into effect.

Hold 1 Billion 390 Million.

The report of New York banks showed a continued shift of funds out of commercial credit channels into government securities and other investments. Commercial loans fell 6 millions, holdings of government securities increased 25 millions, and investments in securities other than government bonds gained 55 millions.

A better demand for commercial credit was shown in the statement of Chicago banks which reported an increase of 4 millions in advances to industrial, business, and agricultural borrowers. Bank funds invested in government securities also increased here, gaining 4 millions over the preceding week.

Currency Circulation Falls.

Contributing to the expansion in reserve funds was the further decline of 115 million dollars in currency circulation. Circulation has been shrinking steadily since the peak was reached during the holiday season.

Monetary gold stocks listed showed no change from the preceding week.

1937 NET INCOME OF R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO LOWER

Loss Due to Ohio Floods Reduces Earnings.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company yesterday reported net income for 1937 of $27,602,372, or $2.76 a common share, compared with $29,253,135, or $2.92 a share, in 1936. The 1937 figure includes a deduction of $613,654 for flood casualty loss. Before this deduction 1937 income was $28,216,026, or $2.82 a share.

Net sales in 1937 were $302,999,161, an increase of 5 per cent over 1936 sales of $289,318,164.

James A. Gray, president, in a letter to stockholders accompanying the annual report said:

"During 1937, again, the higher prices paid to farmers for leaf tobacco and the heavier requirements of inventory to take care of continuing expansion in volume of the company's principal brands are reflected in substantially higher inventories, which on Dec. 31, 1937, were $23,313,816 larger than at the end of the preceding year."

Explains Flood Loss.

The letter also points out that the flood loss of $613,654 was incurred because insurance companies had not been willing to carry flood risks on locations along the Ohio river, but that since the flood, the company has purchased land at higher levels to avoid future flood damage. During 1937, the company made plant additions and improvements costing $3,189,989.

Bankers Trust company of New York had net operating earnings in 1937 of $7,369,144, compared with $7,326,847 in 1936, S. Sloan Colt, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday. In addition, he said, $1,228,013 were credited to undivided profits, representing recoveries from reserves and miscellaneous credits.

George W. Davison, chairman of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, New York, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that the bank earned about $7.50 a share in 1937, compared with $6.50 a share in 1936.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Winter at the Mill.

January 13, 1938.

ONE plump cottontail that makes its home on the Wheaton farm doubtless would like to lodge a complaint about the way the boys there are working the small sawmill. This rabbit had found a warm protected loafing place beneath a piece of cardboard that had been left under the long log carrier of the sawmill. When not feeding, the cottontail found this sheltered spot ideal for its midday nap.

The other day, when the boys began to work around the sawmill, they disturbed this cottontail. Out popped the scared bunny on the double quick. It hustled away through the woods to find safety and quiet in another place.

The first work with the sawmill this year was accomplished against a wintry, north woods setting. The recent snow set the stage for the work. There was so much snow that one of the men had to use an old broom to sweep off the logs and the machinery before the work could begin. To add to the winter atmosphere, the workers brought out a bob sled, hitched up a team of horses, and used this typical midwinter outfit to haul one big oak log about a half mile across the farm. When the tractor was hooked to the sawing machinery and the big blade began to whine as it cut into the logs, the quiet of the winter woods was broken. You could hear the saw for a long distance in the woods. Operating the mill to cut oak logs will be the principal outdoor job during the coming weeks.

Jelly Test Succeeds.

The experiment to test the quality of jelly made from frozen wild crabs has proved a real success. One of the farm women went into the woods the other day and picked up enough crabs to fill a small basket. The fruit had fallen to the ground some time ago, and was frozen solid. The frozen apples were cooked in one of the kitchens with the result that some of the farm people have been enjoying a new supply of wild crab jelly which is every bit as good if not better than that made some weeks ago.

The women made jelly of the wild crabs when they ripened on the trees last fall, when they found that their efforts produced a clear, orange colored jelly which every one liked. The product of the frozen fruit tastes much the same, but the women found one advantage in preparing the fruit after it has been frozen—the apples do not require as much cooking as those picked before "frost time."

Trap Catches Cat.

The live traps on the farm, which capture prowling animals that disturb the poultry, haven't made many catches lately. The most recent furbearer to wander into one of the big traps was a cat . . . one of those house cats that is more wild than domesticated. It was caught a few days ago. Apparently it had been living in the woods and getting food by catching whatever small rodents it could find.

The box elder tree which stands in the barnyard near the flockmaster's house is showing its age so plainly that the turkeys which like to roost in this tree may soon have to move on. Apparently the limbs of the box elder are decaying. Recently several of them have broken under the weight of the fat turkeys, dropping the startled birds to the ground.

URGES POOLING EARNINGS TO AID WEAK RAILWAYS

Trustee for Chicago Road Proposes Plan.

Luther M. Walter.

A plan for "pooling" part of the earnings of profitably operated railroads to help support carriers operating at a loss was proposed yesterday by Luther M. Walter, trustee of the Chicago Great Western railroad, at interstate commerce commission hearings before Commissioner Clyde Aitchison at the Morrison hotel. The hearings are being held in connection with the railroads' request for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

"It seems most unfair," Walter said, "that some railroads by virtue of more advantageous locations should swell a chest already full at the expense of less fortunate roads."

Plan Based on Rate Boost.

Walter's proposal provides for a "pool" to be built up from the revenues which would be received by carriers as a result of the proposed 15 per cent rate increase. Nothing would be paid into the pool from revenues received under the present rate scale.

All roads, however, which have net operating income larger than a certain percentage return on the capital investment [Walter used 2½ per cent for illustration] would, under the plan, pay into the pool whichever was the smaller of the following two sums: [1] all of the excess over the 2½ per cent return, or [2] 95 per cent of the revenues from the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

If the carrier did not earn as large a return as 2½ per cent then it would pay nothing into the pool, and would be entitled to withdraw from the pool a sum sufficient to bring a 2½ per cent return.

Tells How Plan Would Work.

An exhibit presented by Walter showed that, using about 125 of the country's leading railroads on the basis of 1936 trafic, $158,686,000 would be paid into the pool by the profitable roads and $85,197,000 would be withdrawn from the pool by the unprofitable ones, if the rate increase were granted.

Walter also said the wage increases granted railway employés in August and October should be canceled because of increasing costs and less trafic.

Max W. Babb, president of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, said his company favored rates which would allow carriers to operate efficiently and receive a fair return on their investments.

SENATE GROUP IS TOLD WHY INDUSTRY LAGS

Government Is Blamed by NRA Official.

fear that "a philosophy which started out to legislate us into prosperity will reform us into poverty."

Declaring that manufacturers of durable goods predict a drop of 41 per cent in their business for the first six months of 1938, as compared with the same period of 1937, or a drop of 17 per cent under the latter half of 1937, Kelly said:

"The durable goods industries survive in business through long-range plans, plans which are not limited to months or to short pulls as is possible in some of the great industries of the country. As a prerequisite to long term terms for durable goods purchases, there are three essentials, each of which is absolutely necessary to sustained recovery. The first of these is confidence. The second is an open and free flowing capital market. The third is equitable and reasonable taxation.

Nothing to Bolster Confidence.

"There is nothing about price-fixing that inspires confidence. What the American people want is stiffer competition and lower prices. Government in recent years and until lately has thrown its influence behind the raising and the pegging of prices.

"There is nothing about a sitdown strike that inspires confidence on the part of the employer or the investing public, either in the men who sit or in the labor organization which approves their sitting, or in the law enforcing officials who permitted and may again permit them to sit undisturbed. I need not remind you further of the costly sitting that was done, starting last spring.

"There is nothing in governmental anti-saving policies [such as the undistributed earnings surtax and suppression of the capital markets] that inspires confidence.

"National Planning" Harmful.

"There is nothing in the frequently advocated philosophy of national economic planning, with its essential coercion of free enterprise by government, which inspires confidence on the part of the operator to seek or the investor to provide capital for new or expanding enterprise.

"An operator in the durable goods industries, forced by the nature of his business to make long-range plans, must weigh these conflicting and discouraging factors. A little fellow with a thousand dollars of venture funds, to be prudent about investing that money, wisely takes into consideration not only the factors I have enumerated, but many more.

"This investor thinks of federal legislation of the type of NRA in 1934 which suspended the anti-trust laws, the AAA, the Robinson-Patman anti-price discrimination act of 1936, the Guffey coal acts of 1935 and 1937, the Miller-Tydings resale price maintenance act of 1937, the national labor relations act, the proposed wage and hour legislation, and the pending federal licensing bill and asks 'Where are we going?'"

STUDEBAKER'S TIME PAYMENTS Are Astonishingly Easy, AND HERE'S WHY:

Buying a car on time from Studebaker, not only assures you of a more than fair deal but positively eliminates any embarrassments that might grow out of financing through an outside company. STUDEBAKER FINANCES THEIR OWN TIME PAYMENT DEALS. Thus allowing fairer rates and payments fitting exactly with your budget. [illegible]
